UN Envoy Silences Guns in Holy Land

'PET' 'COON TURNS ON TWO-LEGGED FRIENDS

Call of wild sent pet raccoon on rampage in home of Mrs. Velma Flewin, Glen Lake, right, Wednesday and resulted in severe bites to Mrs. Flewin, son James, nine, and daughter Sharry, three. 'Coon had been treated by children as gentle pet; let into house, it suddenly bit Sharry on face; Mrs. Flewin snatched up the girl, ran out of the house; 'coon pursued, biting her ankles; James rushed out, armed with stick, drove off 'coon, but not before being bitten on fingers and thumb. Zoo curator Alan Best of Vancouver today warned tamed wild animals often revert to nature, should be treated with extreme caution. "'Coons tame well but revert as they grow older," he said. Blonde Hunted In $5,000 Grab From B.C. Bank

Drove Getaway Car For Burnaby Gunmen

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two armed gunmen, working with a blonde woman escape driver, today robbed a Burnaby branch of the Bank of Montreal of $5,000.

Vancouver police and Burnaby RCMP officers combined efforts to try to track down the holdup trio.

The two men, armed with "black, snub-nosed revolvers," entered the bank only 15 minutes after it opened.

The blonde woman, believed to be about 22 or 23 years old, waited outside and drove the dark blue, late-model getaway car.

"PRETTY SLICK"

A service station operator working directly across the street from the bank knew nothing of the robbery until police cars howled to a stop in front of the building.

"They must have been pretty slick," said Ellis Johnson, ". . . I didn't even hear a shout or see a car pull away."

Reg Carter, another witness, said the men "jumped into the car and the girl drove away . . ."

The holdup came shortly after five RCMP officers had gathered at a nearby police court to give evidence in the trial of three men charged in the April 3 robbery of a Royal Bank of Canada on the other side of Burnaby.

An RCMP officer, Cpl. Bud Johnstone, killed one of the robbers and wounded one other. He was shot eight times.

IT COSTS $56 TO JEER REDS NOW IN LONDON

LONDON (Reuters)—Three persons who jeered at Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev when the Russian leaders arrived in London, Wednesday, were fined in court today.

John Jordan, 32, and Miss Lesley Green, 30, were each fined £20 ($56) for "using insulting behavior likely to cause a breach of the peace."

Nicholas Tolstoy, a namesake of the famous Russian writer, was fined £1 for assaulting a railroad policeman.

Eden Starts 'Little Summit' Talks With Reds

(CP and UP Dispatches)

LONDON—Russia's Premier Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev today honored Britain's war dead and made a morning round of courtesy calls on the second day of their 10-day visit to Britain.

In mid-afternoon they plunged into a "little Summit Conference" with Prime Minister Eden and Foreign Secretary Lloyd.

It was expected the Russian and British leaders would undertake a sweeping review of the "cold war," particularly the Middle East.

Earlier British officials let it be known Prime Minister Eden intended to give the Russians a stern warning that meddling in the Middle East could touch off a third world war.

LONDONERS COOL

Only small, silent crowds watched the Russians' closely escorted convoy speed through London. Unlike their arrival on Wednesday, there were neither cheers nor catcalls.

Police had a nervous moment outside Buckingham Palace. An eight-year-old boy accidentally dropped his air pistol to the sidewalk. He was immediately surrounded by police and whisked away—but not arrested.

Earlier the police escort hustled away a smartly dressed woman, who shrieked at Bulganin "I want to talk to you" as he emerged from the swank Claridge's Hotel to start the day's drive.

The first call of the day by the Soviet leaders was at the cenotaph in Whitehall. They placed a wreath there, and then drove to Buckingham Palace to sign the visitors' book. The Queen was on an out-of-town visit, but she is scheduled to meet the Russians at Windsor Sunday.

From the palace, the Russians drove back to Whitehall for their formal "arrival" call on Prime Minister Eden required by protocol.

Hammarskjold Talks Egypt, Israel Into Unconditional Truce

(AP and UP Dispatches)

JERUSALEM—Dag Hammarskjold announced today Egypt and Israel have agreed to an unconditional ceasefire on their borders, effective at 6 p.m. Wednesday, "and from that time on."

The United Nations secretary-general's announcement came through headquarters of the UN Palestine truce commission almost 24 hours after the agreed deadline for an end to the hostilities such as those which flared dangerously two weeks ago.

A UN spokesman said the Israeli and Egyptian governments have notified Hammarskjold that as from 6 p.m. (8 a.m. Victoria time) Wednesday orders were in force on both sides that "no military or paramilitary forces, including nonregular forces, may shoot across the demarcation line or pass over that line for any purpose whatsoever."

MAJOR ACCOMPLISHMENT

The Egypt-Israeli agreement is the major achievement to date of Hammarskjold's peace mission, in which he has conferred during the last 10 days with government officials of Israeli and Egypt, leader of the Arab nations.

The cease-fire will permit Mammarskjold to tackle the core of his peace-mission task—working out a permanent solution to the differences between the Arabs and Irsaelis. He will fly at week's end to new peace talks at the capitals of Lebanon, Jordan and Syria.

Hammarskjold conferred last week with Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser, and during the last two days with Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion.

The apparent easing of tension in the Middle East coincided with these developments:

1. British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd reassured parliament in London that Britain stands firmly alongside the United States and France as guarantors of the peace in the Middle East.

2. U.S. Ambassador Edward Lawson left Jerusalem for Washington for consultations.

3. The foreign ministers of Norway, Sweden, Finland, Denmark and Iceland meeting in Copenhagen were reported to have decided against a joint Scandinavian intervention in the Middle East.

NEW MID-EAST ARMY CHIEF NAMED BY U.K.

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (Reuters)—Lt.-Gen. Sir Geoffrey Bourne, director of operations against the Communists in the jungle war here, has been appointed British commander-in-chief of the army in the Middle East ,it was announced today.

The tough, one-armed Bourne made a dual reputation as a ruthless anti-Communist fighter in Malaya as well as supporter of the country's march towards independence.

MORE PLANS AFOOT

Taxes Up Mill or Two Mayor Guesses

Mayor Percy Scurrah altered his earlier prediction of a stable mill-rate today an dtold a Rotary Club luncheon taxes may go up "one or two mills" this year.

"I don'5t think council would agree to more. However, figures are not final or complete, so don't say I said so yet," he added.

He said if there is anincrease over the present 42½ mill-rate, "for every mill added, your tax bill will go up $4.50 for each $100 in taxes you pay."

He said one mill is now equal to $78,000.

The mayor laid responsibility for the possible increase on "increased costs and needed improvements."

He said he was assured the new Point Ellice Bridge can be built for the $500,000 originally estimated and said this would leave $75,000 in the bridge fund collected from reverted land sales. This, he said, should be use das start of a fund for a new garbage wharf, which he estimated would cost $100,000.

"I'm hoping to sell it to council. We would have ample money to pay cash and not have to ask the taxpayers for any," for the project if reverted land sales are maintained at the present rate.

THIEVES GET VALUABLE PAINTINGS AT MONACO

MONTE CARLO (AP)—Monaco's third — and biggest — robbery of the week-long wedding celebration for Grace Kelly and Prince Rainier III was announced today.

Police said five rare paintings valued at more than $95,000 were stolen Wednesday from the home of Dr. S. Mikhaelos, a wealthy resident of the principality.

Earlier jewels totalling $55,000 in value were stolen from a wedding guest and from one of the bridesmaids.

Picnic Point Studied As Government Park

Capital Improvement Body Seen Developing Historic Craigflower Peninsula Property

Craigflower peninsula is being studied for use as the site of a park for the Greater Victoria area.

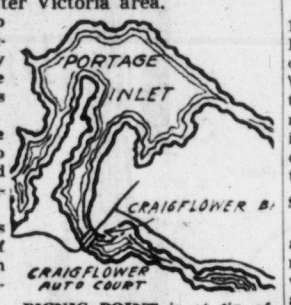

The property, known to campers and swimmers as Picnic Point, has been thoroughly investigated by experts of the provincial government parks branch.

Of great historic value, the property has been offered to the government by Woodland Estates, which holds an agreement for sale.

The provincial government is looking at the possibilities of the peninsula as a park with the capital improvement district commission in mind.

"It may be the commission, when it starts operation, would like to develop the area," said an official.

He said that if the commission favors the site, the government may take steps to hold the land.

PICNIC POINT is at tip of Craigflower peninsula, seen extending into Portage Inlet.

4 MILES OUT

Craigflower Peninsula is located four miles from downtown Victoria.

Some 30 acres are involved.

The parks branch reconnaissance experts highly recommended the entire area as suitable for recreation.

The peninsula, at the head of Gorge Inlet, was the site of part of the old McKenzie Farm, a landmark in the early days of Victoria. It is north of the old Island Highway, and east of the E. & N. right of way, at the north end of Portage Inlet.

IDEAL

Six small bays, suitable for sunbathing, with a total of 1,300 feet of shoreline suitable for beaches, together with evergreens, and sunny exposure, make the area ideal for park purposes, the government survey showed.

Government officials said they have received "hundreds" of names on petitions asking that the land be acquired.

Wildlife, particularly birds, abound on the peninsula.

The government is also considering the Capital Improvement District Commission as the vehicle for developing two other park areas in the Greater Victoria area—Thetis Lake and Elk Lake.

The government has been asked to take over administration of both parks, but indications are the district commission will be asked to take them over.

Both Elk and Thetis are located close to the metropolitan area of Victoria, and in the past the government has shied way from such parks.

Dozens of other B.C. centres are watching closely to ask the government to take over parks near their borders, if a decision were made to administer the two parks.

Goldstream, at the foot of the Malahat, has also been offered the government as a parksite. Because it is farther from municipal boundaries, and would serve tourists and residents outside of the Victoria area, the government will give Goldstream further consideration.

Inspector Warns Students

NANAIMO—High school students who took part in a protest meeting Wednesday at the school were warned today in a message from school inspector Claude Campbell they will be expelled for any further insubordination.

More than 200 of the 600-odd students enrolled staged a demonstration Wednesday morning by leaving their classes in what they called a protest against the "lack of co-operation" shown by the principal, J. B. Litch.

They refused to return to classes until a group of trustees, who appeared at the meeting in person, promised them a hearing by the school board.

A delegation of seven grade 11 and 12 students, led by Brian Kane, who also led the demonstration, met with trustees Wednesday night. Following the meeting the trustees announced it would ask the provincial education department to conduct a "complete investigation" of the school.

STANDARDS TOO HIGH?

Main protest of the students appeared to be that standards required of student athletes were "too high," that the school administration does not cooperate with the student body, and that the students' council is "under the thumb" of the principal.

Parents of students in the high school, interviewed today, were divided in their opinions on the students' stand.

"I am satisfied that the school does its job with a minimum of fuss," said John Thompson, former alderman and school trustee. "The curriculum and standards are laid down by the department of education, and they are upheld here."

DO DIFFICULTIES

Mrs. J. P. Tully said her daughter had no difficulties with the school, and had expressed no objections as to how the school is run.

"As far as we know, the school does its job," she said.

G. E. Clease, father of one of the youngsters in the delegation visiting the school board, said "I don't feel the kids have been getting a square shake."

"The meeting was a surprise to me," he said, but I think the youngsters will have the support of a good many people around here. They have been hoping something like this would happen to bring matters into the open."

To date the education department in Victoria has had no information from the school board on the matter. Officials said today they would not intervene unless a specific request is received from Nanaimo.

PUPKOWSKI MURDER TRIAL ORDERED

Previous Threat to Kill Wife Revealed By Police Witness

Testimony was given at the preliminary hearing today of Czeslaw (Chester) Pupkowski, charged with murdering his wife, that he was physically restrained by a policeman from attacking her a week before she died from knife wounds and a beating.

The disclosure was made by Constable Albert Wells, last prosecution witness called before the hearing concluded.

Pupkowski, 42, was committed for trial for murder. His 38-year-old wife, Cecelia, was killed on March 24.

Constable Albert Wells said he went to the Pupkowski home at about 12.50 a.m. on March 17.

THREE-FOOT POKER

There he saw Pupkowski standing on a sidewalk with a three-foot fire poker in his hand, he testified

Constable Wells said Pupkowski was complaining "of bandits in his house."

The police officer accompanied the man into the house, where Pupkowski went to a bedroom, opened the door, raised the poker and said "I'll kill you and the boy now," Constable Wells testified.

BOY COWERED

Mrs. Pupkowski and her son were in the room. Mrs. Pupkowski screamed for about 20 seconds and the boy "cowered under the bedspread," Constable Wells said.

He said he "ripped" the poker from Pupkowski's hand, placed him on a chesterfield in another room and calmed him down. Pupkowski offered "slight resistance," he said.

Constable Wells said Mrs. Pupkowski told him her husband had spent three or four sleepless nights prowling around "restlessly" and chopping wood in the basement.

Constable Wells said he asked Mrs. Pupowski if she wished a doctor called. She asked him to leave a doctor's name and she would contact him from work the following morning. Constable Wells testified he left a name with her.

MAN "MIXED-UP"

Constable Wells said that when he saw Pupkowski at the residence, he appeared to be "startled, mixed up, bewildered."

Detective Alex Briggs testified he attended at 128 Clarence shortly after 3 p.m. on March 24. He said he found Mrs. Pupkowski dead in a blood-spattered kitchen.

Corporal Joseph Barlow testified he pulled Pupkowski from waters off Dallas Road shortly after 3 p.m. the same day.

NEWLYWEDS SAIL ARM-IN-ARM

Excited Grace Jumps Around

By EDDIE GILMORE

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP) — Film star Grace Kelly and Prince Rainier III sailed away today on their honeymoon, wrapped in each other's arms.

They became husband and wife in the eyes of their church six hours earlier, completing the double-marriage ceremony required in this principality. Then they gaily cut their wedding cake and got aboard the 300-ton yacht Deo Juvante II which Rainier translates as: "God Helps Us."

A crowd of 2,000, which had waited four hours for a last glimpse of the couple cheered the prince and his princess. A bright sun shone down. Pennants snapped in the breeze and whistles and sirens sounded from anchored vessels as the the Deo Juvante slipped out to sea.

The honeymooners stood on the bridge, smiling and waving.

ROCKET SALUTES

Two rockets shot up from lighthouses at the entrance to the harbor and exploded, sending out parachutes carrying American and Monacan flags. Sailors on French, British and American warships gravely saluted.

The prince squeezed Grace's hand and she hugged him. The prince put both arms around her. When she was released, she continued to wave and smile. At one point, she became so excited she jumped up and down.

The yacht, which carries a crew of 11, will take the couple along the Italian coast to Rome for an audience with the Pope on April 25. They also will go to the island of Djerba off Tunisia and Palma on the island of Mallorca.

The bride was serenely composed as she pledged herself to Rainier in Roman Catholic services today.

The 26-year-old film actress and the 32-year-old ruler of this tiny Mediterranean principality answered "oui" in quiet voices as Msgr. Gilles Barthe, Bishop of Monaco, asked each in turn the question of acceptance.

The prince had difficulty putting the ring on the finger of his princess, and she helped him. The ring she gave him slipped on easily.

LISTENS RAPTLY

Grace's ivory gown of peau de soie rare lace, puffed out by three petticoats, billowed about her chair. Her veil was embroidered with rose point lace and thousands of tiny pearls.

She looked raptly at the bishop as he spoke, holding her bouquet in her lap.

The bishop's address was followed by one by the Kelly's family priest, Father John Cartin of Philadelphia, who reminded them of the solemn obligations of marriage and said: "Henceforth you belong entirely to each other."

Pope Pius' special representative, Msgr. Paul Marella, Apostolic Nuncio to Paris, read a message of admonition from the pontiff and extended the papal blessing.

CLOSE TO TEARS

During Bishop Barthe's address the princess swallowed hard and appeared close to tears with emotion. The prince, too, was drawn and tense.

The exchange of vows and blessing took only 10 minutes, but attendant ceremonials and processions stretched out for more than three hours.

Trailing her ivory lace wedding train in the bright Mediterranean sun, the bride walked with measured strides into the white stone cathedral just before 11 a.m. (2 a.m. Victoria time) as bugles blared.

The resplendently uniformed prince, bright with braid and medals, followed a few minutes behind as military bands played and the Monacan populace cheered.

Social Credit Scorned By New Zealand Probe

Royal Commission Finds Witnesses At Variance; Theories of No Use

BY J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—The report of a royal commission on monetary affairs has scathingly rejected Social Credit as a solution to New Zealand's economic programs.

The commission devotes nearly 70 pages of its 500-page report published today to a review of evidence presented by Social Credit witnesses, and comment on their views.

Appointment of the commission was largely due to the surprise 11 per cent vote polled by Social Credit candidates in New Zealand's 1954 general election. This was taken by the government as evidence of public dissatisfaction with the existing system, especially the continued fall in the value of money.

Social Credit organizations presented lengthy evidence to the commission during its hearings, and individuals also presented aspects of Social Credit theories on their own behalf.

DISTORTED PICTURE

Summarizing its findings on the Social Credit case, the commission says Social Credit witnesses were seriously at variance among themselves. They had made significant withdrawals in matters of substance.

The commission says that Social Credit witnesses presented a distorted picture of the state of New Zealand's economy. Their analysis of the country's existing monetary system had been falsely based and seriously erroneous. They had failed to substantiate the submission that there is a chronic gap between purchasing power and prices which is a fundamental proposition of Social Credit.

The only positive proposal for immediate application had been that a national credit authority be set up and a national survey made to ascertain whether a gap existed. Nevertheless, their whole submission rested on the assumption that a survey would disclose that a gap did exist.

On the basis of that assumption, which the commission says was wholly wrong, they envisaged the application to the existing inflationary situation the remedies devised for a situation of depression such as that in the 30's. They had not allowed for the radical change in circumstances since then.

The commission says that there is abundant proof that New Zealand's present problem is not the shortage of purchasing power but an excess of it, and nothing in Social Credit proposals had been designed to meet such a situation.

The commission says that when the resources of a community are overstretched, further issues of money would produce only further pressure on the supply of goods and services, with consequent higher prices and dissipation of overseas exchange. Under present conditions, large issues of debt-free money, as contemplated by the Social Credit supporters, would produce a most serious and chronic inflation and would gravely disrupt the economy.

The report claims that the ultimate objective of Social Credit is the abolition of debt and interest and the substitution of a national dividend for a wage and salary system, which would ultimately result in the abolition of private ownership of property. It adds that the case prepared by Social Credit did not conform to what many people have come to accept as Social Credit theory and policy.

Russian Trade Pact Adopted Unanimously

(From Times News Services)

From Times News Services

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's first trade agreement with Russia, signed here Feb. 29 after a month of negotiations, was approved unanimously Wednesday by the Commons, which discussed it less than three hours.

The resolution proposing ratification of the historic treaty, passed by a voice vote in the Commons, now goes to the Senate.

Only real criticism was voiced by Donald Fleming (PC, Toronto-Eglinton), the Conservatives' trade spokesman. He criticized the fact there is nothing in the pact to prevent Russia from exporting to this country goods manufactured by forced labor.

Mr. Fleming also warned that Canada should guard against Soviet trade delegations being used for espionage purposes.

"I think it is to be deplored," he said, "that there is no guarantee in this agreement that Canada shall not be asked to import goods manufactured by forced labor behind the Iron Curtain."

External Affairs Minister Pearson said no Canadian political or economic interests are likely to be jeopardized in any way by the pact.

Canada has reserved the right to levy special dumping duties if an influx of low-price Russian goods threatens injury to Canadian producers.

Trade Minister Howe said that in negotiating the "most-favored-nation" agreement with Russia the Canadian government "does not attempt to stipulate that certain things shall be imported into Canada and that other things shall not be imported."

Most important part of the agreement is Russia's guarantee to buy a minimum of 44,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat in the next three years. At current prices this is worth about $60,000,000.

Shipments in any single year will not amount to less than 14,700,000 bushels and purchases will be made by the Canadian wheat board at prices charged to other major customers at the time each sale is made.

Mr. Howe said Russia already has purchased more than 14,700,000 bushels for delivery during the present year.

Opposition Parties in Agreement

CCF leader Coldwell said his group welcomes the treaty for its benefits to Canada and in the hope it will assist in easing world tensions. He hoped it is evidence of a trend toward greater world unity.

Victor Quelch (SC, Acadia) welcomed the treaty as a straight business deal between the two countries. He hoped it would enable Canada to buy some goods from Russia which it now buys from the U.S.

Ross Thatcher (Ind, Moose Jaw-Lake Centre) said no legislation in recent years has been more welcome in western Canada.

BENEFITS RESTORED

Relaxation of one section of the Unemployment Insurance Act restored temporarily lost benefit payments to 6,002 workers, Labor Minister Gregg said Wednesday in the Commons.

Restoration of benefits was brought about by a new interpretation of the section which last year was written into a big revision of the act that went into effect last Oct. 2.

The changes by parliament last year shifted the basis of qualification for benefits and led to the disqualifying of many workers who might have collected under terms of the former act. That brought complaints from many labor bodies and some members of parliament.

OTTAWA (CP) — Two cabinet ministers have resigned company directorships since the last session of Parliament, the government reported to the Commons Wednesday.

Only one cabinet member now is a director in a private concern. Mines Minister Prudham retains his connection with Prudham Building Supplies Ltd. of Edmonton.

The information was made public in a return tabled for Stanley Knowles (CCF, Winnipeg North Centre).

50 DUE PENSIONS

Fifty of the 264 sitting members of the Commons now are entitled to receive annual $3,000 pensions when they cease to be members.

The annual report on operations of the Members of Parliament Retiring Allowance tabled Wednesday in the Commons, said the 50 members have paid the $4,000 maximum contribution to the pension fund.

All other members are paying into the fund. Annual contributions are set at six per cent of their first $4,000 in annual indemnity. Treasury payments also are made into the fund to match members' payments. Members receive an $8,000 taxable indemnity plus a $2,000 tax-free allowance.

The pension plan went into effect in 1952.

Canada, U.S. Urged to Settle River Problem

International Court Said Only Recourse

SEATTLE (CP)—A Vancouver lawyer said today that unless the United States and Canada can agree on the hydro development of the Columbia River, their present dispute must be settled in an international court of justice.

Leon Ladner, former Progressive Conservative member of Parliament, made this statement in an address to the Pacific Northwest regional meeting of the American Society of International Law.

"The economic destiny of western Canada and British Columbia . . . is at stake," said Mr. Ladner, referring to the power dispute.

"Undoubtedly the same applies in respect of the western United States.

"I believe it will require statesmanship on the highest level to solve these problems."

The Columbia River, 1,210 miles in length, originates in southeastern B.C. and after travelling northward for 200 miles, turns south for another 265 miles and crosses into the state of Washington.

CANADIAN SOURCES

Although only 15 per cent of the drainage basin of the Columbia is inside Canada, the river derives a substantial portion of its volume from Canadian sources, principally the vast Columbia icefield.

An international dispute arose when Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, chairman of the Canadian section of the International Joint Commission, proposed the Canadian government divert the Columbia into the Fraser River for a multi-million dollar power project.

Such a move would prevent further hydro development on the Columbia in Washington

Vancouver Mayor Has New Plan To Solve Sunday Sport Impasse

(From The Canadian Press)

Vancouver — Mayor Fred Hume said Wednesday he had a new plan which he hoped would give Vancouver Sunday sports this year.

He said he could not reveal his plan immediately, but that he is confident it will achieve results.

"I know the council doesn't feel as optimistic as I do," he said, "but I wouldn't make such a statement unless I had some reasonable grounds for it."

IRWIN THREATENS TO QUIT

RICHMOND — Speaker Tom Irwin of the B.C. legislature said Tuesday he will quit the Social Credit League if Social Credit members fail to erase "the iniquities and injustices" from the new Vancouver Sewage and Drainage Bill.

Mr. Irwin, who is also MLA for Delta, said the next legislative session "will have to amend" the section which gives municipalities the right to expropriate properties from adjoining municipalities if needed for sewage disposal.

INDIAN NOT GUILTY

NEW WESTMINSTER — An assize court jury here Wednesday found Peter Joseph Alex not guilty of murder in the death near Hope last Dec. 24 of Harold Garner, 27.

Mrs. Alex told the jury Garner had threatened the Alex baby.

RUSTLERS QUICKLY JAILED

MERRITT—A few hours after rancher Allan Collett reported to RCMP that he discovered the bones of a slaughtered steer on his rangeland. Joe and Walter Majors were sentenced to one year in Oakalla by Magistrate Peter Moyes.

Another half beef was found in a cabin occupied by the accused.

AIR CRASH CLAIMS SETTLED

VANCOUVER—Three claims arising out of an aircraft crash in the Queen Charlotte Islands more than a year ago have been settled for a total of more than $53,000, it was announced Wednesday.

The plane crashed into a mountain Feb. 1, 1955, and pilot William Bellam was killed.

Three passengers, all loggers, have settled injury claims against B.C. Air Lines Ltd. and the Bellam's estate.

Peter Moskowec of Weeks, Sask., has settled for $17,008, Ross Feltas of Vancouver for $19,095 and Roland Trembley of Maillardville, B.C., for $17,500.

SEGUR NOT CANDIDATE

REVELSTOKE — A nominating convention will be held here May 12, giving the CCF the first candidate in the field for the next provincial election.

Vincent Segur, CCF member for this district, has announced he will not seek re-election.

The provincial government has yet to announce the date of the next election, which could come this year or next.

SEAMAN STABBED

Britain's State Lottery

MR. MacMILLAN WILL BE REmembered in history as the chancellor of the exchequer who introduced the lottery into the British budget. For the plan to offer prizes to buyers of state bonds is nothing but a lottery however it may be described by the Government.

The fact that no one can lose any money makes this scheme no less of a gamble, since anyone can win money at the general expense of the taxpayers; and it is on the opportunity to get something for nothing that the Government bases its hopes of increased savings.

Certainly increased savings are vital to Britain when it is spending more than it can afford to spend, living beyond its means, incurring deficits in foreign trade and thus suffering from a dangerous inflation.

The natural way to reduce British consumption—which is the chancellor's real object—would be to increase taxes, but taxes already are probably near the highest tolerable rate. Therefore the people are encouraged by a gamble to postpone consumption and buy state bonds.

This innovation reverses a long-standing policy. More than a hundred years ago a committee of Parliament studied the state lotteries then in operation and reported strongly against them. The committee found, in brief, that no nation could wisely base its finances on chance. Apart from all moral considerations, gambling in the state budget was considered bad business. Yet, in an attenuated and disguised form, gambling has returned.

The new policy seems to indicate a certain desperation in a Government now struggling with huge economic problems and confronting formidable problems in foreign affairs. It remains to be seen how much saving will result from the offer of prizes to bond buyers.

Meanwhile Mr. MacMillan has shown courage in refusing to reduce taxes. He has increased them slightly, without touching the already drastic income tax, and he has indicated that the Government will continue to restrict the expansion of credit.

Whether these measures will be sufficient to curb Britain's appetite for more goods than it produces only time will show. Recently Britain's balance of payments in international trade has somewhat improved. It will have to improve much more before the nation's economy can be considered sound.

Behind the economic problem looms a political problem apparently much more serious than most Canadians realize.

Writing in Maclean's Magazine, Sir Beverley Baxter, a Conservative member of Parliament and intimate of Prime Minister Eden, says: "There is little doubt that if today we held a general election the Tory party would be defeated. Nor is it any real comfort to answer that with our majority we can remain in office for another two years at least. An administration can govern despite the existence of a vigorous parliamentary opposition, but it cannot govern if the public is with the opposition and against the Government."

Mr. Baxter seems to think that his friend and leader, the Prime Minister, has failed, for he adds: "It is difficult to believe that Anthony Eden will be prime minister twelve months from now."

Perhaps a lucrative and safe state gamble will help to restore the Government's popularity. But this is an example which no Canadian government should ever follow.

Victoria and May 24

IT IS DIFFICULT TO THINK OF any local observance that attracts more spectators than the traditional May 24 parade. Almost every home in the area has at least one representative among the thousands of spectators who line the parade route. This highlight is accompanied by numerous other activities of a sports or social nature, combining to create a holiday that in years past was the biggest fete of the year.

Organizers of the May 24 celebrations report that funds for this year are very low. They warn that without better support the whole project might have to be dropped in 1957. It woul be a great pity if this were to happen. Not only on the grounds of half a century of tradition, but because of the benefit to community life of a well-attended annual celebration, this observance should be continued.

On previous occasions the city has furnished the lion's share of the money. Yet this is a festival in which the whole Greater Victoria area participates. Perhaps the time has come for the surrounding municipalities to give more serious consideration to the part they should play in building up celebration funds. Their donations could be greatly increased without meeting the proportionate share now supplied by the city itself.

Consideration might also be given to closer co-operation between the celebrations organization and the Junior Chamber of Commerce, which has been holding a fair, with carnival features a couple of weeks before the May 24 events. The two sets of functions tap the same revenue sources.

While the Jaycees deserve credit for the energy and enthusiasm they have brought to their exhibition, they might give some attention to the manner in which it cuts into fund-raising events for the Victoria Day program.

Because Victoria Day is the important celebration of this area, the young businessmen—whose interests are so clearly shown in the community—might give thought to ways in which they can help. Certainly the last thing they would want to do is harm Victoria's major fiesta.

School-Child Parking

ONCE AGAIN THE SCHOOL board's attention has been drawn to the problem caused by students driving their cars to school and parking on adjacent streets.

Owners of homes in the respective areas are protesting, as they have been since the issue came to notice some years ago. As long as school children acquire cars, either through purchase from their own earnings or through the benevolence of parents, the problem will continue to grow.

But while high school students have driver's licences and park properly, there is no law which says they may not leave their cars on the streets in accordance with regulations which apply to all drivers.

When they violate the law, then, of course, they should be subject to police action and pay the required penalty.

The inconvenience caused by such parking is obvious. Many of the streets concerned are not wide enough to justify parking on both sides for protracted periods of the day. At the same time, a similar condition exists in locations close to the downtown area where older citizens leave their automobiles during working hours.

Except in unusual circumstances—when children are physically incapacitated or when they live at a great distance from school—it is difficult to understand why they should drive to school and leave the car on the street throughout class hours. Still, this is a development of the day.

One solution suggests itself: Parents might do what they can to discourage the practice.

And, of course, when students park in a way to block driveways, the police should distribute tickets.

Fish and Power Again

THE EFFORTS MADE ON THE Puntledge River to save salmon and steelhead fry from destruction in the B.C. Power Commission installations emphasize the fish-and-power problem.

This may be a small example, but it illustrates the principle. Special, artificial methods are being used to keep the small fish from entering the penstock of the commission's hydro unit where, by informed estimate, 34 per cent would be killed.

In addition to that, investigators are trying to determine how spawning salmon may be helped up the river past the barrier the hydro unit now creates.

No claims of success are made for the methods now applied. And these, be it noted, are intended largely to protect game fish, ranging from trout to tyees.

The attempts made on the Puntledge to save the fish are important largely in preserving the river and the bay at its outlet for sports angling.

They serve, at the same time, to underscore the serious problem confronting the people of British Columbia in safeguarding important commercial salmon rivers in the event of hydro development on them.

The Sand Trap

LOOSE ENDS — By BRUCE HUTCHISON

Heard Any Rumors Lately?

THE great problem of these times, it sometimes seems to me in moments of depression, is not to survive the Russians, the hydrogen bomb or certain statesmen who shall be nameless. The great problem, comprehending all others, is to convey the simplest facts to the public. If we could somehow manage do to that, the other problems would solve themselves.

Hutchison

This profound but not very original notion struck me forcibly today when one of my neighbors tuned on the morning radio news and came over here, breathless, to tell me that the Government of British Columbia had decided to call an early election. Half an hour later a friend phoned to say that the St. Laurent Government was going immediately to the country and what did I propose to do about that?

OF course I didn't propose to do anything about it. All I proposed to do was to clear away the wilderness of dead shrubs and trees left by last November's cold snap.

When the paper came out in the evening I saw the origin of these alarming rumors. The Government of British Columbia had said it might call an autumn session of the Legislature. No one had mentioned an election. The radio, I feel sure, had given the public an accurate report. But by the time the story had sifted through the radio and the minds of my friends it was unrecognizable.

Again, a housewife informed me a few days ago that she had been listening to the radio and had learned that a world war had broken out in the Middle East. Who had given her this rather important piece of information? She didn't know. She had just heard it on the radio.

THEN a fellow phoned me an hour ago to say that some American publication had failed to reach him on time and this, he said, was no doubt the result of the new Canadian tariff on all foreign magazines. I didn't bother to tell him that there was no such tariff and none had been proposed. What was the use of trying to explain a complex new tax on Canadian advertising in Canadian editions of American magazines? He would not have believed me anyway. He had heard something on the radio.

Another friend read in some scientific paper the announcement of an eminent meteorologist that a cold cycle of 40 years had begun in the northern hemisphere. By the time this story had passed from mouth to mouth it reached me, from my neighbor, Mr. Horace Snifkin, in an alarming version. I gathered that we were about to enter another ice age and I began to wonder whether it was worth while to sow a vegetable garden this year.

IT is amazing to reflect on the dark legends that must inhabit the minds of the public despite every effort, by every medium of communication, to convey the known facts.

A man from Mars, surveying all the wild rumors accepted as truth these days, would conclude at once that the democratic process could not possibly work. Yet somehow it does. Society staggers along and most of us go peacefully to our graves without bothering to find out the truth about anything. This arrangement may seem odd to Communists and others who believe in logic but it seems to suit us very well.

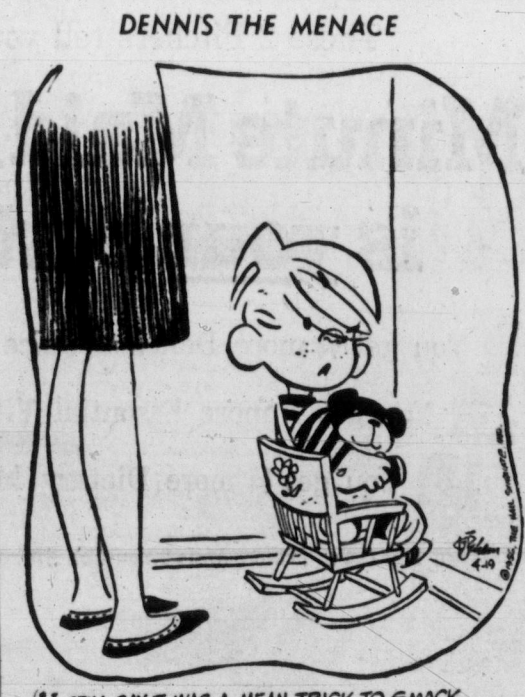

IT must be alarming, however, to the intellectual; to such an intellectual, for example, as Mr. Adlai Stevenson. He began his present campaign for the presidency by talking candidly to the American people about important matters. The result was disappointing and may have been disastrous to Mr. Stevenson. So he has descended rapidly from the sphere of the intellect and is now shaking hands, kissing babies and desperately trying to persuade the public that he is no brighter than average. A sad spectacle.

There is nothing new in the fact that the average man dislikes the labor of thought. The only question, as raised by the case of Mr. Stevenson and other evidences of the same sort, is whether this resistance to thought, this horror of intellectualism, is stronger now than it used to be. Are we facing, as some authorities tell us, a quiet revolt against the intellect at the very time when we have solved the old physical problem of communication.

IT is easy to say yes to that question. Perhaps a man like Mr. Stevenson says yes when no voters are listening. Many intellectuals even hold that intellectualism is being destroyed by the very ease of modern communication; that people value ideas, like other things, only if they have to work for them, as they don't have to work these days when ideas are cheap.

Only an intellectual would know about that and the only intellectuals of my acquaintance would be insulted by the name. But those whose business is not to convey great thoughts but merely to distribute the simplest facts must get discouraged, now and then, when they fail even in this primitive undertaking. Somebody is always listening to the radio and phoning up the neighbors.

Witnesses and Transfusions

The Scriptures say not to eat blood or any manner of blood, which means bird, animal or human.

It doesn't say anything about blood transfusions. Maybe they knew nothing about it in those days. If they did it would go something like this:

"No man shall take blood in his veins from another man's vein."

If your life blood can save a life, what's wrong with that? Jehovah's Witnesses' favorite quotation is: "Thou shalt not kill." Yet they stand around and let a person die.

Informed

The British Columbia Social Credit League again are using the two slogans "be clearly informed" and "Social Credit keeps you informed."

Surely some of the Socreds must blush with shame when they see these slogans repeated and think of the Socred Government's refusal and silence re the Sommers-Sturdy case and the Cassiar road fiasco.

Will the Government keep us fully informed as to where all the thousands of dollars spent on elections, propaganda, etc. came from?

What has happened to all the self righteous statements made by the Socreds during elections, no campaign funds, no patronage, no party, etc.?

Probably most of the Socreds themselves don't know the answers?

Tribute

The Legislative Session ended, Premier Bennett tours the Province. Arnold Webster has resigned, the 'Sommers' case is pending, and Lydia Arsens has been 'clinically' photographed, but has anyone noticed the outstanding statesman like stature of Victoria's member, George Gregory?

A realist in facing fact and dealing in truths, possessed of that "listening" and developing maturity so lacking in the average seated member, unafraid to dissociate himself from legislation he deemed null and void, he stood alone, amid the spontaneous applause from the entire House.

Unequivocal in singling out unpopular fact no matter from which party it stems, this young member reveals the true attributes of the statesman as opposed to the politician. His future is already assured by reason of his code in attacking the core of a subject, without dissembling—a tendency quite astonishing in a lawyer—but vital in a representative of the people in Parliament.

Tyranny by Words

There is a keen discussion going on in the United States over the meaning of words—a matter which should be of deep interest to Canadian citizens. If words are to be distorted to suit political ambitions—or expediency—we have indeed reached the dangerous stage—backwards.

One word under discussion is "informer," and the desire seems to be of the investigating circles to separate its meaning from that of "informant"; in the Oxford and French dictionaries both words have the same meaning, the difference only being when used of that of tense. Those who desire—and they are real—to make use of that most despicable form — or branch — of all society known as the "informer" — whether by fear or coercion—in the interest, as they think, of bringing about a dictatorship of the mind is indeed reminiscent of the Inquisition and the Star Chamber.

The exercise of this so-called secret intelligence—or investigating committees, we are told, is to extinguish the ideology of Communism; but then that has already been crushed—that is the side of it that emanated from the people. It has many facets as we know by the various acts that have been passed at different times to stop huge monopolies or corporations from communizing their wealth by merging, as so many have done lately to the detriment of both the individual and the real free enterprise. The danger today to anyone who opposes the above formations is at once described and labelled as a Communist, a liberal, a crackpot, or an egghead. The danger of all the aforesaid to the Canadian citizens is that the system has already penetrated this country but much more elegantly masked.

New China

"Maple Leaf," in deciding I am unacquainted with British history, also decides that the British Foreign Office and Consular records are grotesque versions of fact; because it was from this source I obtained most of my knowledge.

With regard to alleged utter ignorance of present-day China and Chiang Kai-shek's regime, future historians will decide which of us is right.

For myself I place on record from personal observation and study, that Chiang Kai-shek, whilst adhering to the program laid down by Sun Yat-sen, gave evidence of good leadership.

Then when ambition overwhelmed him, Chiang headed an utterly ruthless corrupt despotism, which deprived the mass of Chinese of their right to organize or educate themselves, or acquire experience and hold office in government affairs.

Falsehood, cruelty, greed and lust for power were the agents Chiang employed to ruin himself in the eyes of his fellow Chinese.

Wronged voices cried out in the wilderness until the human volcano of suffering exploded.

Then Mao Tze-tung replaced Chiang. Mao excelled by avoiding the senseless destruction of life and property which Chiang and the Japanese debauched themselves in.

Mao made feeding the hungry and educating the ignorant his paramount objective, and created in my opinion the mental armor which will fortify the Chinese against any outside attack.

Revolution—Communism—call it what you like, now that it is past and prospering, I predict future historians will call it progres. Hence my claim China has re-emerged as a great nation.

FROM WASHINGTON — By STEWART ALSOP

No Beautiful Blonde Spies

IT IS strange how the highest Administration officials stubbornly disbelieve what their own intelligence experts tell them. Take, for example, Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson's recent testimony before the House Appropriations Committee: "You know, we cannot get very far ahead of them (the Soviets), because we talk so much in this country and write so many articles and publish so many pictures and magazines articles that they are always bound to be able to do it. Most of their weapons, of course, really came out of the Western world . . ."

Alsop

No national myth dies harder than the notion that the Soviets are technically backward, capable only of slavishly copying what the West has already produced.

But it is really very odd that Secretary Wilson, after more than three years in office, should still believe in this comfortable myth. For throughout those three years, Wilson has been literally deluged with evidence pointing in precisely the opposite direction.

Open Secret

There is, moreover, nothing particularly mysterious about the great bulk of this evidence—it does not come from beautiful blonde spies. Most of it comes, instead, from such items as a long, profusely illustrated book called "Aviation Gas Turbine Engines," by G. S. Skubachevski.

Mr. Skubachevski's formidable work was published in Moscow last year, and it is freely available in technical bookshops in the Soviet Union. When it arrived in Washington recently, it caused quite a fluttering in the intelligence dovecotes.

It contained, for one thing, numerous cutaway drawings of something called a "split compressor engine." The split compressor system is used in the most advanced American jet engine design, and all diagrams and performance data are top secret. Yet here was a mere textbook, distributed to mere student engineers in the Soviet Union, containing numerous detailed diagrams of the split compressor engine.

No Theft

The notion that "they get it all from spies," which is a companion myth to the "backward Russians" myth, does not hold up in this case either. The text of the book contains not only a highly sophisticated discussion of the split compressor engine, but a number of jet engineering techniques new to American experts.

Soviet spies could not have stolen these ideas from us, simply because we didn't have them.

Reliable information on Soviet weapons progress from such overt, non-cloak-and-dagger sources as Mr. Skubachevski's book, is not as impossibly difficult to come by as it is often cracked up to be. Last year, for example, the magazine "Aviation Week" published excellent photographs of the mass flights over Moscow of the new Soviet heavy bomber, the Bison—the same plane which Mr. Wilson had previously opined was a fake, or a mere hand-made prototype.

The publication of these photographs caused horror in the Pentagon, and the editor of the magazine was called on the carpet to explain where he got such "top secret" material.

He explained that he had called the New York representative of Sovfoto, the Soviet propaganda agency, Sovfoto had happily offered him as many excellent photographs as he could use, and motion picture films of the overflights as well.

Power of Disbelief

The notion that all information about Soviet weapons developments comes from beautiful but highly untrustworthy blonde spies is one reason why such officials as Wilson do not really believe their own intelligence. Another reason is that men like Wilson and Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey tend to regard the intelligence experts as impractical longhairs.

Secretary Humphrey, for example, recently became much exercised when he learned from a British steel tycoon who had made a tour of the Soviet Union that Soviet steel mills were as good as the best in Britain. As a member of the National Security Council, Humphrey had been repeatedly told exactly the same thing in intelligence briefings. But he only really believed it when he learned it from a fellow businessman and payroll-meeter.

A third reason is that the Central Intelligence Agency is prohibited from making comparative estimates of Soviet and American weapons development, so that the estimates lack meaning and impact. But there is also another reason why high officials tend to disbelieve or disregard their own intelligence experts. Believing them would inexorably suggest all sorts of highly expensive and highly inconvenient action.

POSTAL CUSTOM

One of the larger post offices in Canada has a ready method of sorting mail. If it's in a brown envelope, it goes in a heap to be sorted with the packages for delivery when the post office gets good and ready. The presence of air mail stamps seems to make no difference. White envelopes appear more important. The local postmaster hopes someday to acquire a staff all of whose members can read.

A WOMAN'S OUTLOOK

By RUTH ENKE

Prevalent Problem

THEY were ordinary middle-aged women having a cup of coffee to break a session of domestic shopping.

Ruth

"They should raise the driving age," said Red Coat. "They should raise it from 16 to 18."

"They sure should," said Flowery Hat.

Eighteen is plenty young enough for kids to be driving these big, expensive cars," said Red Coat. "When I was young, the boys had cars alright, but they didn't pack the the power they do these days. My kid brother thought he was doing fine if he got his old car up to 30 on Yates St. hill. That's a lot different from speeding along a highway at 50-60 miles an hour."

"It sure is," said Flowery Hat.

★ ★ ★

"You take the high school kids these days," said Red Coat. "They EXPECT to have the car if their parents aren't actually using it."

"They sure do," said Flowery Hat.

"I get sick and tired of hearing about delinquent parents," said Red Coat. "The truth is that once a boy is gone with the car, you have no hold on him at all. He might be any place. Just in a flash he may decide to run up to Shawnigan or Mill Bay or out to Sidney. All you can do is to trust him and his common sense and hope for the best."

"That's right," said Flowery Hat.

"And if you don't let him have the car, then one of his buddies will have HIS Dad's car, and that may be a whole lot worse."

"You've said it," said Flowery Hat.

"Seems to me that they want more and more every year," said Red Coat. "My older boy didn't want what the younger one does. Seems to me that there are more parties than there used to be. And the parties go on later and later. Seems to me that in their last year of school they should be working hard. But my boy, he tells me that he's going to be recommended anyway, so he doesn't have to work. Seems to me that it was better in the old days when we had exams and no parties till the exams were over and we took a deep breath and said, 'That's it'."

"Seems queer, doesn't it?" said Flowery Hat.

"Well," said Red Coat, calling for another cup of coffee. "If they'd just raise the driving age to 18, it sure would take a load of worry off parents. If we ever had to vote on it, believe me, I'd be right down there at the head of the line."

"Me, too," said Flowery Hat. "They'd howl like fury, naturally. They'd howl because they'd have to stay home and study."

★ ★ ★

I don't pretend to know the answer to this problem.

But I do know that, all over town, hundreds of parents are worrying themselves sick over the matter of high school students and their cars.

I know that weak-minded parents are following the line of least resistance and letting their high school children have the car and come in at almost any time they want.

I know that others are setting a definite deadline, and are being faced with endless arguments, and sulkiness and surly insubordination.

I know that youngsters hate to be the first to leave the party. I know that adolescents long, above all else, to be like the crowd. I know that many high school boys drive better than their fathers. Their reactions are quicker. They were born into this faster, high-powered, automotive age.

But against the quicker reaction, one must set the youthful lack of caution, and the young male's very natural desire to show off, especially if he has a pretty girl in the car.

I know, too, that in North America the coming-of-age has been advanced from the 21st birthday to the high school graduation. (Socially but not legally, I fancy).

What I don't know is the answer.

★ ★ ★

And what the young don't know is the nightmare of worry endured by modern parents, and the growing feeling that it's time that PARENTS got a break.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Sidelights on English Law

LONDON —There is a man here who has been charged with "culpable homicide," an unusual charge. It is claimed that he assaulted and robbed a woman of her handbag and threw it into the river. When she went after it she was drowned, which has brought her assailant up on this charge of culpable homicide.

Reyburn

This is the sort of court case that could produce endless argument. For how long after an assault such as that can an assailant be regarded as responsible for the victim's actions?

For instance, supposing this had happened. The man assaults the woman, robs her of her handbag and flees. The woman continues her journey and some distance down the street she comes to a highway. As she is crossing it, a speeding car knocks her down and kills her.

Presumably the man who robbed her could still be charged with "culpable homicide." He caused the delay in her journey that brought her to the highway at the particular time the speeding car reached that point. Had she not been delayed by the robber she would have got safely across the highway.

★ ★ ★

AND SPEAKING OF THE LAW, a friend of mine has had his car stolen three times. Not unnaturally he's a bit peevish about the whole thing, especially as on the third occasion the thief—lacking a car key—got into the car by making a hole in the roof with a can-opener. Each time it has been when my friend has been calling at not too prosperous part of town, so the next time he was going there he asked the police to be on hand so that they could nab the thief red-handed.

"And what would you charge him with?" asked the police. "Stealing my car, of course," said my friend. No, they said, all you can charge him with is driving your car without permission. Getting into somebody else's car and driving it off doesn't constitute stealing it. You haven't stolen it until you've sold it to someone else.

ANOTHER INTERESTING sidelight on the law in this country is in respect of bedroom windows. If a man fails to draw the blinds and undresses and a passer-by sees him without any clothes on he is liable to arrest on a charge of indecent exposure—even although he is on his own property, in the privacy of his own home in fact. But if a woman does the same thing, she's committing no crime.

I checked with Scotland Yard to confirm this and they said that the only way a woman might be charged in such circumstances would be that if so many passers-by collected that the crowd impeded the traffic and then she could be charged with creating a disturbance!

AN UNUSUAL CASE involved a poodle-owner I know. He lost his dog and one day noticed a prostitute parading with what he was sure was his poodle. London prostitutes often lead dogs (a) to give an excuse to police that they're just walking their dog and (b) because patting a dog makes a good opening gambit for shy males.

This streetwalker maintained the poodle was hers and so he had to call in his lawyers. From them he learned that stealing a dog is a tough one to prove in court—the dog world is full of look-alikes—so it is not unusual to proceed on those lines. Sue her for stealing the collar, they advised. Which he did and won — the judge giving him the dog along with it.

Over the remainder of the province the disturbance will have considerably less effect. It should however cause a few showers on the lower coast and in the western interior. The fresher Pacific air will also cause a lowering of afternoon temperatures over much of the province Friday.

FISH MARKETS SUPPORTING 5-DAY WEEK

Five Victoria retailers are agreed that if there is to be any change in the shopping week they would prefer a five-day week.

"We are definitely opposed to the six-day shopping week favored by some downtown stores in Victoria," said Walter Rowe of Rowe's Fish Market, spokesman for the group.

Mr. Rowe said he was also speaking for the Dominion Meat Market, Miller's, Dennis' and Askey's fish markets.

HOME GARDEN

Free Advice Aplenty For Gardeners

BY HILDA BEASTALL

The rapid increase in the number of new home garden owners in Victoria has no doubt been responsible for the increase of sources of garden information.

Hilda

Many public spirited bodies contribute in a variety of ways — the daily newspapers with their garden columns, the many garden clubs and other specialist societies with meetings, bulletins and flower shows, the public library, and the local nurserymen.

The last-named group, while of course, commercial businesses, are always willing to give detailed information regarding their plants. It aids the gardener to obtain success, and it has also the effect of creating more and better gardens.

READY TO HELP

Gardeners whether established or newcomers to the city need have no hesitation in approaching any of these sources for information.

The first of a series of four talks on gardening problems by writers of this column, was featured at the Victoria Public Library last Tuesday evening, dealing with the improvement of soil, ways of making compost, and determining the correct fertilizer to use.

Next Tuesday the problems of flowering plants for certain locations, when to divide and how to obtain better blooms will be discussed.

If you heard the last talk I know you will be present for the rest.

Dickens Found Scots 'Most Intelligent'

Charles Dickens once referred to the Scots as his "most intelligent and responsive" audiences," Mrs. T. L. Hughes told the Dickens Fellowship, Victoria branch, at its annual meeting.

She said that on one visit to Scotland the novelist realized $600 from three lecture recitals —a considerable sum in those times.

Mrs. Hughes read extracts from documents decribing Dicken' journeys by stage coach from London to Edinburgh, Glasgow and other Scottish cities during which he wrote fluently "by the light of a swinging lantern."

A number of etchings of Dickens' characters by Barnard were loaned to the branch by Mrs. Ralph T. Moore of Victoria.

Mrs. Clara Hill Maunsell gave a reading from "Great Expectations," and the branch chose "Our Mutual Friend" as the Dickens work to be studied during the coming year.

The branch will hold its next meeting in September but a summer picnic is planned.

Co-Existence Line Debunked by Simonds

Long-Term Objectives of Communism 'Not Changed One Iota', Says General

There is no possibility of peaceful co-existence between the western democracies and the communist powers except in terms of an armed truce, Lieut.-Gen. Guy Simonds, formerly chief of staff of the Canadian Army, told a meeting of the Canadian Club Wednesday.

"Their long-term objectives haven't changed one iota, and included in those long-term objectives — based on the belief that the two systems cannot really live side by side—is the destruction of our western concept of free democracy."

General Simonds, now retired from military life, addressed both the Canadian Club and the Women's Canadian Club at two separate meetings at the Empress Hotel.

He said the Communist tactic at the moment is to claim that communism and democracy can live in peaceful co-existence.

OBJECTIVE UNCHANGED

"But there is no let-up of their rigid grip on their satellites, or in their subversive attemps to undermine democracy in states within the western orbit, states friendly to the West and neutralist countries."

Many wishful thinkers, he said, believed the Communist threat would be resolved by revolution within the Communist countries.

"I don't believe such a revolution is possible within a modern police state," General Simonds declared, "for any move towards revolution is quickly detected and the leaders liquidated.

Of disarmament he said: "Naturally Russia would welcome disarmament on our part. But it does not make sense in my view unless there is genuine effort on the part of the Soviet to reach some compromise with the West."

CANADA IN SQUEEZE

He warned that Canada lies midway between the two greatest antagonists—Russia and the United States — and would inevitably be involved in any conflict between the two.

"In the Middle East and North Africa never in the last 60 years has the situation been so explosive and dangerous. In Middle Asia Communist agents are hard at work trying to promote trouble. In the extreme Far East there is a truce at the moment, but open hostilities could flare up again very easily."

In such an uneasy world he believed Canada must take active steps to consolidate her defences. He recommended:

1. Compulsory military service for every Canadian between 18 and 25 years—one year at least but with the choice of serving only one year in this age group.
2. Compulsory part-time participation in civil defence by every able-bodied man and woman.
3. Registration of every Canadian with a view to determining his or her role in civil defence.
4. Organization of all industries so that they could be put on a wartime footing with as little delay as possible.

Douglas Patterson, president of the Canadian Club, presided at the men's meeting and a vote of thanks to General Simonds was proposed by Brigadier A. G. McCarter.

Immediately afterward the general repeated his talk at a meeting of the Women's Canadian Club.

Railmen Authorize Strike Action

MONTREAL (CP) — Rail union leaders have been authorized to call a strike vote of 150,000 non-operating workers on the railways, it was learned Wednesday.

Informants said this decision was reached Tuesday at a meeting here of the 100-man general conference committee of the unions demanding contract concessions of more than $100,000,000 a year.

The committee announced Tuesday it is accepting the majority report of a federal conciliation board report recommending $60,000,000 worth—or a little better than half—of the 16 unions' proposals.

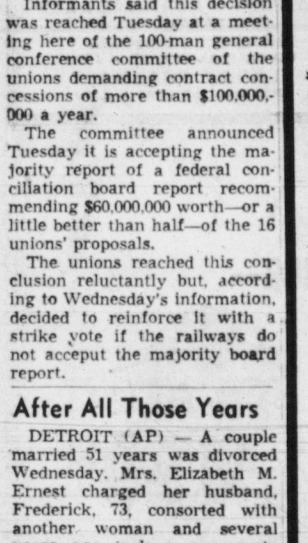

The unions reached this conclusion reluctantly but, according to Wednesday's information, decided to reinforce it with a strike vote if the railways do not acceput the majority board report.

CHIEFS STRESS FIRE PERMIT REQUIREMENT

Contact the fire department in your district before starting that rubbish or clean-up fire in your back yard.

Fire permits are required before burning in the city, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt.

All departments are issuing verbal permits for garbage and rubbish fires when contacted by phone.

Names and addresses of those requesting and receiving permission to burn are recorded in the fire departments.

Written permits must be obtained before heavier, or larger, land clearing fires are lit.

Limited burning time on all permits is from sunup to sundown, except in the case of beach and camping fires, which are governed by the forestry department.

Simple Test Soon After Birth May Block Mental Retardation

A simple laboratory test shortly after birth may prevent many cases of mental retardation, Dr. T. H. Patterson of the Provincial Health Department told the George Jay Home and School Club, Wednesday.

"Certain children are born with a nutritional deficiency which doesn't permit them to utilize food properly. This food form toxins in an infant's body which can cause retardation," he said in outlining a new finding in medical research.

"This condition will make itself known through a simple laboratory test shortly after an infant is born, and he can be put on a special diet before any damage is done," said Dr. Patterson.

The type of retardation caused by this deficiency is when a child merely has an unexplainably low I.Q., he said.

RESEARCH

He revealed that great interest into research of all causes of retardation has been stimulated within the medical profession within the last few years and that the emphasis is on prevention.

"Physicians realize that it is now not just the retarded child he must help, but also the parents, who suffer shock, sometimes develop mental illness, and occasionally seek divorce through not being properly informed of the causes of mental retardation.

"It can, and does occur in any family, income group, or race, and is second only to mental illness in incidence in our population," he said.

EDUCATE PUBLIC

Teacher Mrs. Flora Campbell, accompanying Dr. Patterson on a panel discussing all aspects of retardation, said the public has to be educated to spend more money so that the retarded receive training.

"Parents of retarded children support schools and colleges which their children can never attend, therefore there should be classrooms where the retarded can be taught."

Work of the Greater Victoria Association for Retarded Children was outlined by Mrs. Duncan Macphail, who spoke on the parents' viewpoint.

"After parents have accepted the fact that their child is retarded, they have to work at gaining acceptance of other parents and other children and finally the community," Mrs. Macphail told the meeting.

"Being the parent of a retarded child is first a shock and then a challenge, but the thrills are greater when a retarded child learns such ordinarily simple skills as buttoning coats and tying shoelaces," she said.

Accident made her victim of Rheumatic pain

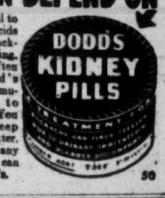

No matter how long you have been handicapped by the misery of rheumatic pain, you may get the relief for which you longed. Take the case of Mrs. Minnie M. McIntee, 131 South Vickers St., Fort William, Ont.: "For long enough I suffered from rheumatic pain in my hip, arm and hand, a result of being knocked down on the street by a falling sign. Sometimes the pain was extremely sharp, and my joints were stiff, sore and swollen. I did not find the medicine I needed—until my son used Templeton's T-R-C's for rheumatic pain. So I tried them too. It was a blessing I did, for at last I enjoyed the relief for which I longed. Now I'm up and active all day, thanks to Templeton's T-R-C's!" Let T-R-C's help you—only 79c and $1.50 at drug counters. T-115

MERRIE ENGLAND STILL

Little Talk Heard in U.K. Of Taxes, War, Says Visitor

BY TOM MERRIMAN

England is still the old happy country of tradition despite the trials of the last two decades, according to Bert Bridges of Sittingbourne, Kent.

Although newspapers may headline one crisis after another, war or the threat of war is no subject of discussion among English workmen. As always the predominating interests are the fortunes of the local soccer or cricket teams, the cup-tie and the test match.

With Mrs. Bridges, Mr. Bridges is on one of his periodical tours of the United States and Canada. • In Victoria where he lived a year or two as a youth, he is staying with his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. George Jarvis, 810 Byng.

A ringer for a genial John Bull, except for the whiskers and costume, Mr. Bridges has reason to radiate optimism. He owns 200 broad acres on three farms in Kent. With his lorries running to Covent Garden every day and also supplying a string of greengrocers' stores he has a ready market for all his farms can produce. In addition he has a loyal staff, most of whom have been with him many years, so he is free to follow the cricket and soccer games in which he has such a keen interest.

He is a director of the Gillingham Football Club in the English League, third division; is anxious to see an English team tour Canada and will do his best to see that any team that does come plays in Victoria.

While in Victoria he would like to discuss this subject with some of the leaders of the game in the city.

"Taxes are high in England," Mr. Bridges admitted. But with a shrug of his shoulders he expressed the philosophical attitude of the British taxpayer towards the mounting levies. "Why worry! There's nothing you can do about it."

He mentioned the 33⅓ per cent purchase tax on luxury items like motor cars, television or furniture. A £1,000 car, for instance, costs £1,500 when the tax is added, but people in England are not buying luxury items to the extent they are in Canada and the United States.

"There's no dollar down and a dollar for life system there," Mr. Bridges said. "A substantial deposit is required on anything bought on time payments."

Commercial television promises to be successful in England. It is not so good as in Canada but there is not nearly so much advertising. TV, however, does not play such a big part in the lives of the people of England as it does in Canada. Broadcasting is only for an hour or two a day. Greatest interest is in sport coverage, cricket, soccer and particularly big events like the test match and the cup-tie at Wembley. The great stadium accommodates 110,000 people, half of them seated. It is filled to capacity for a cup-tie game and more than twice that number would attend if there were room.

The British weight measure cwt., or hundredweight, is equal to 112 American pounds.

Allan Cup Ice Finals Go Tonight

Vernon Fans Give Chatham Big Welcome

VERNON, B.C. (CP)—Chatham Maroons, probably feeling like the star act at a three-ring circus after Wednesday's welcome to the Okanagan Valley, meet Vernon Canadians tonight in the series opener for the Allan Cup.

The Vernon Civic Arena is decked with flags and blue-and-white streamers in expectation of a full-house crowd of 3,200, paying up to $2 for tickets.

Chatham was sporting a full complement of 16 players in top condition. Coach Murph Chamberlain ran them through a workout at the arena Wednesday, three hours after the team arrived here by train to an all-out welcome by more than 4,000 holidaying Vernon residents and school children.

Chatham stepped off the trans-continental train into the biggest spontaneous reception this town of about 8,000 persons has seen.

Chatham vice-president Stanley Thompson called the welcome a "tremendous credit" to Vernon while coach Chamberlain said "we're lucky to be here and I hope we're as lucky getting out of here."

The best-of-seven series for senior amateur hockey supremacy in Canada continues here Saturday. A game each will be played at Kelowna and Kamloops before switching back here for the wind-up.

Vernon has been going through nightly workouts since eliminating the Winnipeg Maroons in the western final.

The only doubtful starter is winger Merv Bidoski, who has been nursing a bad knee recently. Should he be sidelined, coach George Agar will use Yogi Kraiger, hefty defenceman with Trail of the Western International Hockey League. The Canadians announced earlier that Kraiger had been cleared to play in the final.

The Canadians previously added Jack Macdonald, a centre with Penticton Vs, and Kelowna Packers winger Brian Roche in their bid for the Allan Cup.

HAPPY MOMENT OF VICTORY

Jockey Geoff Lewis, right, on Canoe, turns and smiles happily at Ken Gethin on Dark Shadow as his mount flashes over the finish line first in the Enfield Plate race at Alexandra Park, England. Lewis' smile of victory came none too soon, however, as Canoe took the race from Dark Shadow by just half a length, with The Bullet coming in third two lengths back. (Mirrorpic Photo.)

Yogi's Game Room Could Be Crowded

Berra Sets Sights Early On MVP Award

By The Associated Press

Yogi Berra is running this "most valuable player" thing into the ground.

With three American League MVP plaques already up on the game-room wall in his Woodcliff Lake, N.J., home, the 31-year-old New York catcher is off to his best start yet in a shot at an unprecedented fourth award.

Yanks have scored 19 runs in walloping Senators twice so far in Washington and Yogi, always a dangerous hitter with a man on base, has driven in seven of them. He gave Senators a fit—reaching base safely in his first nine trips to the plate in the two games with five hits and four walks.

It wasn't until his 10th trip that Washington—showing even worse pitching than was expected—finally got him out, on a pop foul. That was in the eighth inning of Wednesday night's game and by then the damage had been done as Yanks packed away a 9-5 decision.

EVEN WITH BOSTON

Yogi, who drew three walks in the game, got his licks in early, hitting a two-run single as Yankees scored four times in the first off former teammate Bob Wiesler.

The 2-0 record enabled Yankees to keep pace with Boston Red Sox, who rallied to beat Baltimore 8-4 Wednesday for their second straight. Chicago and Cleveland were idle. Cold weather postponed Kansas City at Detroit.

The National League had only one game scheduled, and New York Giants scored twice in the ninth to take another one-run decision from Pittsburgh 5-4.

BUCS GET FINED

Willie Mays provided the clinch hit for Giants, lining a two-out single to score the winning run in the ninth after Alvin Dark's sacrifice fly had tied the score. Vern Law had retired 10 in a row in a fine relief bit until the ninth.

Frank Thomas homered twice for the Bucs, who chased starter Ruben Gomez with three runs in the fourth.

The second one-run defeat cost two Pirates—Roberto Clemente and Dale Long—$25 fines for what manager Bobby Bragan termed "careless plays."

Putting Counts Most in Empress

By BILL RAYNER

The weather and the golf surrounding the 26th annual Empress Golf Tournament out at Victoria Golf Club have been getting hotter day by day.

Wednesday, both were sizzling.

It was a day for low scores, birdies, arrow-straight putts and sunbathing. Five of the eight matches in the second round of championship play went to the 18th green or further beneath a brilliant sun that bathed the picturesque Oak Bay layout in temperatures hovering in the 60's.

Today, some more close matches are forecast as the championship play reaches the eights and business starts to be business for those seeking the Sir Edward Beatty Trophy.

Wednesday, the putts were the ones that counted the most.

Ken Lindley of Seattle, wondering how he'd "got this far, anyway," canned a 30-ft. putt on the 18th to shunt aside Calgary's Art Davis, medalist runner-up, 1 up, for the most convincing demonstration of greenwork.

This was just about matched by D. W. Coons of Vancouver, Wash., who is being touted as a good bet for the championship. Coons took a 1 up victory from tough Roger Peck, Tacoma, on the 18th with a 10-foot putt. Peck missed an 18-incher to lose.

Then there was W. J. Gilbert of Mt. Vernon, who put away a six-footer against "giant-killer" Fred Buhrman, Anacortes, to take the final and deciding hole.

R. Cossey, New Westminster, moved into the eights, too, with a narrow victory, having to birdie the 19th to defeat George Cartwright, Victoria, while big Ed Manley, Seattle, halved the 18th with J. L. Flynn, Portland, to retain a 1-up edge.

Other championship matches were just as interesting, if not as close. Ed Rapp, Vancouver, Wash., another swinger gaining favor as a finalist, downed H. K. Nichols, Vancouver, 4 and 2; H. L. Onstad, Seattle, did the same to Ed Forst, Vancouver, and P. O. Perrson, Seattle, nipped E. Gudewill, Victoria, 4 and 3.

Some of the best golf was reserved for the lower flights. Bill McColl, who was ousted by Buhrman in the championship round Tuesday, gave a classic demonstration of the game Wednesday to fire a 64 against J. L. Hansen, Seattle, in the Empress flight.

And promising junior Bob Hunt was left wondering what he had to do to win a match. Bob shot a one-under-par 68, and still just squeaked by with a 1-up win over H. R. Pike, Victoria, in the Colwood flight.

Over in the ladies' championship round at Uplands Golf Club, the par-breaking was a little more subdued.

Most local girls managed to come through by varying margins, however, and with five of today's eight quarter-finalists from Victoria, an all-city final could be possible.

Victorians picking up victories were Mrs. G. H. Rice, 4 and 3 over Mrs. L. B. Garrett, Seattle; Mrs. E. Jackson, 1 up over Mrs. C. M. Royal, Seattle; Mrs. R. E. Fraser, 3 and 2 over Mrs. R. A. Leedy, Portland; Mrs. H. G. MacKenzie, 4 and 3 over Mrs. S. Caster, Portland, and Mrs. J. H. Wilson, 1-up over Mrs. A. G. Robbins, Victoria.

In other championship matches Wednesday, Mrs. R. W. Thorpe, Seattle, defeated Mrs. C. V. H. Bryan, Victoria, 1 up; Mrs. G. H. Waterman, Seattle, defeated Mrs. H. E. Valo, Victoria, 2 and 3, and Mrs. A. E. McCourt, Seattle, defeated Mrs. G. Green, Seattle, 4 and 3.

Everybody 'At Home' For Times Golf Semis

When the Times Vancouver Island Match Play Open Golf Tournament goes back to Colwood Golf Club this Sunday, home course familiarity could mean nothing or everything.

VINCE CLARKSON

The tournament, having completed its cycle of city clubs, returns to its original starting point for the second time around and four Colwood swingers will attempt to master their own course over a 36-hole grind.

Defending champion Bill McColl, 1952 champion Ted Colgate, Laurie Kerr and Vince Clarkson, all of the host club will be competing for two berths in the 36-hole final, scheduled for the following Sunday at Gorge Vale Golf Club.

McColl, who fired a brilliant 64 at Oak Bay Wednesday during the Empress Tournament, takes on poker-faced Kerr, who defeated Laurie Carroll last Sunday.

UPSET MINDED

In the other match Clarkson, who stamped himself as a tournament and gallery favorite Sunday with a cartwheeling extra-hole upset of Dr. George Bigelow, meets polished stylist Colgate.

The semifinalists will play 18 holes in the morning with a break for lunch and 18 holes in the afternoon.

In the handicap division, Mel Carlow takes on Laurie Greenwood, and George Buckingham tangles with Vic Lea.

OPEN

9.30 and 2.00—Ted Colgate vs. Vince Clarkson.

9.40 and 2.10—Bill McColl vs. Laurie Kerr.

HANDICAP

PROMISING YOUNG Portland boxer, Dave Peters, 132 pounds, will be on the "Tournament of Champions" card at Central Junior High School Friday night.

BOXING PARODY

Novel Display To Feature Fight Card

The whys and wherefores of what is going on will be explained Friday night during the second annual Optimist Tournament of Champions boxing show at Central Junior High School.

During the half-time intermission Friday night the Navy Boxing Club will take over the ring to present their skillful and hilarious boxing demonstration which includes a slow-motion demonstration of the scoring of a fight, legal and illegal tactics and winds up with a side-splitting parody of different types of boxers.

The demonstration will be shown only on Friday night and will not be repeated Saturday in the second night of the tournament.

Over the two nights, there will be approximately 26 bouts with divisional finals being held Saturday night.

Division champions will receive Indian sweaters as their prizes and runners-up will be given trophies.

There will also be trophies for the winner of every weight division, presented by city firms and the Rockgas Propane Trophy will go to the gamest loser.

BOSTON (AP)—Boston Red Sox Wednesday announced option of catcher Haywood Sullivan to their San Francisco farm club in the Pacific Coast League.

Bill's 64 Good, But Phil's Better

By BILL RAYNER

Bill McColl is through taking chances. After shooting a 72 Tuesday at Victoria Golf Club and still losing his first match in the Empress Golf Tournament, Bill has done away with par or near-par figures.

So Wednesday, playing his first match in the Empress flight, Bill blistered the par-69 Oak Bay layout with a mighty 64, to unofficially tie the amateur record set by Vic Painter and come to within a couple of birdies of equalling host pro Phil Taylor's course record of 61, set in 1931.

"I guess," said Bill after it was over, "I was a little mad, at that."

After losing to 24-handicapper Fred Buhrman of Anacortes, 1 up on the 18th Tuesday to drop out of championship contention, Bill had a right to be. He took it out Wednesday on Jim Hansen of Seattle, a 12-handicapper, and until he slackened off on the last few holes, was heading straight for Taylor's record.

Bill started at the 11th tee. He birdied the 11th, parred the next three, then came through with a prodigious eagle 2 on the 400-yard 15th. He birdied the 16th and 17th, parred the 18th, and birdied the first.

For his first nine holes, he was six under par. He went seven under by birdying the second and was still that way when he hit the par-four sixth. There his chances to catch Phil faded. He three-putted for a bogie five, then over-clubbed his second on the 197-yard ninth for a bogie four to "drop" to five under.

Taylor turned the trick back in '31 by going out in 27 strokes and cruising in in 34.

Oh yes, Bill won his match from Hansen, 6 and 5, although the official record will give him a 1-up victory.

Babe Ruth Baseballers To Open Season May 6

Looking forward to another highly successful season, Victoria's Babe Ruth League starts its second year of operation May 6, with over 225 youngsters taking part.

The league is part of a Canada-United States-wide organization formed to give youngsters 13-15 years of age a chance to play ball and in Victoria is affiliated with the Victoria and District Amateur Baseball Association.

Under president Colin Kilburn the league will again have six teams this year, with four or more farm teams.

Sponsors of teams will be McCall-Davey Drugs, last year's champions, Optimists, United Commercial Travellers, Eagles, Tillicum Athletic Club and Menzies Fuel.

Farm teams named so far are Patterson Construction, Outdoor Supermarkets, Island Decorators and one unnamed squad. If needed, more teams will be formed to handle all the youngsters that want to play. Saanich firemen are handling the farm team system for the Babe Ruth League this season.

Registrations and workouts are continuing this week, and this Sunday the auction of players will be held to line the boys up with various teams.

All during spring training, managers and coaches have been "scouting" the players, and Sunday the managers will "buy" the lads they want with 30,000 credits supplied for the purpose. Coaches then hold workouts, and 15 boys are kept for the varsity while the remainder enter the farm teams.

The league will play every day except Monday and Saturday, with a double-header Sunday. Games will be played at Beacon Hill Park. Farm teams will play their games at Reynolds Road Park and Macdonald Park, and their weekly dates have not yet been set.

The Babe Ruth League is open to any youngster born before Sept. 1, 1945, and after Sept. 1, 1940. The program is the same as that started in Little League baseball, and there are no limitations or boundaries for the boys who wish to play.

To help stimulate interest in the program, the league will send during the season to the parents of each boy registered letters telling of the league's operation and how their boy is faring in competition.

UNITED BOOTERS GET FRIDAY NIGHT DATES

His Pacific Coast Soccer League franchise having been accepted, Victoria United president George Eade has uncrossed his cramped fingers and passed another hurdle.

Eade conferred with the City Parks Board Wednesday morning and was granted the use of Athletic Park every Friday night for United's home games in the summer league.

United is expected to open its home season under the lights at Athletic Park May 25.

Oak Bay Edges Vics To Even Soccer Final

Oak Bay High School put themselves back on solid footing in the fight for the city high school soccer crown Wednesday as they downed Victoria High School 2-1 in the second game of the best-of-three series.

Vic High, who won the first game 1-0, played better soccer Wednesday than they did in the first match, but defensive errors proved their downfall.

Jamie Costain was given the credit for the first goal, which was scored early in the first half. Rightwinger Pete Napper of the Bays crossed a kick in front of the Victoria goal mouth. A Vic High back miss-kicked the ball, it bounced off Costain's knees and rolled tantalizingly into the goal.

From that time on the ball was almost constantly in the Oak Bay zone, with Vic High centre Lance Rutherford driving two bullet shots at the goal. Each time Oak Bay goalie Bernie Johnson out-guessed the tall centreman and picked off the ticketed shots.

Just before half time, Vic High came through with the tying counter. Right winger Alf Patterson crossed the ball in front of the goal to Al Taylor, who headed a shot off the post.

Rutherford then headed in the rebound, beating goalie Johnson neatly.

After the break the two teams settled down to hard, close soccer, each squad sharing even possession of the ball. This stalemate continued until the final two minutes of the game.

And then it happened.

The ball was in the Vic High zone with Oak Bay hot in pursuit.

One of the Victoria backs, pressed from all sides attempted to do the only thing he could with the ball—clear it back to the goalie. He hit his pass with too much instep, however, and it lobbed over the head of goalie Tom English, bouncing into the goal for the winning counter.

It was a piece of bad luck, but it did the trick as far as the jubilant Bays were concerned.

With the series tied at one game apiece, the two teams will meet Monday afternoon at Central park to decide who will represent the city against the mainland in the B.C. finals.

Game time will be 3.45.

THE SCOREBOARD BY Harry Grayson

Most people express surprise when told that more people bet more money on baseball than on racing.

Yet any bookmaker will tell you that.

You know what is paid into pari-mutuel machines in 24 states each year? It was $2,732,114,820 in 1955. That's a matter of public record. People read of $2,000,000 daily handles at a single track. The great majority fail to take into consideration that this is money wagered over again on as many as eight races.

The government licencing bookmakers drove practically all of the more important ones out of the racing business. Acquiring a government stamp, the bookie tipped his mitt. Government authorities notified the local gendarmes and that spelled harassment.

The result is comparatively small bets with the books. There are two reasons for this. The bookie doesn't know what the price will be. The bettor can't be sure of his money in case his horse bounces down at a fat price. So players making sizable wagers go to the track and knock down the price on the horse they like.

Baseball Has 100 Million Punters

There are numerous reasons why more money is wagered on baseball than racing.

More people are interested in baseball—100 million, according to commissioner Ford Frick, double what any other sport can claim. The 100 million may be divided into three categories: those who bet with each other, those who participate in weekly pools and those who bet with bookies. Practically every office, business house and factory sponsors a pool of some sort.

Everybody seems to have his own baseball bookie, and for some inexplicable reason he isn't hounded by the cops like the hoss variety.

Betting on baseball is much simpler than betting on horses away from the track. There are only two teams involved. This fact encourages more substantial bets. The run gimmick reduces the odds on one-sided games.

Off-course betting on horses requires slips. Neither bookie nor player can memorize an afternoon of 2 and 2, if money, round robins, etc. There is evidence for the cops.

There Is No Form Sheet Printed

Save for the World Series, odds on baseball are neither published nor broadcast, yet there is a line in every village, town and city in the nation. In the larger centres, the bulk of the business is done by telephone.

"In smaller communities, the bookie is usually a shopkeeper or business man whose secondary occupation is common knowledge," reports John Davenport. "Even the austere figure of the local undertaker has been known to extend his black-gloved hand to pay off and collect.

Davenport, authoring a piece in Esquire, studied the nuances of the game for 20 years, gives bettors "the tools with which one can accurately evaluate when major league teams will win and when they will lose."

The first mandatory rule of his system is: Never bet on a team unless it has won its preceding game.

Baseball is a game of momentum, you see.

Don't get shut out.

Bible-Reading Bobby Earns Narrow Decision

CHICAGO (BUP) — Bobby Boyd, a Bible-reading boxer who doffs horn-rim spectacles when he puts on the gloves, wants a middleweight title chance, but until it comes along, he said he would fight "anybody the IBC'll give me."

Boyd won his 10th straight fight Wednesday night with a split decision over rough and ready Holly Mims, Washington, D.C., in the Chicago stadium. But it was an uphill battle after Mims, weighing 156½ to Boyd's 161, counter-punched his way to an early lead.

"He's the toughest guy I ever fought," Boyd breathed in the dressing room. "He could beat Eduardo Lausse, George Johnson and Gene Fullmer all in one night."

Boyd, 22 years old, compared to Mims' 26, went into the scrap with "peace of mind and relaxed" because he followed his usual custom of reading the Bible for an hour before the bell.

"I do it before every fight," he said. "The same chapter every time, but I won't tell what chapter it is. But that's what I read all the time, at night when I can't get to sleep."

Mims skipped the dressing room literature and shadowed boxed instead to warm up. He started the bout in similar fashion, driving right and left hooks over Boyd's guard to pile up points. But he tired after the fifth round and went to the canvas in the sixth when Boyd landed a right-left combination.

NOW IT'S UP TO ROCKY

'Peace Dinner' Ends Norris-Weill Feud

NEW YORK (AP) — The Al Weill-Jim Norris "feud" which both sides insist has been genuine, ended Tuesday night at a "peace dinner" when the future of heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano was discussed.

Weill will leave Thursday for Macon, Ga., where the champion will make an appearance Friday. The manager expects to get some word from Rocky on his future plans.

"I want to talk to Rocky to see what all this retirement stuff is about," said Weill. "I don't know how he feels."

"Maybe he feels he don't want to fight any more. I'll go along with Rocky. If he wants to retire nobody could change him and I wouldn't try."

Weill said Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, called him late Tuesday and proposed a dinner date.

"Jim told me he thought he could make a Floyd Patterson-Hurricane Jackson match if he could be assured that Rocky would fight the winner in September," said Weill.

"I told him I couldn't do anything until I see Rocky."

Norris confirmed his reconciliation with Weill.

Rookie Injured

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP)—Ted Bowsfield, rookie southpaw with San Francisco Seals of the Pacific Coast League, is due home to Penticton after a badly-dislocated ankle cut short his first leap to big-money baseball.

His mother, Mrs. Queene Bowsfield, said Wednesday her son will likely have his foot in a cast for about four weeks. It is possible he will be able to rejoin the Seals later in the season.

Fain Real 'Old Pro'; Padres Top Mounties

By United Press

The old pros were the big wheels again Wednesday night in the Pacific Coast League.

Biggest of the men getting rounder was Ferris Fain, the old athlete from the Athletics.

Fain came off the bench in the 14th inning and drove a ball to left field, giving Sacramento a 2-1 overtime win over Hollywood.

Veteran Howie Judson made his PCL debut for Seattle by pitching a 7-2 victory over San Francisco. San Diego beat Vancouver 10-5 and Bob Kerrigan was the winner. And Portland's 6-0 win from Los Angeles was pitched by Bob Alexander and sparked by Jim Baxes.

Vancouver got the home runs but San Diego got the scores in the southerly city.

Jim Pisoni, Angelo Bagres and Gary Robin homered for Vancouver but it did no good against the bunched hitting of the Padres.

Bob Harrison, who had won two without a loss, was dumped for the first time and Kerrigan took the win although he needed help from veteran Al Gettel.

R. C. Stevens hammered a home run in the top of the ninth in Sacramento to tie the game for the Stars and the blanks kept coming up until the 14th.

Then Sacramento got a couple of men on base with two out and called on the "old pro." Fain, who won a couple of batting championships and won another game by pushing a single.

Harvey Must Answer To NHL President

MONTREAL (CP)—President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League said Wednesday he has asked for a meeting with Doug Harvey, Montreal Canadiens defenceman to discuss a fracas involving a spectator during the Stanley Cup playoffs in Detroit.

Steve Kemeny, 37, a spectator at the April 5 game between Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings, claimed Harvey struck him in the face with a stick. Kemeny said the alleged assault followed his heckling of the star defenceman.

John Heydler, Dies

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—John A. Heydler, 86, former president of the National Baseball League, died Wednesday.

Heydler was actively associated with professional baseball for 50 years and was president of the National League from 1918 to 1934.

He was made honorary board chairman for life when he retired from the presidency because of failing health.

He was considered one of the most forceful leaders the league has had.

WARRIORS-CANUCKS RESUME WHL FINAL

Hockey playoffs resume tonight.

Vancouver Canucks and Winnipeg Warriors meet in the fifth game of the Western League best-of-seven final at Winnipeg, with the series tied at two games each.

In the Eastern final, the Montreal Royals meet the Cataracts at Shawinigan Falls, Quebec, and hold a three-one lead over the Cats. A win tonight would send the Royals into the final.

Lucille Declines Car; Her Fans to Ask Why

ST. JOVITE, Que. (CP) — Olympic skier Lucille Wheeler Tuesday night refused with "deep regret" a sparkling cream and blue car offered her by her home-town admirers.

The pretty Laurentians athlete, who won a bronze medal at the winter Olympics in Cortina, said at a civic banquet that she appreciated the "kind thought and great effort that has gone into its presentation, but I must refuse to accept the car with deep regret as I wish to remain an amateur . . ."

Organizer Leo Girard said he would take "immediate steps" to approach the international Olympics Association on why Miss Wheeler must refuse the auto. He said the car isn't a salary but a tangible expression of appreciation from Miss Wheeler's fans.

IBC Charged With Monoply Of Title Bouts

NEW YORK (UP)—The International Boxing Club goes on trial in a federal court today, charged with monopolizing the promotion of championship boxing bouts in the United States.

Judge Sylvester Ryan was scheduled to preside over the proceedings in the U.S. district court. They mark the third round in the court contest between the government and the IBC, the government having emerged on top after the first two.

Charges against the IBC were originally brought in March, 1952. The U.S. district court for New York gave the first round to the defendant, ruling that boxing, like baseball, was not a business subject to federal anti-trust laws. But ruling was upset by the U.S. supreme court in February, 1955, when it ruled that boxing was subject to these laws.

Canadians Lose

GENOA, Italy (AP) — Paul Willey of Vancouver was eliminated in the second round of the Genoa international tennis tournament Wednesday after getting through the first round.

He defeated Luciano Morelli of Italy, 2-6, 6-3, 6-2, then lost 6-2, 6-4 to Ian Vermaaak of South Africa.

Lawrence Barclay, also of Vancouver, was beaten 9-7, 6-2 by Giacomo Baron of Italy in the opening round.

HIBERNIAN ELIMINATED

EDINBURGH (AP)—Rheims of France defeated Hibernian of the Scottish League 1-0 Wednesday night and qualified for the final of the European soccer cup competition. The French side won on an aggregate of 3-0.

Jimmy Can't Recall Who Got the 10 G's?

OAKLAND, Calif. (BUP)—Jimmy Murray was scheduled to return to the stand today as a state committee sought to find out if the rotund promoter paid manager Al Weill $10,000 "under the table" for world champion Rocky Marciano's services last May.

James E. Cox, counsel for the committee which recently finished investigating the boxing game in Los Angeles, highlighted the first day of northern California hearings Wednesday by confronting Murray with six drafts of financial statements which listed a payment of $10,000 to "A.W." in five cases and "Al Weill" in another.

The so-called "work sheets" were rough drafts which Murray said he and his secretary prepared before issuing a financial statement on the Marciano-Don Cockell world heavyweight title fight in San Francisco last May 16.

Cox also submitted for evidence a checkbook stub showing a payment of $10,000 to "A.W." on the day of the fight, saying that rule 561 in the state boxing regulations bans "secret agreements" between managers, fighters or promoters. Guilty parties face loss of licences.

Murray steadfastly denied making any $10,000 payment.

Murray also said he had "no explanation" how the name of Al Weill" or "A.W." got on to his preliminary drafts.

WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prices continued to show irregularity at the close today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, with export business confined to parcels of barley to the United Kingdom and rye to Denmark.

Oats and barley prices held to a narrow range. Oats was mostly a domestic trade, although United States buying came in on occasions.

Overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat totalled 1,605,000 bushels, including: United Kingdom 750,000, Italy 375,000, Soviet Russia 195,000, Germany 185,000 and Belgium 100,000.

CHICAGO

CHICAGO (AP) — A sharp upturn in old crop soybeans led the entire grain market higher on the board of trade today.

Dealings became active on the advance as new seasonal highs were set by all corn and oats futures.

Corn and oats spurted on firm cash grain markets and growing emphasis on the fact corn will receive price support aid this year even if farmers do not comply with acreage allocations. This has not been the case in previous years.

Continued dry weather in the southwest was the main help to wheat.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Prices Slip At Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Prices continued to slip during afternoon stock exchange trading today. The downward drift began in the late morning after an early advance petered out.

Scattered firm areas appeared in the industrial list. Most of the banks posted fractional gains, although Bank of Montreal lost $2.12 at $53.37, and selected steels were in demand.

Price Brothers was off $2 at $64 and B.C. Phone slipped $1.50.

Opemiska led the lower mines, off .25.

Petrol moved actively among the western oils, climbing 20 cents to $1.95. Central Explorers jumped 70 cents to $5.70.

NEW YORK

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market declined quietly today with low ebb in the late afternoon.

Most of the decline was fractional but a few key stocks were off 1 to 2 points.

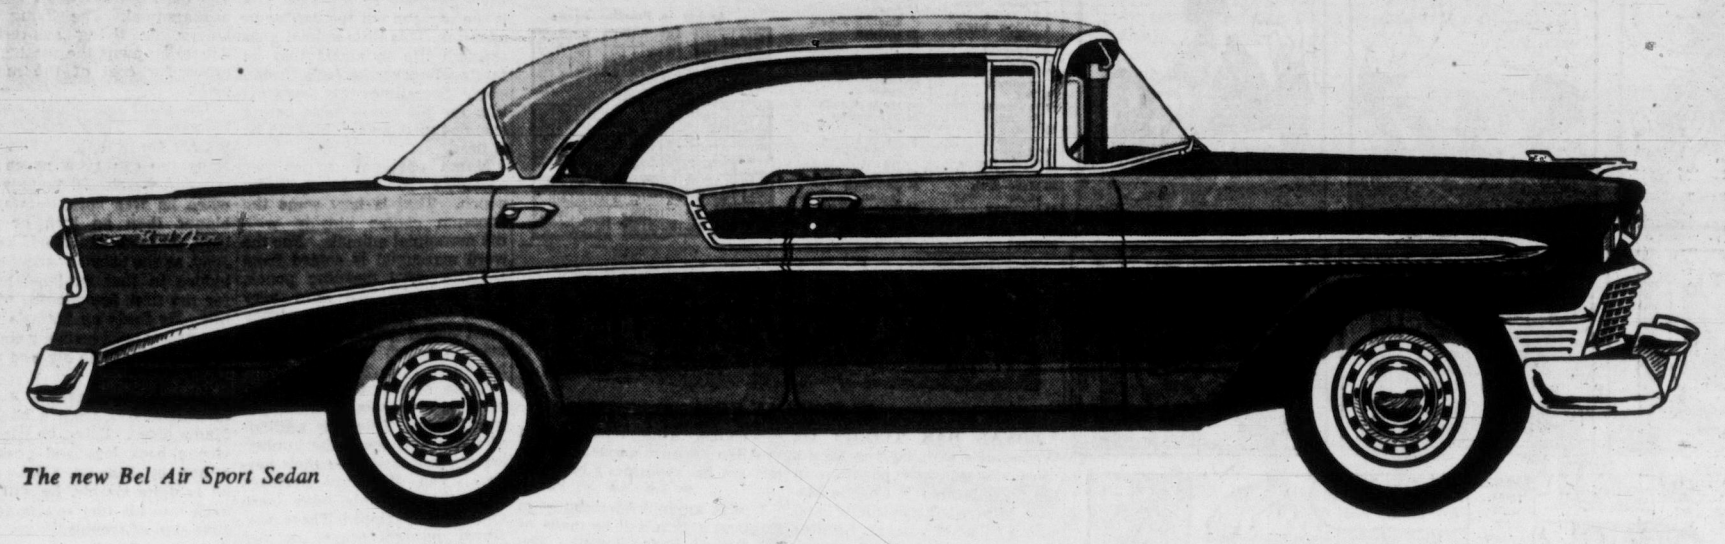

No new developments were offered to account for the decline, which is in the pattern of recent sessions.

Canadian stocks were mixed.

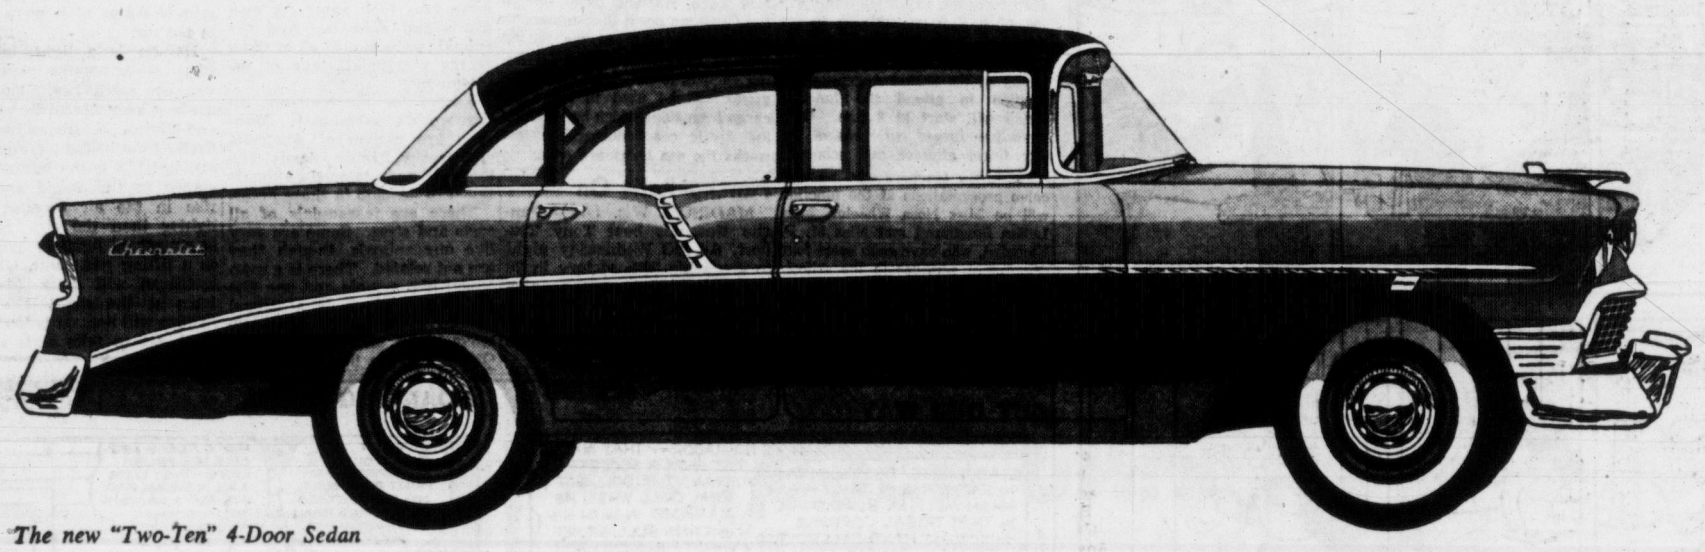

Higher were McIntyre, up ⅛, Walker-Gooderham ⅜, and Hudson Bay Mining ⅛. International Nickel dropped ⅜, Canadian Pacific fell ⅜ and Distillers Seagrams eased ⅛.

On the American stock exchange Preston East Dome dropped 3-16

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books? Then ask Andy?

Andy, who is a pixie, not a person, will answer two questions daily submitted by child readers of Canada and the U.S. Children who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive as prizes, for the main question, either a 16-volume set of "The Children's Hour" or a 20-volume set of "The American People's Encyclopedia." Prizes for the secondary question will be an "American People's Encyclopedia Year Book" or a year's subscription to "Treasure Trails" plus "Andy's Everyday Encyclopedia."

Address your questions to "Ask Andy" Victoria Daily Times, Victoria.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of The American Peoples Encyclopedia to Billy Knapp, aged 12, of Bridgeport, Conn., for his question:

What Is a Marsupial?

One kind of marsupial enjoys life right here in America. He is the shy and not too handsome opossum. This little animal goes through life so afraid that he faints whenever he feels threatened. Sometimes this saves his life, for his fresh meat eating enemies walk away, thinking he is dead.

Mama opossum carries her new-born babies in a furry pouch. That is how come the opossum claims kinship with the marsupial animals. For the word marsupial is coined from a Latin word meaning pouch. All opossums are born very small and very helpless. They must spend weeks growing in mama's pouch or clutching in her furry coat.

There was a time when all sorts of marsupials roamed the world over. This was millions of years ago, when the lumbering dinosaurs were in their heyday. The dinosaurs perished and other animals with teeth and claws developed. These new, sturdy hunters preyed on the more helpless marsupials. Also, the animals who could carry their babies longer inside their bodies had a better chance of surviving. So, in most of the world, the pouched animals lost out in the fight to live.

It is believed that long, long ago Australia was close to the vast land mass of Asia and Europe. Millions of years in the past it separated and drifted across the southern hemisphere, taking New Guinea, Tasmania and other islands along with it. Naturally, the moving land mass also took along its own plants and animals. And the animals were almost all of them at the marsupial stage of development.

Except for the opossum, all the world's marsupials nowadays are natives of Australia and nearby Pacific islands. The toothed and taloned animals failed to develop in these areas.

There are marsupials of all sorts and sizes. Some are very like our animals, though they are not related. There is a marsupial like a mole and one like a mouse. There is a tunnel builder called a wombat who looks like a chubby little bear. One called the bandicoot looks and acts rather like a badger. The darling little koala bear is a marsupial. The flying phalanger, or flying squirrel of Australia, owns the most glamorous fur coat of the marsupials.

The giant marsupials are the kangaroos. Their smaller cousins are the wallabys. Old Man Kangaroo can grow seven feet tall and weigh 200 pounds, yet when he was born he was no bigger than an inch or two, bare, helpless and blind. Young Joey, as the baby is called, stays hidden in that fur-lined pouch for the first few months of his life. He feeds on Mama's milk and grows until he is big enough to peep out at the big and wonderful world.

Soon he reaches out a paw to grab a leaf from a bush as Mama dines. Later, he tries his strong back legs and goes for a hop by himself. But, until he is quite sizable, he will pop back into his fury cradle at the first sign of trouble.

* * *

Andy sends a year's subscription to Treasure Trails to Michael Parker, age 10, of Yoakum, Texas, for his question: What is helium?

Helium was discovered in 1868. Certain telescope pictures told that an unknown element was present in the sun. It was not known to exist on earth. So it was named from the Greek word helios, meaning the sun. Later is was found to be present also on earth. It was discovered in certain minerals and minute traces of it were found in the air.

Helium is a light, invisible gas. It is notable because it will not catch fire. This fact made it very useful in balloons and blimps. Hydrogen had been used as the lifting gas for these airships. It is the lightest substance in the world and will rise in the air because it is lighter than the air. Helium is almost as light as hydrogen as a lifting gas. But, whereas hydrogen will catch fire and burn at the slightest excuse, helium will not. It is the safest light gas to take aloft an airship.

State Department Okayed Speech

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Official United States government concern over the growing agitation in Canada against American investments in this country was reflected in Ambassador R. Douglas Stuart's speech at Vancouver, it is understood here in informed circles.

The U.S. state department had prior knowledge of the controversial contents of the speech the ambassador delivered at the west coast city. The U.S. state department examines all such speeches and places its official OK or otherwise on their contents.

Advance copies were sent to Washington and to consulates across Canada several days before the speech was made on Monday, according to a U.S. embassy authority in Ottawa.

Thus the speech can be taken as an indication of the concern felt by the United States government over the mounting criticism voiced in Canada (chiefly by members of the Progressive Conservative and CCF opposition parties in the House of Commons) over the amount of American capital invested in Canadian industries and resources development.

OTTAWA (CP) — Retiring United States Ambassador R. Douglas Stuart, object of sharp opposition criticism in the Commons for a speech he made earlier this week, Wednesday received a warm tribute from an Independent member.

Ross Thatcher, Moose Jaw-Lake Centre, rose in the House to support a government resolution proposing ratification of the Canada-Russia trade treaty.

He suggested that if the Russians want to make a good impression in Canada, they would do well to follow Mr. Stuart's example.

Mr. Thatcher said that in Mr. Stuart's Vancouver speech Monday, "It seemed to me all he was talking was elementary common sense." In Mr. Thatcher's opinion, Mr. Stuart was one of the best ambassadors ever. In his retirement, Canada was losing a friend.

Ash Urges Amalgamation

The solution to the problems facing the Greater Victoria area is an over-all civic government, Saanich Reeve Arthur Ash told a meeting of the Real Estate Board at the Empress Hotel Wednesday.

He warned unless something was done to solve the sewage problem building in Saanich would suffer.

In addition, he said, there was the danger of a serious health problem arising due to septic tanks which are seeping into open ditches and drains.

The reeve noted that the incidence of polio in Saanich is higher than the rest of the Greater Victoria area. This, he said, might be due to some extent on septic tank seepage in some of the urban areas.

The reeve said municipalities should be able to borrow money from provincial and federal governments at a low rate of interest for sewage projects.

Mainland Trade Office Planned By Russians

OTTAWA (BUP)—Russia has asked permission to open a trade office in Vancouver.

External Affairs Minister Lester B. Pearson said in Parliament Wednesday the government was studying the request. He said the office would be used to speed grain shipments to Siberian ports under the new Canadian-Russian trade agreement.

IN MURDER TRIAL

Witness Charges Intimidation

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Crown witness at the murder trial of two men charged with shooting of police constable Gordon Sinclair said Wednesday there is "no doubt someone is trying to intimidate me over the phone."

The statement was made by F. H. Healey, owner of a dry cleaning shop near the murder scene, while the jury was excluded.

He said he had received two calls, but did not know if they were from the same person.

Crown counsel W. A. Schultz told the court that "some anonymous phone calls are being made . . . not only to this witness (Mr. Healey) . . . another witness has also received calls."

He did not identfy the other witness involved.

Mr. Healey indicated that one phone call was apparently an attempt to make him change his testimony concerning the time he says 34-year-old Joseph Gordon came to his dry cleaning shop on the night of the slaying.

Gordon and 27-year-old James Carey are accused of shooting Constable Sinclair last Dec. 7 while the policeman was investigating reports of intruders in the Granville Street bridge area of midtown Vancouver.

ASKED FOR FAVOR

Mr. Healey said Gordon came to his store about 7.15 p.m. and said "I want you to do me a favor."

He had driven Gordon to one place, where Gordon left the car for a few minutes, and then to a second address where Gordon had left him.

The anonymous caller, who gave a name that sounded like "Joe Peet," "told me the time (of Gordon's visit) was about 8.30," Mr. Healey said.

"I said I guessed the time was around 7.15 or 7.30 . . . that was all I knew and I hung up the receiver."

He said he learned of Constable Sinclair's death over the radio when he returned from driving Gordon.

Police inspector Peter Lamont testified that he and five other police officers took Gordon into custody at 11.30 p.m. in a West End basement suite.

Earlier Constable Derek Brooks said he found a .45-calibre automatic pistol near the scene of the shooting.

DESCRIBES CHASE

Const. Brooks also told of chasing a man on foot only a short distance from the spot Const. Sinclair was shot to death, beneath the south end of the Granville Street bridge.

He said he lost sight of the man and returned to the shooting scene where he found Const. Sinclair's body lying on the road beside the open door of a police car.

BCE Bus Drivers Ask Conciliation In Wages Dispute

VANCOUVER (CP)—A wage dispute between the B.C. Electric Co. and more than 2,400 bus drivers in Vancouver, New Westminster and Victoria will go to conciliation, it was announced Wednesday.

Officials of the Street Railwaymen's Union (AFL) said the membership has rejected a tentative wage offer from the company because "we were too far apart to be able to continue negotiations."

Dr. Jean MacDonald, Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, will speak on "Electronic Calculators", at a meeting tonight at 6.30 of Victoria Kinsmen Club. The meeting, at Pacific Club, will discuss several items of business.

MUSIC FESTIVAL DRAWS 400 IN COWICHAN AREA

DUNCAN—More than 400 entries will participate in the Cowichan Musical Festival which will open in the high school here Saturday and continue daily until April 28.

Graham Steed, FRCO (London), of Victoria, is the adjudicator for the piano and violin sections. Harry Bigsby, director of music in Victoria schools, will judge the instrumental sections. Mrs. F. Accident Victim Still Unconscious

CAMPBELL RIVER (CP)—Lorne Marshall, 17-year-old traffic accident victim, entered his fifth day of unconsciousness at Lourdes Hospital today.

Hospital authorities said his condition was still critical.

Marshall was injured Saturday in a car crash at Oyster River, near here.

The beaver has the swimming power more highly developed in his hind feet than has any other quadruped.

Polio Shots For Million Children Set

OTTAWA (CP) — Enough polio vaccine to provide the first dose for about 1,000,000 Canadian children now has been tested and approved by the federal hygienic laboratories, authorities disclosed Wednesday.

About triple that amount is required to meet the target of inoculating 2,000,000 children with the first two protective doses against the crippling disease and the provision of the final third shots to the 880,000 inoculated last year.

Officials said 10 batches of vaccine, each containing some 350,000 doses, are under test but that it is almost certain a portion of these batches will prove of low potency and will have to be thrown out.

However, the experts believe there still is a good chance sufficient vaccine will be produced before the school term ends to complete inoculations of a "substantial portion" of the numbers planned.

REPORTS ENCOURAGING

The matter was discussed before the Dominion health council at a closed three-day meeting which ended Wednesday and it is understood the provincial deputy health ministers who are council members received some encouraging reports on production possibilities. The council made no announcement on discussions.

It takes about six weeks for each batch of vaccine to go through final testing here.

Greek Drama Wins Three Merit Awards

LADYSMITH (CP)—A stark Greek classic, "The Trojan Women," presented by the Yellow Point Drama Group, won three certificates of merit from adjudicator Phoebe Smith in the Central Vancouver Island Drama Festival which opened here Wednesday night.

"This is the third festival I have attended this season and it is the first time a Greek drama has been presented," Miss Smith said. "It was a very ambitious thing to do. The play was commanding and challenging and yet presented with poise and dignity and with an understanding of tragedy."

The best director award was presented to Anne Mossman; best actress, Gwen Sauer, and best actor, Watkin Mossman.

AROUND and ABOUT

With JO HEALY

CAYCUSE—THE LILLIAN Roth story has, from all reports, made a human and honest picture show. I haven't seen it myself, but even the critics liked it so it must have been convincing. I did, however, read the story in book form and wondered why real life (and the tougher, the sadder, the more tragic, the more this strikes me) seems to read like a true confessions magazine. A good writer can take fictiopal life and make a moving, tender, believable tale of it, but too many biographical accounts, especially those about women, verge on the sticky.

★ ★ ★

THE DUCHESS OF WINDSor, who is, I don't doubt, a remarkable personality — at least she made exciting copy for awhile in late pre and early post-duchess days—now comes up with her autobiography. After wading through the first installment in a national magazine I gave up. I just couldn't see, somehow, anything of interest at all in her life, or why she could market such lengthy dullness involving a lot of her rather dull family and her equally dull thoughts and emotions from the time that she became two years old and onward through at least a half-century. And like Lillian Roth she had a considerable number of husbands which is okay in itself and the gal's own affair—that's why it strikes me as bad taste to attempt to impress on the world that each succeeding husband was the dreamboat, and the dreamer simply hadn't lived until dreamboat sailed over her horizon. All of which might be quite true as the heroine matures—perhaps each subsequent love is deeper than the last. But actually, why tell the world? Who cares—but dreamboat and his little cupcake?

★ ★ ★

AND AS EVERYONE IS having fun and games over the Grace Kelly wedding and the not too subtle ballyhoo which preceded it, I might as well add my two-bits worth.

To begin with, here was a romantic little escape from the ordinary that might have enchanted the world. Why not? Two celebrated, attractive and young principals meet, fall in love, and name their wedding day. The attending publicity was a natural sequence considering the fact that the one is a clever actress whose publicity had erstwhile been on a dignified plane, the other a member of a royal dynasty.

★ ★ ★

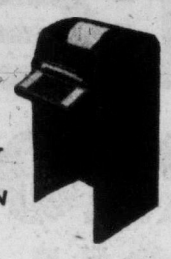

BUT ALONG COMES THE bride's mama, and spreads over a lot of the newspapers of the world a very cheap and ridiculous account of Grace and her girly-girly infatuations. She not only gushes about her daughter's early conquests, she intimates that by merely being present, by merely passing through, Grace's aura or what have you caused not an occasional man but every man to chew his fingers to the elbow with indelicate hunger. And a lot more unedifying trash. So I accuse mama of setting the pace for almost all of the absurd and sickening notoriety.

Victoria Art Dealer Found Dead in Gallery

Theo Hare, director of Norfolk Galleries and School of Art, 1160 Broad St., died Wednesday.

Mr. Hare was found dead on the floor of the art centre Wednesday night. A soldier, engineer and businessman, he was the organizer of Norfolk Galleries, which has become the focal point of a large portion of Victoria's art activity.

A descendant of a well-known Irish family, he was said to be in line to receive a title in the near future.

Mr. Hare is survived by his wife, two daughters, Kathleen and Geraldine, and son William.

Surplus Food Stall Needs Quick Help

Saturday and the next surplus food stall operation are fast approaching, with little cash in the coffers and little food on the shelves.

Mrs. E. E. Harper, co-ordinator, says that with senior citizens being cared for in increasing numbers, the need for donations by others more fortunate is greater than ever.

Gifts of any staple foods, butter, margarine, canned goods, milk (canned or powdered), breakfast cereals and potatoes are needed.

"Rhubarb is coming on," Mrs. Harper suggested, "perhaps someone will have some to spare. And anyone who is thinking of cleaning out their deep-freezers might think of our food stall simultaneously.'

GENEROUS AID

Cash will also be welcomed and put to good advantage by the food stall committee. It is taken to the wholesalers "who deal generously with us."

Donations may be left at McMorran's Pavilion, Cordova Bay; Graham's Grocery, Pat Bay Highway; McNutt's Grocery, Wilkinson Road, and the Victoria Meat Market, Broad and Johnson Streets.

Donors who wish their gifts called for are asked to get in touch with Mrs. Harper, 410 Vincent Street, telephone 3-9874.

Planes for Queen

LONDON (Reuters) — The Queen will use two new airliners and two helicopters for short distance travel, Air Secretary Nigel Birch announced Wednesday. For longer flights she will continue to use airliners provided by the national airlines, he told the House of Commons. The new airliners are four-engined Herons, normally seating between 17 and 20 persons.

Choristers Plan 'Requiem'

Spring concert of the Victoria Choral Society will take the form of a Mozart bicentenary commemorative event, with the presentation of the composer's famous "Requiem," his last composition, completed literally on his deathbed.

Also on the program is a late work of Sir Edward Elgar, "The Music Makers." The concert will take place at Victoria High School next Wednesday at 8.15.

With Graham Steed conducting, the Requiem will be sung in English. Soloists participating in the two works will be soprano Peggy Packard, contralto Eleanor Duff, tenor Edward Oldfield and baritone John Bray.

A small orchestra led by Corol McCartney and an organ accompaniment by Dorothy Mallory will assist the chorus.

Tickets are on sale now at Kent's box office, Fort Street.

BCE CHOIR SINGS TUESDAY

A B.C. Electric Glee Club concert at Royal Oak community centre Tuesday will complete the season of activity for the group.

Following the final concert, 13th public appearance in the past few months, a special meeting will be called for election of new officers and discussion of choir business.

Under direction of Mrs. Alma Wittick, the choir won top honors for second consecutive year at the B.C. Music Festival.

Big Gas Plant Planned Near Fort St. John

VANCOUVER (CP) — Contracts have been let for the construction of an $18,000,000 natural gas absorption plant near Fort St. John, B.C., it was learned here today.

The announcement was made by Pacific Petroleums Ltd., over the signature of President George L. McMahon, at present in New York on business.

The plant, to be completed in 1957, will be located on the north bank of the Peace river about 500 miles north of here and will be constructed by Marwell Construction Co. of Vancouver and Sterns-Roger Co.

"The plant will remove sulphur, natural gasoline, propane, butane and other valuable by-products from natural gasoline," the release said, "and may be the forerunner of new chemical industries for British Columbia."

More than 700 men will be employed in building the plant.

The operation is in three stages — the raw wet gas is scrubbed and cleaned, the liquid hydrocarbons are removed and elemental sulphur is produced. All three processes are necessary before the gas flows into the pipeline.

The production of sulphur in the initial stages, which will be between 250 and 300 tons daily, is more than the total requirements of the pulp and paper industry of B.C., which has been dependent on imports.

As well as sulphur and propanes and butanes, the release said, the plant will produce large quantities of high-grade fuel for cars, trucks and airplanes.

Press Tops TV, Radio—Massey

Governor-General Says Printed Word Will Never Lose 'Pride of Place'

TORONTO (CP)—Despite the popularity of radio and television, newspapers will never lose their "pride of place," says Governor-General Vincent Massey.

In an address to the annual banquet meeting of The Canadian Press, Wednesday night, Mr. Massey noted that "audio-visual means of communication are growing. More and more people are exposed to their impact."

"This can be a most primitive form of language and it seems sometimes that what it conveys is not received by the mind at all but is absorbed through the pores."

Mr. Massey, who headed the much-discussed royal commission on arts and sciences before he became governor-general, added that his words were "quite unfair to the best of what we hear on the air or see on the screen.

"But I am one of those old-fashioned enough to believe that although there is room for all these things, the printed word—and I am thinking just now of the newspaper — will never lose its pride of place . . . Vividness is no substitute for permanence."

Mr. Massey said that traveling throughout Canada, including the Arctic, he has seen gaps in mutual knowledge and comprehension which stand as a challenge to those who work for full national integration.

He told his audience of newspaper men:

"Here tonight I am conscious, as you have a right to be, of what Canadian newspapers have done through the years for the unity of Canada, and especially do I think of what The Canadian Press has accomplished as a great national news service.

"It's contribution to nation-building commands our gratitude. That object, of course, was very much in the minds of those who founded what all Canada knows as CP.

"It's task is one of vast importance and I would like to pay tribute to the way it has been performed, and to the qualities of thoroughness and fairness which have marked this great organization since the beginning."

D. B. Rogers, editor of the Regina Leader-Post, Wednesday was elected president of The Canadian Press, Canada's co-operative news agency.

He succeeds R. J. Rankin of the Halifax Chronicle-Herald and Mail-Star, president the last two years.

Roy Thomson of the Thomson Newspapers was re-elected honorary president.

Charles H. Peters of the Montreal Gazette was elected first vice-president, and John E. Motz of the Kitchener-Waterloo Record second vice-president.

Ten directors were elected Wednesday for two-year terms to complete the 19-man boad of The Canadian Press. Nine were elected last year.

Stuart Keate, publisher of the Victoria Daily Times was elected to represent the British Columbia region.

Other regions:

Atlantic — L. Chance Currie, St. John's, Nfld., News; R. J. Rankin, Halifax Mail-Star.

Ontario—John Bassett Jr., Toronto Telegram; K. R. Thomson, Kirkland Lake Northern News; John E. Motz, Kitchener-Waterloo Record.

MONTE ROBERTS

There is an exceptionally quotable quote in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post.

Here it is: "I'm against any form of censorship because I feel that when a song is wrong or the lyrics are wrong the good taste of the people will take care of it."

This quote is exceptionally quotable because it comes from the lips of William Mitchell Miller. Mr. Miller is better known to the palpitating followers of popular music as "Mitch" Miller, presiding genius of pops for Columbia Records.

Mr. Miller, who has such confidence in the good taste of the people, was directly responsible for Johnny Ray's "Cry," Frankie Laine's "Mule Train," Jimmy Boyd's "I Saw Mummy Kissing Santa Claus," all of which hit the 2,000,000 mark in record sales and burned out the tubes in countless radios.

What is good about this good taste of the people is, Mr. Miller understands it so well, he is able to earn upwards of $25,000 a year.

But please do not misunderstand me. I agree heartily with Mr. Miller's stand on censorship.

Even if it means being exposed to Alvis Prestley, if the public wants hiccoughs with its songs, the public is entitled to them.

The rest of us can always take refuge behind the little nob that turns off the radio.

And, in the fullness of time, the good taste of the people will no doubt demand a return to the type of popular song which is popular with me. I hope.

Speaking of good taste, in my personal opinion there was a considerable lack of it evidenced by an incident during Big Ben's strait swim attempt Wednesday.

A high-powered outboard appeared from the south, approaching the swim flotilla at a rate of knots. It circled the swim area at high speed, casting up a heavy wake in the vicinity of the swimmer.

I regret to report the driver of the boat was a man who knows something about swimming himself.

ONE SHIP IN PORT

Severe Slump Hits Shipping On Island

BY MONTE ROBERTS

Vancouver Island deep-sea shipping industry is in the midst of one of its worst slumps in post-war years.

Always unpredictable, cargo offerings have dropped off to the point where, for the second time in a week, the only ship in any of Vancouver Island's ports is at Esquimalt for repairs.

At present, only 21 ships are listed on the arrival board for May, including the regular U.K.-B.C. general cargo ships. Of these, at least six are listed only as "B.C." arrivals, meaning they may or may not load at Island ports.

Shipping men here hope for a resurgence in June or July. If the pattern of former years is followed, more ships than can be accommodated will turn up when the slump is over.

SOFT MARKET

Main cause of the slow-down, shipping men believe, is a "soft" U.K. market for wheat and lumber. A variety of causes are believed responsible; shippers may be waiting for lower cargo rates (ship charters are at a high level at present); buyers in Europe are getting lumber from the Baltic, a shorter and less expensive haul in the face of high freight rates; Sweden is accepting sterling for its lumber; and there may have been uneasiness on the part of U.K. businessmen prior to the bringing down of the national budget.

Volunteers Fight Two Major Fires

Second major fire in outlying districts within 15 hours gutted a large two-story building under construction at 1220 Goldstream avenue in Langford early this morning.

Wednesday men and equipment from three fire departments roared to the Old Mill Motor Court, 497 Island highway, after a gas-stove explosion touched off a blaze which gutted two cabin units and damaged four others.

Damage at the motor court was estimated at about $20,000.

Only the charred frame of the building in Langford remained standing today after Langford volunteer fire department brought the flames under control.

No estimate of damage was available.

The fire broke out at about 6.30 a.m.

FROM GRASS FIRE

Fire Chief Rod Bayles said the fire apparently started from a small grass fire at the rear of the building.

It spread through lumber piles and to the sheeted-in building. Piles of dried flooring and used material, stored inside the premises, were destroyed.

Sides and roof of the building, owned by William Heal, had been sheeted. It has been under construction for about four years.

An explosion believed from a gas stove was responsible for the motor court fire which swept through two units shortly before 4 p.m. Wednesday.

Bakery worker Peter Scheeran was asleep in the cabin where the explosion originated.

He told this story of the blaze:

"I was sleeping when an explosion woke me up.

"I jumped out of bed and yelled for my wife. She didn't answer and I began looking for her.

"I went into the living room but didn't see her. When I opened the kitchen door the room was a big mass of flame.

"I couldn't stay any longer. I couldn't get out the front door so I smashed a washroom window, wrapped myself in a drape and jumped out."

Mr. Scheeran rushed to his mother-in-law's cabin nearby, where he found his wife.

They lost nearly all possessions in the fire, including about $300 cash, clothing, wedding presents and a baby's outfit.

They are expecting a child in July.

View Royal and Colwood fire departments battled the blaze while Langford stood by near the scene to give aid if necessary.

The second gutted cabin was vacant.

John Wishlow, part-owner of the motor court with Jack Porter, said the loss was partially covered by insurance.

Mr. Porter lived in one of the damaged units.

Salary Increases Awarded Workers in Grocery Chains

Victoria employees of three large grocery chains are among more than 1,000 members of Retails Food and Drug Clerks' Union local 1518 to gain wage boosts effective April 23.

A one-year agreement ratified by food store workers in Victoria, Vancouver and New Westminster, provides for graduated increases, improved holiday provisions, better night premiums and a number of fringe benefits.

Major stores are Canada Safeway Ltd., Super-Valu Stores (B.C.) Ltd., and Shop-Easy Stores (B.C.) Ltd., plus certain organized independent food stores.

Male clerks will get a new maximum of $73.60 per 40-hour week if they have two or more years' experience; female employees with two years' experience will get $60 a week; and "premium rate" clerks in certain stores will get $77.60.

Apprentice rates are up by five cents an hour and starting rates for men and women without previous experience are $42 and $39.20 a week respectively.

Three weeks' vacation after 12 years' service will be granted this year, and next year employees with 10 years' service will get three weeks' holiday.

Minimum vacation, two weeks, will be given after a year's service, starting in 1957.

Night premium rates are increased to 15 cents above the hourly rate.

Date To Be Set For Strike Vote Among Painters

Conciliation officer W. T. McLaughlin has been appointed by the labor department to set a date and conduct a government strike vote among employees of six Victoria painting contractors.

Contractors turned down a conciliation recommendation for a 24 cents an hour wage hike which the union, Victoria local, Brotherhood of Painters, Paperhangers and Decorators of America, accepted last week.

The union has made no comment on a conciliation recommendation offering employees of 26 independent painting contractors here wage parity with Vancouver painters, or a 14 cents an hour boost over two years.

Union demands to independent contractors and the six firms which are members of Victoria Building Industries Exchange, were identical.

An exchange spokesman said the conciliation report was rejected because no special consideration could be given to painters when other unions engaged in bargaining with the exchange were more moderate in demands. Some have settled new contracts.

HUDDLE SET ON BIG BEN'S SWIM SNAFU

A clinical discussion to determine what went wrong with Ben Laughren's first try to swim Juan de Fuca Strait Wednesday was to be held by trainer Ove Witt and a team of navigators this afternoon.

Second attempt, if tidal aberrations can be determined and allowed for, will take place sometime between Saturday and April 26.

In Wednesday's try, navigator Bill Tellier planned to plot a course which would give Laughren the advantage of a strong ebb tide.

His calculations, carefully laid out according to experience and tide charts, were wasted when it was discovered as Laughren swam that the ebb tide had not materialized.

Freighter Rocked By Explosion

An explosion in the engine room of the Finnish freighter Vaasa at Esquimalt Harbor Wednesday evening startled nearby residents and will delay sailing of the ship for at least two days.

Following engine repairs, the machinery was turned over and an overhead valve exploded, spraying shrapnel-sized chunks of metal about the engine room.

Only injury was suffered by Alan Stewart, surveyor for Lloyd's of London, who sustained two small scratches as the metal grazed by.

CAUSE UNKNOWN

Cause of the explosion has not been ascertained.

Vaasa, owned by Vaasan Laiva OY, Helsinki, was bound from Vancouver to Portland Sunday when a cylinder lining cracked in the main starboard engine. She limped into Esquimalt for repairs, which were completed Wednesday.

Vaasa had bad luck on her last call here, about a year ago, when a cranking steering mechanism held her in port for several weeks. She made five attempts to leave before the trouble was finally rectified.

From Portland, she is due to sail for Europe.

DISCRIMINATION CHARGED

Selection For Homes Under Fire

Pensioner's Case Laid Before Anglican Synod

Suggestions of discrimination in granting residence to old age pensioners in a certain Victoria senior citizens' housing development was voiced on the floor of the Anglican Synod, meeting in Victoria today for its 54th annual session.

Rev. William Hills, rector of St. George's Church, Cadboro Bay, read from a letter addressed to him by an old age pensioner who related her experience in attempting to gain admission to the unnamed housing project.

The pensioner said she questioned the amount of rent for the dwelling, and was told by a representative of the organization operating the homes: "Well, you know, we can't pick up all the alley cats in town."

Mr. Hills maintained that pensioners are "still worthy of our love, sympathy and respect," and that "we are not dealing with wards of charity, but with sons and daughters of a loving Saviour."

In a motion passed by the synod, Mr. Hills paid tribute to the work of Canon Fred Pike, Percy Dawson and others in their efforts at the Cedar Hill Twilight Homes for pensioners.

Mr. Hills said that as far back as 1944, the diocesan synod of the Anglican Church, meeting in Victoria, urged increased pensions for the elderly and blind.

He added that in 1946 a motion passed the synod calling for a minimum pension of $50 per month at age 65 with no means test. Later, in 1947, he said, synod passed a motion urging both federal and provincial governments to implement a Canadian version of the English Beveridge plan to provide social security to old persons on a contributory basis.

'We're Not Twiddling Our Thumbs'

"We don't just sit here and twiddle our thumbs," Mr. Hills said in commenting on the recent criticism of the church for its apparent lack of interest and action on behalf of pensioners.

He said the tremendous amount of recent local editorial comment about the lack of church interest in senior citizens does not compare favorably with the lack of any editorial comment 10 years ago when the Anglican Church in Victoria took concrete action to implement improved conditions for senior citizens.

"It is about time we refused to be intimidated by critics who call the church a do-nothing anachronism," Mr. Hills said.

Lieut.-Col. H. Fairfax Webber told the Synod there are no financial qualifications needed at the Cedar Hill Twilight Homes, and that the only basis of admission is "need."

Accommodation at Cedar Hill is for 30 married couples and 40 single pensioners.

At its Wednesday afternoon session the Synod supported a resolution calling for an "immediate and substantial" increase in the old age pension.

It implemented a proposal put forth earlier by Archbishop Harold E. Sexton, in his annual charge, that the synod take note of the plight of the older citizens.

Home for Retired Clergymen

The diocesan council for social service, in its report, urged the executive committee of the diocese to consider providing a home for retired clergymen. Archbishop Sexton spoke in favor of such a plan, and suggested a site is available, "although it would probably cost about $100,000."

Rev. Thomas Bailey of Victoria said he had seen a United Church home for retired clergy in Ontario. He was opposed to the centralization of retired clergy and said: "Spread around they do a lot of good, but together in a heap they are rather like manure."

Elections held in the Wednesday afternoon session of the Synod found all committees brought up to full strength with both clergymen and lay delegates.

EXECUTIVE

On the executive committee are Rev. J. A. Roberts, rural dean, of Esquimalt; Rev. Canon R. K. Sampson, Cobble Hill; Rev. G. H. Greenhalgh, Port Alberni; D. A. M. Patterson, Victoria; Capt. J. H. Worsley, Crofton, and W. E. Mantle, Courtenay.

Elected to the Synod were Rev. Canon George Biddle, Rev. H. J. Jones, Rev. G. D. Kendell, Rev. Canon Fred Pike, Rev. Canon F. E. M. Tomalin, Rev. Canon R. Willis, Rev. William Hills, H. A. Brown, Capt. C. F. Gibson, H. L. Henderson, Lieut.-Col. F. Webber, and R. Bray, all of Victoria; Rev. B. T. Page and H. D. Arnold, Quamichan; Eric Frost, Nanaimo, and Bruce Knowles, Alberni.

Rev. Canon O. L. Jull, Victoria, and Hector Stone, Duncan, were elected to the Cathedral chapter.

Six named to the Anglican Theological College were Very Rev. B. W. Whitlow, Dr. Kendell, Rev. T. Bailey, Mr. Henderson and Dr. Harry Hickman, all of Victoria, and Mr. Arnold of Duncan.

EDUCATION BOARD

Diocesan board of religious education will consist of Mr. Bailey, C. B. Howland and Drummond Taylor, Victoria; Rev. A. P. Horsfield, Alberni; Rev. D. B. Houghton, Ladysmith; Rev. John Low, Quamichan; Rev. John Stainer, Parksville; W. A. Westoby, Brentwood; Mr. Arnold and Joe Lynn.

On the diocesan council for social service are Rev. W. E. Greenhalgh, Mr. Hills, Canon Jull, Dr. Kendell, W. E. Bowen, H. A. Powell, Reeve A. C. Wurtele and Col. R. L. Mitchell, Victoria, and Rev. H. J. Jones, Colwood.

RIDING CLUB SELLING SHARES TO BUILD $20,000 COVERED RING

Construction of a $20,000 covered ring for Victoria Riding and Hunt Club is planned this year, financed by sale of shares to members and other persons interested in horsemanship.

Designed for completion in two stages, the 60-by-130-foot riding area will be located on property held by the club on Cedar Hill Crossroad adjoining stables and an outdoor ring.

Architects' drawings of the building in its two stages are shown above.

The first stage, erection of a cantilevered roof on concrete and pipe columns, should be completed this fall, according to architects, Clack, Clayton, Pickstone.

Walls will remain open until funds are available to complete the second stage with seating for 500, judging stand and concourse, fire resistant walls and other facilities.

Design is such that even at the completion of the first stage, the building will not appear incomplete and styling will be effectively modern and distinctive.

Mrs. Joan Dunbar will head the building program. She said completion of the first stage before winter will permit use of the premises for training young riders during cold or wet winter weather.

Completion of stage two of the construction is not planned in the immediate future and the additional cost has not been estimated.

Victoria Riding and Hunt Club Ltd. was formed after Victoria Riding Academy was rendered homeless by sale of Willows Racetrack and Exhibition Grounds for a new residential subdivision.

About 100 shareholders raised $50,000 to acquire a new site of about 10 acres on Cedar Hill Crossroad adjoining Uplands Golf Course. The facilities are leased to Mr. and Mrs. Don Carley who instruct local riders.

A widespread campaign for sale of $10 shares in the club is now underway.

Mrs. Dunbar points out the new show ring will be a great local attraction where hundreds of young riders will be able to receive year-'round instruction and horses trained more speedily.

Bright, Primary Colors Invade the First Aid Kit

By PENNY SAVER

One would never think that modish colors had crept into the realm of first aid bandages, but that's just what has happened. For the small-fry casualties, tiny tots wounded on the playing field, cuts and raw bruises can bring sudden home-front panic to youngster and mother alike. A well-known surgical dressings firm has introduced "Battle Ribbon" plastic adhesive bandages in shiny, glowing colors of red, green, yellow and blue, so that now mother can award her little "casualty" with a decoration for bravery that will give him not only distinction when he proudly shows off the battle ribbon, but also helps heal the wound with its medicated gauze pad containing a stingless, stainless germ fighter.

These new medicated bandages in the brightest primary colors are being manufactured in regular finger size and in the smaller strips packed in individual sterile wrappers. They're washable, waterproof and wonderful for the rough 'n tumble tads. A box costs 39 cents.

For gift-giving or for your own table, a lazy Susan serving set is a good buy. Made of a highly polished wood, it rests on a rotating base, and is hand-painted with dogwood blossoms. Centring the round platter is a four-sectioned pottery serving set that will hold everything from sauce to nuts, literally.

The dishes fit into a groove in the wood, so there's little possibility of their sliding off when the platter is being turned. In one, two or three different colors, these dishes can form a matched or contrasted set. Priced to fit your budget, they're $5.49 each.

English morocco in brown, black or red is used for the handy four-pack card cases being featured in a downtown store. These cases also hold a pencil in small slot, and a score card tucked in a fitted flap. There, all packed compactly, neatly and very attractively, you have a complete bridge set that can be taken on trips easily, too, 'cause the sturdy case has an all-around zipper. Across one corner is stamped in gold "Bridge." For those enthusiasts in your bridge club or as a surprise for another friend, these cases would be excellent gifts. They cost $5.95 each.

Couple Wed Recently In Up-Island Church

Of interest in Victoria is a wedding ceremony in Duncan in which Miss Amy Lillian Brookbank, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Brookbank, Duncan, exchanged vows and rings with Jack Delano Cooper, Lake Cowichan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Cooper, Red Deer, Alta. Rev. F. H. Golightly performed the ceremony in Duncan United church, where spring flowers formed the background. Wedding music was played by Bernie Ryall, Victoria, and soloist was L. M. (Bud) Vance, who sang "O Promise Me."

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and wore a strapless gown of Chantilly lace and nylon net over satin. A matching lace jacket was fashioned with long lily point sleeves. Her short veil was held by a band of tiny velvet roses, and she completed her ensemble with a cascade bouquet of American beauty roses and white carnations.

Bridesmaids Miss Patricia Brookbank, sister of the bride, and Miss Sharon Anderson, wore pale blue strapless dresses of nylon net and lace over taffeta with matching jackets. Their headbands were of pink roses and blue forget-me-nots. Gail Brookbank was junior bridesmaid in a sleeveless taffeta dress with nylon net overskirt in pale blue. National IODE Head Asks Women to 'Unite and Build'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Women all over Canada were urged Wednesday to "arise, unite and build a better country."

Canada needs your strength, the ladies were told.

Speaker was Mrs. L. B. Smart of Toronto, national president of the Imperial Order of Daughters of the Empire.

She was guest at the B.C. chapter's 43rd annual banquet at Hotel Vancouver.

"The building of our country is a challenge to the women of our generation," Mrs. Smart told the 400 diners.

"We must re-dedicate ourselves.

"We must make sure Canada is preserved within the British family of nations and we must strive for world peace."

Calling on women to "hurry up and join" the order, Mrs. Sharp said these were beneficial days for her sex.

"In the early days few women ventured from home," she said.

"They took no part in public life, knew nothing of radio and television.

"It took a war to make them realize they had a part in building Canada and now many women occupy high posts in the country."

A life membership colored red, white and blue was presented to Mrs. Frances E. Harrison, 70, who joined the order in Vancouver in 1905.

Provincial President Mrs. F. E. Dowdall reported the presentation of a Union Jack to the new territorial court at Aklavik early this month by Mrs. W. G. Fraser, former regent of the Nova Scotia chapter.

The order was founded in 1900 and has 32,000 members in 936 chapters. B.C. has 2,500 members.

It is a voluntary, patriotic organization associated with the Victoria League in England and the Daughters of the British Empire in the U.S. Its motto is "One Flag, One Throne, One Empire."

Young Couple Wed Recently

In a quiet ceremony in the Church of Our Lord, Miss Isabel Louise Harrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Harrison, Trutch Street, became the bride of Harry Vern McFarland, RCN, of HMCS Sussexvale, Esquimalt, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. McFarland, Drake, Sask. Rev. F. C. Rawlinson officiated at the evening ceremony.

She was attended by Mrs. Donald Malcolm, who wore a char-blue suit with pink and navy accessories and corsage of yellow roses. Best man was Don Malcolm.

The bride's uncle, Edward Harrison, proposed the toast to the bride at the reception which followed at the home of her parents. A two-tier cake flanked by green candles and pink carnations centred the linen-cloth-covered bride's table.

The newlyweds are honeymooning in Portland, Ore., and will return to make their home at 1221 Richardson Street.

Open House Planned in Early June

Plans were made at last meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Family and Children's Service for the open house and silver tea to be held at the recently-opened group foster home for emotionally-disturbed children, and to be held on two successive afternoons early in June.

In connection with the open house, and with the permission of John Gough, municipal inspector of Greater Victoria schools, the auxiliary is sponsoring a poster contest for art students in senior and junior high schools, for which a suitable prize will be given.

Plans were also made to serve refreshments at the annual meeting of the board of directors of the F & CS on April 26, in the Business and Professional Women's clubrooms on Government Street. Auxiliary president, Mrs. J. de Bourcier, who is also a member of the board, will be the speaker.

It was announced that Mrs. Donald McAdie will again act as the auxiliary's honorary president. Mrs. C. B. Conway was welcomed as a new member.

1st quality bleach

Reason why more women prefer Perfex bleach to the ordinary kinds is simple: unchanging quality. Perfex is always pure, always gentle, always safe. Three good reasons why your next bottle of bleach should be Perfex. It whitens, disinfects, deodorizes — gets things hygienically clean. Next time, choose Perfex, a type of disinfection recommended by public health authorities.

Family Room and Entire House Reflect 'Outdoors' Color Scheme

By TERRY FRENCH

"Throughout the house, we've tried to 'bring the outdoors indoors' by the use of browns and greens," explained Mrs. George Wheaton, whose home is among the four to be on display for the House Tour April 28, sponsored by the Women's Committee to the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria.

The "outdoors" theme is especially evident in the family room, the den, where not only the color, but also the wall-wide window seems to place you right in the garden.

This is the Wheaton's favorite room, where they gather after dinner, or sit and chat when a few friends drop in. It is tuned to gracious living that must adapt to the activity of four children: Billy, 5; John, 7; Janie, 12, and Bob, 14.

A cinnamon shade rug complements foliage green walls, which are seen throughout the main downstairs rooms. Drapes in matching foliage blend also with the tree outside near the window, and the green of the lawn around the fishpond in the back yard.

An expanse of green seems to be a part of the room itself, which overlooks the Victoria Golf links. A fireplace of Haddington Island stone has brass tongs, brushes and log basket. The brass is seen again in a lamp and ivy-filled teapot on an antique desk at one side of the room, where there is also a window overlooking the course.

Number one room on the favorite list for the Wheaton family's Newport Avenue home is the den, which overlooks a wide expanse of the Victoria Golf course, the sea and mountains. The house-wide effect of outdoor colors is especially evident here.

ROOMY FIREPLACES

The den is off one end of a spacious living room, where Haddington Island stone is again seen in fireplace. The walls of the room are foliage green, with the ceiling a chartreuse tone to lighten effect. Portraits of the Wheaton children hang on one wall. A dramatic touch of color is noted in old-fashioned, hand-made shutters, made 81 years ago. They're now a vivid coral, which stands out beautifully against the walls. The furniture is traditional, but covered with materials to withstand the children. It's mostly homespuns, sailcloths and linens.

Moving in a semi-circle, we reach the entrance hall which is done in Vermont slate, with mahogany wall panelling. An attractive and definitely used item in the hall amuses and amazes guests. It's a mammoth copper gong, a relic of days gone by, which is used to summon the children. "Four gongs really means business," says Mrs. Wheaton with a smile. Brass and copper is used liberally through the house for warmth.

An antique rosewood barometer flanked by two prints in polished wood frames hangs on the wall opposite the staircase which leads to the bedrooms.

The dining room is brightened with coral and green floral wallpaper. The focal point of the room is a large crystal chandelier over the Victorian dining room furniture. From here we have a glimpse of an old-fashioned butler's pantry, which Mrs. Wheaton says she finds indispensable.

KITCHEN MODERNIZED

The kitchen has been greatly modernized from its original state when first built in 1850. It now houses modern appliances that would be a joy to any housewife. The breakfast room off the kitchen is the Wheaton's second favorite room, for it is next to the den, and has the same view. Open shelves in one corner and the ceiling are a glow of coral, which the Wheatons have tried to repeat.

The bedrooms upstairs are in similar colors of brown with complementary tones. In the boys' rooms, dark bamboo, or a compass around the ceiling light, or, for the youngest, sunlight yellow with Kelly green make it evident that this is "a man's world." The master bedroom is very tailored, with green walls blending with the rug. There's a yellow fireplace, with two low ladies' chairs that spark the room. From this room is a view of sea and mountains.

The one deviation from the overall color scheme is in Janie's room, where an early American blue wallpaper with pink nosegays is toned with pale blue woodwork, blue furniture, and a matching fireplace. It's truly a girl's room, where sunshine streams in.

The last look I took was into the basement, where a full-scale rumpus room with ping pong table, records, and TV made it a place where the children love to entertain.

Situated in a large garden, this house is perfect for just what it is—a family home.

Spring Scene For Wedding In Duncan

Baskets of daffodils, forsythia and iris were placed in Duncan United Church for the recent wedding ceremony in which Miss Jacqueline May Whan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Whan, First Street, Duncan, became the bride of Norman James Smith, 2662 Victor Street, Victoria, son of Mrs. Georgina Smith, 244 Michigan Street, and the late Mr. Peter Smith.

Rev. F. H. Golightly performed the ceremony. Mrs. Norman Carter, organist, played traditional wedding music.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. For the ceremony she wore a white brocade princess style dress with full, waltz-length skirt. A dainty headpiece held her fingertip veil, and she wore the groom's gift, a pearl necklace. Her bridal bouquet was of pink rosebuds, stephanotis and white carnations.

Bridesmaids, Miss Karolyn Whan and Miss Norma Bowron, wore silver green brocade dresses in princess style with tiny matching hats. They chose green gloves and shoes and carried bouquets of yellow and Kokomo carnations.

Best man was Jack Sherwood of Lake Cowichan, and Garth Anderson and David Smith of Victoria showed guests to pews marked with nosegays of heather and small daffodils.

A reception followed at "Alderlea," where daffodils, tulips and iris decorated the bride's table. A. E. Robinson of Vancouver proposed the toast to the bride's happiness.

Leaving for a mainland honeymoon trip, the bride wore a blue tweed suit with black hat and accessories and gardenia corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith have made their home at 10 Oswego Street in this city.

MRS. ROSS OFFICIATED

Annual Academy Fete Draws Large Crowd; Many New Attractions Featured

In the entrance hall leading to classrooms of St. Ann's Academy, Mrs. Frank Mackenzie Ross, wife of the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, cut a satin ribbon Wednesday afternoon to mark opening of the annual spring fete sponsored by the Mother's Auxiliary. Mrs. Ross was presented with a colonial bouquet of spring flowers by Miss Carol McBratney and the scissors to cut the ribbon by little Miss Cora Gould. A song of welcome was given by young pupils of the academy.

The Sister Superior and the Mother Provincial of the academy, received Mrs. Ross and sat with her for afternoon tea. Also at the table were Miss Ruth MacLean, Mrs. Claude Harrison; the convener of the fete, Mrs. E. D. Price and Mrs. J. O'Neill, president of the auxiliary.

Attractive booths, filled to capacity, gave full evidence of the work and preparation that went into the affair. The fine needlework, the enormous home-cooking stalls, the inviting tea room and the many prizes all held the interest and contributed much to the success of the fete.

Spring flowers and miniature rainbows decorated the tea room. The head table, covered with a lace cloth, was centred with an arrangement of daffodils, iris and tulips, flanked by spring yellow candles in silver holders. Presiding at the urns were Mrs. K. T. Hughes, Mrs. Peter Sallaway, Mrs. H. Hartnell, Mrs. W. C. Patterson, Mrs. F. Ebbs-Canavan and Mrs. H. McGee.

Acting as serviteurs were Mrs. A. Johnsen, Mrs. J. White, Mrs. F. Allan, Mrs. G. Grotke, Mrs. C. Hinchcliffe, Mrs. G. van der Hagen, Mrs. C. Ritz, Mrs. B. Gordienko, Mrs. S. Scherr, Mrs. K. Fecht, Mrs. A. Lowman, Mrs. C. P. Sanders, Mrs. I. Sweeney and Mrs. R. J. Caldwell.

Conveners of stalls were as follows: Mrs. Hofner, stitchery; Mrs. L. Gill, apron walk; Mrs. Szpradowski, gifts and glamour; Mrs. J. Allison and Mrs. Leahy, bakery; Mrs. J. O'Connor and Mrs. E. Duncan, tea room; Mrs. V. Butler and Mrs. S. Haynes, candy; Mrs. F. Beech, groceries; Mrs. G. McIlvenny and Mrs. M. Knight, lucky seven; Miss McCormick, wishing well; Mrs. G. Allen and Mrs. D. Corrigan, attic treasures; Mrs. R. Elliott, laundry grab bag; Mrs. C. Galloway, duck pond and dart board; Mrs. P. Fagan, evening refreshments and Mrs. G. O'Neill and A. Smith, bingo.

TITANIC TRAGEDY RELIVED ON CHANNEL 2 AT 9

CBC CANCER DOCUMENTARY REPLAYED ON 2 AT 10.30

EXCELLENT PROGRAM—If you haven't picked it up yet, try Al Wallace's "Man Alive" sports half-hour that plays every Thursday night at 10 on Channel 11.

Last week we peeked at it for the first time and found it superior to Madison Square Garden sports thrills in that the week's sporting highlights were more varied as to locale and more timely.

For instance, in addition to a playback of the 1951 Kid Gavilan-Carter fight, shown were the U.S. basketball finals, the U.S. indoor speed skating championships, the Masters golf tournament, track events and then, to bring the show right up to date, shots taken that morning of Bert Thomas shoving off on his unsuccessful Seattle to Tacoma swim.

Indeed Mr. Wallace managed to jam so much material into the half-hour that the program seemed longer than it actually was.

★ ★ ★

MIGHTY MOUSE—The small fry should be pleased to learn that starting this Saturday at 5.30, Channel 12 will carry "Mighty Mouse Playhouse."

In the first cartoon Mighty Mouse comes to the rescue of a village of peaceful mice when the area is threatened by an army of clever swinging "hep" cats.

Mighty Mouse, host of the weekly series, also will present three added feature cartoons.

Kiddies' Korner

5.00: Captain Gallant, Channel 2; Pinky Lee, 4; Mickey Mouse Club, 5; Cartoon Special, 11; Western movie, 12; Wally's Hi-Jinks, 13.

Channel 4: In Dragnet policemen Friday and Smith probe the flow of narcotics into Los Angeles.

Channel 2: John Ireland is seen in "This Land Is Mine," about Old West homesteaders who are in trouble.

Channel 12: Stories of the Century treats with "Henry Plummer," bad-man sheriff who was responsible for the deaths of 103 persons.

9.00

Channel 2: Try not to miss this. Kraft Theatre presents a re-run of its now famous "A Night To Remember," a factual report on the Titanic tragedy. This, no doubt, will win the "Emmy" as the best play of 1956.

Channel 5: Star Tonight shows "Two Windows," the story of a bedridden girl in a rooming house.

FRIDAY, APRIL 20, 1956

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) — Take no chances with diet, foods, attire, furnishings, appliances, etc. Be sure to watch against rips, tears, leaks, accidents. Working quietly, harmoniously with others saves the day.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—Now you have a chance to get yourself in better shape by the treatments of your choice. Let others see you know your best points and can bring them out to gain backing of others. Be economical in expenditures.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—There are all kinds of odds, ends at home, with family, about property requiring you handle them with special care and consideration. Attend plumbing, utility needs. Do your job with precision. Take no chances.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21)—More than usual care on the highway is necessary to sidestep potential accident, etc., that could limit, confine you. Also make sure you avoid argument with close contact. Patience, poise saves real trouble.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—Making fuss over small items can alienate you from one very important in your scheme of things. At same time, do not be extravagant or take risks where finances are concerned. Get budget worked out. Delve, replace.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—This is day when you feel all hepped up and want to lash out at those about you. Be sure you attack offender if you must and not some patient devotee as whipping boy. Protect health, appearance, social contacts.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Now you really feel you are imposed upon, taken for granted, make a drip of. Stop feeling sorry for yourself. It's a luxury no one can afford today. Get busy and aid those less fortunate than yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Picky, petty acquaintance can get you disturbed by snide remarks or gossippy comments that help no one. Refuse to listen. Show you think the best of everyone. LIVE the Golden Rule today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Now you really need to control that wagging tongue or you get some loss of prestige or worldly acclaim for which you have real need, may have long labored. Attend credit interests exactly. Keep promises made.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—You want to fly off to some new attraction which actually can't hold a candle to your present interests. Stick to proven persons and principles. Just get some modern method that will lighten your chores.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Being exact in performance of all promises made or commitments given is a MUST today unless you want to lose some very worthwhile worker with you who is under tensions and could not stand added pressure of your defection. Be painstaking.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—This is YOUR day for refusing to become short or abrupt with any associates, even though you feel like it. Avoid showing display of temper, chip-on-shoulder attitude. Others feel the same way. Suppose everyone gave in to this mood. Wow!

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN FRIDAY . . .

Friday's child is one of those interesting youngsters to whom details are of extreme importance. It is necessary you early let your child know being petty about little things is one of the surest ways to have no companions. Also being of service to others in helping them alleviate their distress brings real gratitude from others which winds up with wonderful friends and companions. This tot will want things in perfect order and will grow up adept, if trained, in matters connected with diagnosis, apparel, cleaning, healing, personnel work.

EARLY COLONIST HAS 18,000 DESCENDANTS

MONTREAL (CP)—In 1645 Jean Trudel arrived here from France and joined other French colonists. Now there are approximately 18,000 of his descendants scattered throughout Canada. Some showed up Wednesday to welcome a second Trudel from France. He is 18-year-old Michel from Montagne-Orne, who plans to live with an uncle—Jules Trudel of Shawinigan Falls, Que. The newcomer is expected to join other Trudels when they gather in Quebec City July 1 to pay tribute to their forefather.

Co-Ordinating Body To Handle Housing

Over-All Agency to Assist All Groups Planning Low-Rental Homes for Aged

Steps to establish a volunteer housing association for Greater Victoria groups planning low-rental accommodation for the aged are being taken by Community Welfare Council.

City welfare administrator William Hooson, committee chairman on housing was appointed at a meeting Wednesday night to seek advice and prepare constitution and by-laws of the over-all agency.

Meanwhile, George E. Williams, Senior Citizens' Campaign Council president, said his group is ready to proceed immediately with plans to construct a 96-unit apartment-type block for the aged.

FINANCIAL AID

First consideration is fund-raising, and tentative plans are to solicit from the public, provincial and federal governments.

Mr. Williams will meet Premier W. A. C. Bennett and contact Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, Esquimalt-Saanich MP, to seek financial aid.

Each unit is estimated to cost $2,400.

Mr. Hooson explained the purpose of the association:

"What we really need is a volunteer housing association in the area to co-ordinate efforts of the many city groups wishing to construct housing for the aged. Each of these would have its own constitution and by-laws and be independently incorporated before it could seek funds.

ACTION GROUP

"The association would do no building itself but would serve as a community action group in the housing field.

"Its sole purpose would be to encourage and demonstrate how the smaller groups can engage in housing development, and by co-ordinating would avoid duplication of projects.

"All forms of government would listen to a group representing all volunteer agencies interested in developing low-cost housing for the aged."

Mr. Williams will assist Mr. Hooson in formation of the association. They will report at the next meeting of the community welfare sub-committee on housing, May 16, at 8 p.m. in Spencerhouse.

Goat Breeders' Publication Searching for New Editors

The Bleat, Canada's oldest goat publication, is in danger of "bleating its last."

Mrs. S. Fisher, Simpson Road, Saanichton, said today the unique weekly paper which originated in Saanich, will be discontinued unless someone takes over the publication.

The weekly paper is now edited by Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Campbell of Port Coquitlam, who announced at the recent provincial convention of the B.C. Breeders' Association they could no longer publish the paper. The convention was held at the Saanichton Dominion Experimental Farm.

For years, Miss Jean Harvey, of Saanich, now retired, edited the goat paper which had a circulation across Canada and the United States.

The Bleat was started 39 years ago and became so famous it counted among its subscribers goat breeders in Spain and other European countries. It was the first of its kind in Canada and was regarded as an authority on the raising and breeding of goats.

Mrs. Fisher said the Goat Breeders' Association hopes the federal executive of the organization, will take over publication.

Mayor Asks $25,000 For Charity

Community Chest officials were told by council finance committee today a bigger civic grant this year might hinge on agreement by neighboring municipalities to contribute proportionate amounts.

Ratio of grants should be based either on a per capita system or on gross assessments in each municipality, the committee felt.

A delegation headed by Chet chairman R. B. Wilson asked the city to contrbiute $12,000 to the compaign this year in view of population increases and reported increases in delinquency and illegitimate births in the district.

Last year the city gave $2,000 plus $6,000 in direct grants to chest agencies independently. In 1954 the Chest grant was $8,000.

Mr. Wilson said at present the 17-mmeber chest organization has applications for membership from Muscular Dystrophy Association and the Associalton for Retarded Children. Both are held in abeyance until it is known if more financial aid will be offered the chest this year.

Ald. Austin Curtis said if the city gave $12,000 the surrounding area, based on population should give $12,000 also. Last year Saanich gave $450, Esquimalt nothing and Oak Bay nothing.

Mayor Percy Scurrah suggested the committee have a special meeting and recommend to council distribution of $25,000 to city charitable agencies rather than leave the decision entirely to council as a whole.

He said grants to other than charities should be considered sepaartely.

Ald. Pinfold pointed out that Victorians voted a few years ago to donate up to that amount annually to charities.

"But the former mayor and some aldermen took the view the $25,000 was for all grants including non-charities."

Found: Cure For Those Black Eyes

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind (UP)—Vitamins and enzymes can sharply reduce athletes' black and blue marks, a doctor said today.

Dr. A. Lee Lichtman of New York City's Polyclinic hospital told the Indiana Academy of General Practice that advance treatment with hesperidin, found in citrus fruits, and vitamin C can be used to condition an athlete in advance. Injections of enzyme trypsin can be given immediately after hard contact work, he said.

"Under this regimen, we see bruises that would ordinarily be painful for 10 days subside almost overnight," Lichtman said.

FORMER NKVD OFFICIAL CLAIMS CAN BACK UP HIS CHARGE

Stalin Once Was Czarist Police Spy—That's Why He Purged Pals in 1937

NEW YORK (CP) — Alexander Orlov, a former high official in the Soviet secret police (NKVD), said Wednesday that Joseph Stalin once was a spy for the czar.

"I am certain that secret files showing that Stalin was an 'agent provocateur' for the czar have come into the hands of Khrushchev," Orlov told a press conference.

Nikita Khrushchev, secretary of the Communist party, has the file, Orlov said, "or he wouldn't have downgraded Stalin."

"The decision to expose Stalin as an 'agent provocateur' probably is being weighed now. I am confident Khrushchev will confirm my charges."

The press conference was held in conjunction with the publication in Life magazine of an article by Orlov which he claims gives the details of "the most hideous crime conceivable to the Soviet mind," that of having been a hireling of the czar and his secret police.

Orlov said Stalin's secret was made known to him in Paris in 1937 by his cousin, then a high Soviet secret police officer in the Ukraine.

The cousin told of the discovery by the NKVD among the files of the czarist secret police of reports and letters in long hand which definitely showed Stalin had "long been a police agent of the czarist secret police and was an active one as late as the first part of 1913," Orlov says in the article.

Life also reproduces an original czarist police letter describing Stalin's service to the Okhrana (the czarist police) as early as 1906. The letter, Life says, now is in the hands of the Tolstoy Foundation of New York City.

In tracing the manner in which the Stalin letters came to light, Orlov says the NKVD official who discovered the file in 1936 while searching through police files turned the information over to two powerful friends who in turn revealed it to Marshal Tukhachevsky.

A coup was planned to depose the dictator but Stalin got wind of the plot and the result was the great purge of 1937 in which eight senior generals including Tukhachevsky were executed along with thousands of other persons. Stalin, Orlov says, was out to get rid of everybody "who might have conceivably learned about the file." Tukhachevsky's name was recently cleared by Khrushchev.

Orlov himself was ticketed for liquidation and that was one of the main reasons for his defection in 1938, he said. He said after he came to the United States, he wrote to Stalin saying he would make public the charges through his lawyer if anything happened to his relatives in Russia.

Orlov contends that the current Soviet leaders have been made aware of Stalin's "most guilty secret" by someone—"Mostly likely Marshal Zhukov"—and that is the reason they started the campaign to deflate Stalin.

Earn Cash . . . with your ideas for using one of the delicious BORDEN'S Cheese Products — each one a pleasure to serve! Every week Borden's is paying $10 for the most interesting recipe—or serving idea—for one of its cheeses. This Week the $10 goes to Mrs. Jean Rousseau of Iberville, Que. She pops a teaspoonful of Borden's E-Zee Cheez into hot baked potatoes—and says her family is very complimentary about the result! She spreads E-Zee Cheez, too, inside hot biscuits with great success (and uses the jar as a glass afterwards!). Send YOUR cheese idea or recipe to me at Confidentially Yours, 1411 Crescent St., Montreal. And do hurry!

I Keep my plastic container of BLUE BONNET MARGARINE at the front of the 'frig—so that I can use it generously and often—and give my family the fine nourishment and delicious flavor that goes with every pound. Add a pat to hot vegetables—to a baked potato—atop a sizzling steak. A pat of Blue Bonnet, for instance, doubles the food energy of a slice of bread. Made from pure vegetable oils and pasteurized skim milk, Blue Bonnet has the essential vitamins and minerals we all should have. You'll readily agree, "Everything's better with Blue Bonnet on it!" Really delicious!

'PET COON TURNS ON TWO-LEGGED FRIENDS

Call of wild sent pet raccoon on rampage in home of Mrs. Velma Flewin, Glen Lake, right, Wednesday and resulted in severe bites to Mrs. Flewin, son James, nine, and daughter Sharry, three. 'Coon had been treated by children as gentle pet; let into house, it suddenly bit Sharry on face; Mrs. Flewin snatched up the girl, ran out of the house; 'coon pursued, biting her ankles; James rushed out, armed with stick, drove off 'coon, but not before being bitten on fingers and thumb. Zoo curator Alan Best of Vancouver today warned tamed wild animals often revert to nature, should be treated with extreme caution. "'Coons tame well but revert as they grow older," he said. Blonde Hunted In $5,000 Grab From B.C. Bank

Drove Getaway Car For Burnaby Gunmen

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two armed gunmen, working with a blonde woman escape driver, today robbed a Burnaby branch of the Bank of Montreal of $5,000.

Vancouver police and Burnaby RCMP officers combined efforts to try to track down the holdup trio.

The two men, armed with "black, snub-nosed revolvers," entered the bank only 15 minutes after it opened.

The blonde woman, believed to be about 22 or 23 years old, waited outside and drove the dark blue, late-model getaway car.

"PRETTY SLICK"

A service station operator working directly across the street from the bank knew nothing of the robbery until police cars howled to a stop in front of the building.

"They must have been pretty slick," said Ellis Johnson, ". . . I didn't even hear a shout or see a car pull away."

Reg Carter, another witness, said the men "jumped into the car and the girl drove away . . ."

The holdup came shortly after five RCMP officers had gathered at a nearby police court to give evidence in the trial of three men charged in the April 3 robbery of a Royal Bank of Canada on the other side of Burnaby.

An RCMP officer, Cpl. Bud Johnstone, killed one of the robbers and wounded one other. He was shot eight times.

IT COSTS $56 TO JEER REDS NOW IN LONDON

LONDON (Reuters)—Three persons who jeered at Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev when the Russian leaders arrived in London, Wednesday, were fined in court today.

John Jordan, 32, and Miss Lesley Green, 30, were each fined £20 ($56) for "using insulting behavior likely to cause a breach of the peace."

Nicholas Tolstoy, a namesake of the famous Russian writer, was fined £1 for assaulting a railroad policeman.

Eden Starts 'Little Summit' Talk With Russ

(CP and UP Dispatches)

LONDON—Russia's Premier Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev today honored Britain's war dead and made a morning round of courtesy calls on the second day of their 10-day visit to Britain.

In mid-afternoon they plunged into a "little Summit Conference" with Prime Minister Eden and Foreign Secretary Lloyd.

It was expected the Russian and British leaders would undertake a sweeping review of the "cold war," particularly the Middle East.

Earlier British officials let it be known Prime Minister Eden intended to give the Russians a stern warning that meddling in the Middle East could touch off a third world war.

LONDONERS COOL

Only small, silent crowds watched the Russians' closely escorted convoy speed through London. Unlike their arrival on Wednesday, there were neither cheers nor catcalls.

Police had a nervous moment outside Buckingham Palace. An eight-year-old boy accidentally dropped his air pistol to the sidewalk. He was immediately surrounded by police and whisked away—but not arrested.

Earlier the police escort hustled away a smartly dressed woman, who shrieked at Bulganin "I want to talk to you" as he emerged from the swank Claridge's Hotel to start the day's drive.

The first call of the day by the Soviet leaders was at the cenotaph in Whitehall. They placed a wreath there, and then drove to Buckingham Palace to sign the visitors' book. The Queen was on an out-of-town visit, but she is scheduled to meet the Russians at Windsor Sunday.

From the palace, the Russians drove back to Whitehall for their formal "arrival" call on Prime Minister Eden required by protocol.

Hammarskjold Talks Egypt, Israel Into Unconditional Truce

(AP and UP Dispatches)

JERUSALEM—Dag Hammarskjold announced today Egypt and Israel have agreed to an unconditional cease-fire on their borders, effective at 6 p.m. Wednesday, "and from that time on."

The United Nations secretary-general's announcement came through headquarters of the UN Palestine truce commission almost 24 hours after the agreed deadline for an end to the hostilities such as those which flared dangerously two weeks ago.

A UN spokesman said the Israeli and Egyptian governments have notified Hammarskjold that as from 6 p.m. (8 a.m. Victoria time) Wednesday orders were in force on both sides that "no military or paramilitary forces, including non-regular forces, may shoot across the demarcation line or pass over that line for any purpose whatsoever."

MAJOR ACCOMPLISHMENT

The Egypt-Israeli agreement is the major achievement to date of Hammarskjold's peace mission, in which he has conferred during the last 10 days with government officials of Israeli and Egypt, leader of the Arab nations.

The cease-fire will permit Hammarskjold to tackle the core of his peace-mission task—working out a permanent solution to the differences between the Arabs and Irsaelis. He will fly at week's end to new peace talks at the capitals of Lebanon, Jordan and Syria.

Hammarskjold conferred last week with Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser, and during the last two days with Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion.

The apparent easing of tension in the Middle East coincided with these developments:

1. British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd reassured parliament in London that Britain stands firmly alongside the United States and France as guarantors of the peace in the Middle East.

2. U.S. Ambassador Edward Lawson left Jerusalem for Washington for consultations.

3. The foreign ministers of Norway, Sweden, Finland, Denmark and Iceland meeting in Copenhagen were reported to have decided against a joint Scandinavian intervention in the Middle East.

NEW MID-EAST ARMY CHIEF NAMED BY U.K.

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (Reuters)—Lt.-Gen. Sir Geoffrey Bourne, director of operations against the Communists in the jungle war here, has been appointed British commander-in-chief of the army in the Middle East, it was announced today.

The tough, one-armed Bourne made a dual reputation as a ruthless anti-Communist fighter in Malaya as well as supporter of the country's march towards independence.

MORE PLANS AFOOT

Taxes Up Mill or Two Mayor Guesses

Mayor Percy Scurrah altered his earlier prediction of a stable mill-rate today and told a Rotary Club luncheon taxes may go up "one or two mills" this year.

"I don't think council would agree to more. However, figures are not final or complete, so don't say I said so yet," he added.

He said if there is an increase over the present 42½ mill-rate, "for every mill added, your tax bill will go up $4.50 for each $100 in taxes you pay."

He said one mill is now equal to $78,000.

The mayor laid responsibility for the possible increase on "increased costs and needed improvements."

He said he was assured the new Point Ellice Bridge can be built for the $500,000 originally estimated and said this would leave $75,000 in the bridge fund collected from reverted land sales. This, he said, should be used as start of a fund for a new garbage wharf, which he estimated would cost $100,000.

"I'm hoping to sell it to council. We would have ample money to pay cash and not have to ask the taxpayers for any," for the project if reverted land sales are maintained at the present rate.

THIEVES GET VALUABLE PAINTINGS AT MONACO

MONTE CARLO (AP)—Monaco's third — and biggest — robbery of the week-long wedding celebration for Grace Kelly and Prince Rainier III was announced today.

Police said five rare paintings valued at more than $95,000 were stolen Wednesday from the home of Dr. S. Mikhaelos, a wealthy resident of the principality.

Earlier jewels totalling $55,000 in value were stolen from a wedding guest and from one of the bridesmaids.

Picnic Point Studied As Government Park

Capital Improvement Body Seen Developing Historic Craigflower Peninsula Property

Craigflower peninsula is being studied for use as the site of a park for the Greater Victoria area.

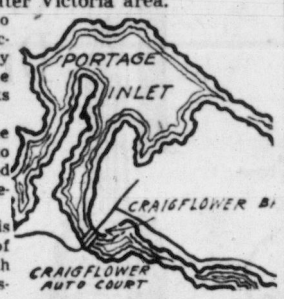

The property, known to campers and swimmers as Picnic Point, has been thoroughly investigated by experts of the provincial government parks branch.

Of great historic value, the property has been offered to the government by Woodland Estates, which holds an agreement for sale.

The provincial government is looking at the possibilities of the peninsula as a park with the capital improvement district commission in mind.

"It may be the commission, when it starts operation, would like to develop the area," said an official.

He said that if the commission favors the site, the government may take steps to hold the land.

PICNIC POINT is at tip of Craigflower peninsula, seen extending into Portage Inlet.

4 MILES OUT

Craigflower Peninsula is located four miles from downtown Victoria.

Some 30 acres are involved.

The parks branch reconnaissance experts highly recommended the entire area as suitable for recreation.

The peninsula, at the head of Gorge Inlet, was the site of part of the old McKenzie Farm, a landmark in the early days of Victoria. It is north of the old Island Highway, and east of the E. & N. right of way, at the north end of Portage Inlet.

IDEAL

Six small bays, suitable for sunbathing, with a total of 1,300 feet of shoreline suitable for beaches, together with evergreens, and sunny exposure, make the area ideal for park purposes, the government survey showed.

Government officials said they have received "hundreds" of names on petitions asking that the land be acquired.

Wildlife, particularly birds, abound on the peninsula.

The government is also considering the Capital Improvement District Commission as the vehicle for developing two other park areas in the Greater Victoria area—Thetis Lake and Elk Lake.

The government has been asked to take over administration of both parks, but indications are the district commission will be asked to take them over.

Both Elk and Thetis are located close to the metropolitan area of Victoria, and in the past the government has shied way from such parks.

Dozens of other B.C. centres are watching closely to ask the government to take over parks near their borders, if a decision were made to administer the two parks.

Goldstream, at the foot of the Malahat, has also been offered the government as a parksite. Because it is farther from municipal boundaries, and would serve tourists and residents outside of the Victoria area, the government will give Goldstream further consideration.

Inspector Warns Students

NANAIMO—High school students who took part in a protest meeting Wednesday at the school were warned today in a message from school inspector Claude Campbell they will be expelled for any further insubordination.

More than 200 of the 600-odd students enrolled staged a demonstration Wednesday morning by leaving their classes in what they called a protest against the "lack of co-operation" shown by the principal, J. B. Litch.

They refused to return to classes until a group of trustees, who appeared at the meeting in person, promised them a hearing by the school board.

A delegation of seven grade 11 and 12 students, led by Brian Kane, who also led the demonstration, met with trustees Wednesday night. Following the meeting the trustees announced they would ask the provincial education department to conduct a "complete investigation" of the school.

STANDARDS TOO HIGH?

Main protest of the students appeared to be that standards required of student athletes were "too high," that the school administration does not co-operate with the student body, and that the students' council is "under the thumb" of the principal.

Parents of students in the high school, interviewed today, were divided in their opinions on the students' stand.

"I am satisfied that the school does its job with a minimum of fuss," said John Thompson, former alderman and school trustee. "The curriculum and standards are laid down by the department of education, and they are upheld here."

NO DIFFICULTIES

Mrs. J. P. Tully said her daughter had no difficulties with the school, and had expressed no objections as to how the school is run.

"As far as we know, the school does its job," she said.

G. E. Clease, father of one of the youngsters in the delegation visiting the school board, said "I don't feel the kids have been getting a square shake."

"The meeting was a surprise to me," he said, but I think the youngsters will have the support of a good many people around here. They have been hoping something like this would happen to bring matters into the open."

To date the education department in Victoria has had no information from the school board on the matter. Officials said today they would not intervene unless a specific request is received from Nanaimo.

Boston Marathon Won By Viskari

BOSTON (AP) — Antti Viskari of Finland outduelled Boston's Johnny Kelley to win the 60th annual Boston marathon today in record-breaking time of 2:14.4.

Viskari was clocked in 2.14.4 for the 26-mile, 385-yard grind from Hopkinton to Boston. The old record was 2:18.22 set last year by Japan's Hideo Hamamura.

Gordon E. Dickson of Calgary, running under the colors of the New York Athletic Club, finished seventh. His time was 2:28.45.

PUPKOWSKI MURDER TRIAL ORDERED

Previous Threat to Kill Wife Revealed By Police Witness

Testimony was given at the preliminary hearing today of Czeslaw (Chester) Pupkowski, charged with murdering his wife, that he was physically restrained by a policeman from attacking her a week before she died from knife wounds and a beating.

The disclosure was made by Constable Albert Wells, last prosecution witness called before the hearing concluded.

Pupkowski, 42, was committed for trial for murder. His 38-year-old wife, Cecelia, was killed on March 24.

Constable Albert Wells said he went to the Pupkowski home at about 12.50 a.m. on March 17.

THREE-FOOT POKER

There he saw Pupkowski standing on a sidewalk with a three-foot fire poker in his hand, he testified

Constable Wells said Pupkowski was complaining "of bandits in his house."

The police officer accompanied the man into the house, where Pupkowski went to a bedroom, opened the door, raised the poker and said "I'll kill you and the boy now," Constable Wells testified.

BOY COWERED

Mrs. Pupkowski and her son were in the room. Mrs. Pupkowski screamed for about 20 seconds and the boy "cowered under the bedspread," Constable Wells said.

He said he "ripped" the poker from Pupkowski's hand, placed him on a chesterfield in another room and calmed him down. Pupkowski offered "slight resistance," he said.

Constable Wells said Mrs. Pupkowski told him her husband had spent three or four sleepless nights prowling around "restlessly" and chopping wood in the basement.

Constable Wells said he asked Mrs. Pupkowski if she wished a doctor called. She asked him to leave a doctor's name and she would contact him from work the following morning. Constable Wells testified he left a name with her.

MAN "MIXED-UP"

Constable Wells said that when he saw Pupkowski at the residence, he appeared to be "startled, mixed up, bewildered."

Detective Alex Briggs testified he attended at 128 Clarence shortly after 3 p.m. on March 24. He said he found Mrs. Pupkowski dead in a blood-spattered kitchen.

Corporal Joseph Barlow testified he pulled Pupkowski from waters off Dallas Road shortly after 3 p.m. the same day.

NEWLYWEDS SAIL ARM-IN-ARM

Excited Grace Jumps Around

By EDDIE GILMORE

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP) — Film star Grace Kelly and Prince Rainier III sailed away today on their honeymoon, wrapped in each other's arms.

They became husband and wife in the eyes of their church six hours earlier, completing the double-marriage ceremony required in this principality. Then they gaily cut their wedding cake and got aboard the 300-ton yacht Deo Juvante II which Rainier translates as: "God Helps Us."

A crowd of 2,000, which had waited four hours for a last glimpse of the couple cheered the prince and his princess. A bright sun shone down. Pennants snapped in the breeze and whistles and sirens sounded from anchored vessels as the the Deo Juvante slipped out to sea.

The honeymooners stood on the bridge, smiling and waving.

ROCKET SALUTES

Two rockets shot up from lighthouses at the entrance to the harbor and exploded, sending out parachutes carrying American and Monacan flags. Sailors on French, British and American warships gravely saluted.

The prince squeezed Grace's hand and she hugged him. The prince put both arms around her. When she was released, she continued to wave and smile. At one point, she became so excited she jumped up and down.

The yacht, which carries a crew of 11, will take the couple along the Italian coast to Rome for an audience with the Pope on April 25. They also will go to the island of Djerba off Tunisia and Palma on the island of Mallorca.

The bride was serenely composed as she pledged herself to Rainier in Roman Catholic services today.

The 26-year-old film actress and the 32-year-old ruler of this tiny Mediterranean principality answered "oui" in quiet voices as Msgr. Gilles Barthe, Bishop of Monaco, asked each in turn the question of acceptance.

The prince had difficulty putting the ring on the finger of his princess, and she helped him. The ring she gave him slipped on easily.

LISTENS RAPTLY

Grace's ivory gown of peau de soie rare lace, puffed out by three petticoats, billowed about her chair. Her veil was embroidered with rose point lace and thousands of tiny pearls.

She looked raptly at the bishop as he spoke, holding her bouquet in her lap.

The bishop's address was followed by one by the Kelly's family priest, Father John Cartin of Philadelphia, who reminded them of the solemn obligations of marriage and said: "Henceforth you belong entirely to each other."

Pope Pius' special representative, Msgr. Paul Marella, Apostolic Nuncio to Paris, read a message of admonition from the pontiff and extended the papal blessing.

CLOSE TO TEARS

During Bishop Barthe's address the princess swallowed hard and appeared close to tears with emotion. The prince, too, was drawn and tense.

The exchange of vows and blessing took only 10 minutes, but attendant ceremonials and processions stretched out for more than three hours.

Trailing her ivory lace wedding train in the bright Mediterranean sun, the bride walked with measured strides into the white stone cathedral just before 11 a.m. (2 a.m. Victoria time) as bugles blared.

The resplendently uniformed prince, bright with braid and medals, followed a few minutes behind as military bands played and the Monacan populace cheered.

Social Credit Scorned By New Zealand Probe

Royal Commission Finds Witnesses At Variance; Theories of No Use

BY J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—The report of a royal commission on monetary affairs has scathingly rejected Social Credit as a solution to New Zealand's economic programs.

The commission devotes nearly 70 pages of its 500-page report published today to a review of evidence presented by Social Credit witnesses, and comment on their views.

Appointment of the commission was largely due to the surprise 11 per cent vote polled by Social Credit candidates in New Zealand's 1954 general election. This was taken by the government as evidence of public dissatisfaction with the existing system, especially the continued fall in the value of money.

Social Credit organizations presented lengthy evidence to the commission during its hearings, and individuals also presented aspects of Social Credit theories on their own behalf.

DISTORTED PICTURE

Summarizing its findings on the Social Credit case, the commission says Social Credit witnesses were seriously at variance among themselves. They had made significant withdrawals in matters of substance.

The commission says that Social Credit witnesses presented a distorted picture of the state of New Zealand's economy. Their analysis of the country's existing monetary system had been falsely based and seriously erroneous. They had failed to substantiate the submission that there is a chronic gap between purchasing power and prices which is a fundamental proposition of Social Credit.

The only positive proposal for immediate application had been that a national credit authority be set up and a national survey made to ascertain whether a gap existed. Nevertheless, their whole submission rested on the assumption that a survey would disclose that a gap did exist.

On the basis of that assumption, which the commission says was wholly wrong, they envisaged the application to the existing inflationary situation the remedies devised for a situation of depression such as that in the 30's. They had not allowed for the radical change in circumstances since then.

The commission says that there is abundant proof that New Zealand's present problem is not the shortage of purchasing power but an excess of it, and nothing in Social Credit proposals had been designed to meet such a situation.

The commission says that when the resources of a community are overstretched, further issues of money would produce only further pressure on the supply of goods and services, with consequent higher prices and dissipation of overseas exchange. Under present conditions, large issues of debt-free money, as contemplated by the Social Credit supporters, would produce a most serious and chronic inflation and would gravely disrupt the economy.

The report claims that the ultimate objective of Social Credit is the abolition of debt and interest and the substitution of a national dividend for a wage and salary system, which would ultimately result in the abolition of private ownership of property. It adds that the case prepared by Social Credit did not conform to what many people have come to accept as Social Credit theory and policy.

THE SCOREBOARD BY Harry Grayson

Most people express surprise when told that more people bet more money on baseball than on racing.

Yet any bookmaker will tell you that.

You know what is paid into pari-mutuel machines in 24 states each year? It was $2,732,114,820 in 1955. That's a matter of public record. People read of $2,000,000 daily handles at a single track. The great majority fail to take into consideration that this is money wagered over again on as many as eight races.

The government licencing bookmakers drove practically all of the more important ones out of the racing business. Acquiring a government stamp, the bookie tipped his mitt. Government authorities notified the local gendarmes and that spelled harassment.

The result is comparatively small bets with the books. There are two reasons for this. The bookie doesn't know what the price will be. The bettor can't be sure of his money in case his horse bounces down at a fat price. So players making sizable wagers go to the track and knock down the price on the horse they like.

Baseball Has 100 Million Punters

There are numerous reasons why more money is wagered on baseball than racing.

More people are interested in baseball—100 million, according to commissioner Ford Frick, double what any other sport can claim. The 100 million may be divided into three categories: those who bet with each other, those who participate in weekly pools and those who bet with bookies. Practically every office, business house and factory sponsors a pool of some sort.

Everybody seems to have his own baseball bookie, and for some inexplicable reason he isn't hounded by the cops like the hoss variety.

Betting on baseball is much simpler than betting on horses away from the track. There are only two teams involved. This fact encourages more substantial bets. The run gimmick reduces the odds on one-sided games.

Off-course betting on horses requires slips. Neither bookie nor player can memorize an afternoon of 2 and 2, if money, round robins, etc. There is evidence for the cops.

There Is No Form Sheet Printed

Save for the World Series, odds on baseball are neither published nor broadcast, yet there is a line in every village, town and city in the nation. In the larger centres, the bulk of the business is done by telephone.

"In smaller communities, the bookie is usually a shopkeeper or business man whose secondary occupation is common knowledge," reports John Davenport. "Even the austere figure of the local undertaker has been known to extend his black-gloved hand to pay off and collect.

Davenport, authoring a piece in Esquire, studied the nuances of the game for 20 years, gives bettors "the tools with which one can accurately evaluate when major league teams will win and when they will lose."

The first mandatory rule of his system is: Never bet on a team unless it has won its preceding game.

Baseball is a game of momentum, you see.

Don't get shut out.

Junior Habs Face Elimination

MONTREAL (CP) — Claude Ruel, star Montreal defence man, may be back in action tonight as the Junior Canadiens battle to avert elimination in their Canada Memorial Cup final with Toronto Marlboros.

Canadiens, who went into the series as favorites, trail the Marlboros 3-1 and a loss tonight could sideline them for the season. The winner of the series meets Regina Pats for the Cup.

Ruel suffered a deep gash in his leg here Sunday in Canadiens only victory of the series.

Wynn Stays, Says Al

CHICAGO (AP)—Manager Al Lopez Wednesday denied reports that Cleveland Indians have offered to trade pitcher Early Wynn to Chicago White Sox for outfielder Jim Rivera.

"I wouldn't give up Wynn for two Riveras," Lopez said. "Wynn is not on the block. He is one of the best pitchers we have and I don't intend to tamper with our pitching."

BOXLA PRACTICE

Juvenile B lacrosse players will practice tonight at Stevenson Park at 6.45 instead of Friday night, as originally scheduled.

Fain Real 'Old Pro'; Padres Top Mounties

By United Press

The old pros were the big wheels again Wednesday night in the Pacific Coast League.

Biggest of the men getting rounder was Ferris Fain, the old athlete from the Athletics.

Fain came off the bench in the 14th inning and drove a ball to left field, giving Sacramento a 2-1 overtime win over Hollywood.

Veteran Howie Judson made his PCL debut for Seattle by pitching a 7-2 victory over San Francisco. San Diego beat Vancouver 10-5 and Bob Kerrigan was the winner. And Portland's 6-0 win from Los Angeles was pitched by Bob Alexander and sparked by Jim Baxes.

Vancouver got the home runs but San Diego got the scores in the southerly city.

Jim Pisoni, Angelo Bagres and Gary Robin homered for Vancouver but it did no good against the bunched hitting of the Padres.

Bob Harrison, who had won two without a loss, was dumped for the first time and Kerrigan took the win although he needed help from veteran Al Gettel.

R. C. Stevens hammered a home run in the top of the ninth in Sacramento to tie the game for the Stars and the blanks kept coming up until the 14th.

Then Sacramento got a couple of men on base with two out and called on the "old pro." Fain, who won a couple of batting championships and won another game by pushing a single.

Harvey Must Answer To NHL President

MONTREAL (CP)—President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League said Wednesday he has asked for a meeting with Doug Harvey, Montreal Canadiens defenceman to discuss a fracas involving a spectator during the Stanley Cup playoffs in Detroit.

Steve Kemeny, 37, a spectator at the April 5 game between Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings, claimed Harvey struck him in the face with a stick. Kemeny said the alleged assault followed his heckling of the star defenceman.

John Heydler, Dies

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—John A. Heydler, 86, former president of the National Baseball League, died Wednesday.

Heydler was actively associated with professional baseball for 50 years and was president of the National League from 1918 to 1934.

He was made honorary board chairman for life when he retired from the presidency because of failing health.

He was considered one of the most forceful leaders the league has had.

WARRIORS-CANUCKS RESUME WHL FINAL

Hockey playoffs resume tonight.

Vancouver Canucks and Winnipeg Warriors meet in the fifth game of the Western League best-of-seven final at Winnipeg, with the series tied at two games each.

In the Eastern final, the Montreal Royals meet the Cataracts at Shawinigan Falls, Quebec, and hold a three-one lead over the Cats. A win tonight would send the Royals into the final.

Lucille Declines Car; Her Fans to Ask Why

ST. JOVITE, Que. (CP) — Olympic skier Lucille Wheeler Tuesday night refused with "deep regret" a sparkling cream and blue car offered her by her home-town admirers.

The pretty Laurentians athlete, who won a bronze medal at the winter Olympics in Cortina, said at a civic banquet that she appreciated the "kind thought and great effort that has gone into its presentation, but I must refuse to accept the car with deep regret as I wish to remain an amateur . . ."

Organizer Leo Girard said he would take "immediate steps" to approach the international Olympics Association on why Miss Wheeler must refuse the auto. He said the car isn't a salary but a tangible expression of appreciation from Miss Wheeler's fans.

IBC Charged With Monoply Of Title Bouts

NEW YORK (UP)—The International Boxing Club goes on trial in a federal court today, charged with monopolizing the promotion of championship boxing bouts in the United States.

Judge Sylvester Ryan was scheduled to preside over the proceedings in the U.S. district court. They mark the third round in the court contest between the government and the IBC, the government having emerged on top after the first two.

Charges against the IBC were originally brought in March, 1952. The U.S. district court for New York gave the first round to the defendant, ruling that boxing, like baseball, was not a business subject to federal anti-trust laws. But ruling was upset by the U.S. supreme court in February, 1955, when it ruled that boxing was subject to these laws.

Canadians Lose

GENOA, Italy (AP) — Paul Willey of Vancouver was eliminated in the second round of the Genoa international tennis tournament Wednesday after getting through the first round.

He defeated Luciano Morelli of Italy, 2-6, 6-3, 6-2, then lost 6-2, 6-4 to Ian Vermaaak of South Africa.

Lawrence Barclay, also of Vancouver, was beaten 9-7, 6-2 by Giacomo Baron of Italy in the opening round.

HIBERNIAN ELIMINATED

EDINBURGH (AP)—Rheims of France defeated Hibernian of the Scottish League 1-0 Wednesday night and qualified for the final of the European soccer cup competition. The French side won on an aggregate of 3-0.

Jimmy Can't Recall Who Got the 10 G's?

OAKLAND, Calif. (BUP)—Jimmy Murray was scheduled to return to the stand today as a state committee sought to find out if the rotund promoter paid manager Al Weill $10,000 "under the table" for world champion Rocky Marciano's services last May.

James E. Cox, counsel for the committee which recently finished investigating the boxing game in Los Angeles, highlighted the first day of northern California hearings Wednesday by confronting Murray with six drafts of financial statements which listed a payment of $10,000 to "A.W." in five cases and "Al Weill" in another.

The so-called "work sheets" were rough drafts which Murray said he and his secretary prepared before issuing a financial statement on the Marciano-Don Cockell world heavyweight title fight in San Francisco last May 16.

Cox also submitted for evidence a checkbook stub showing a payment of $10,000 to "A.W." on the day of the fight, saying that rule 561 in the state boxing regulations bans "secret agreements" between managers, fighters or promoters. Guilty parties face loss of licences.

Murray steadfastly denied making any $10,000 payment.

Murray also said he had "no explanation" how the name of Al Weill" or "A.W." got on to his preliminary drafts.

Bible-Reading Bobby Earns Narrow Decision

CHICAGO (BUP) — Bobby Boyd, a Bible-reading boxer who doffs horn-rim spectacles when he puts on the gloves, wants a middleweight title chance, but until it comes along, he said he would fight "anybody the IBC'll give me."

Boyd won his 10th straight fight Wednesday night with a split decision over rough and ready Holly Mims, Washington, D.C., in the Chicago stadium. But it was an uphill battle after Mims, weighing 156½ to Boyd's 161, counter-punched his way to an early lead.

"He's the toughest guy I ever fought," Boyd breathed in the dressing room. "He could beat Eduardo Lausse, George Johnson and Gene Fullmer all in one night."

Boyd, 22 years old, compared to Mims' 26, went into the scrap with "peace of mind and relaxed" because he followed his usual custom of reading the Bible for an hour before the bell.

"I do it before every fight," he said. "The same chapter every time, but I won't tell what chapter it is. But that's what I read all the time, at night when I can't get to sleep."

Mims skipped the dressing room literature and shadowed boxed instead to warm up. He started the bout in similar fashion, driving right and left hooks over Boyd's guard to pile up points. But he tired after the fifth round and went to the canvas in the sixth when Boyd landed a right-left combination.

NOW IT'S UP TO ROCKY

'Peace Dinner' Ends Norris-Weill Feud

NEW YORK (AP) — The Al Weill-Jim Norris "feud" which both sides insist has been genuine, ended Tuesday night at a "peace dinner" when the future of heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano was discussed.

Weill will leave Thursday for Macon, Ga., where the champion will make an appearance Friday. The manager expects to get some word from Rocky on his future plans.

"I want to talk to Rocky to see what all this retirement stuff is about," said Weill. "I don't know how he feels."

"Maybe he feels he don't want to fight any more. I'll go along with Rocky. If he wants to retire nobody could change him and I wouldn't try."

Weill said Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, called him late Tuesday and proposed a dinner date.

"Jim told me he thought he could make a Floyd Patterson-Hurricane Jackson match if he could be assured that Rocky would fight the winner in September," said Weill.

"I told him I couldn't do anything until I see Rocky."

Norris confirmed his reconciliation with Weill.

Rookie Injured

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP)—Ted Bowsfield, rookie southpaw with San Francisco Seals of the Pacific Coast League, is due home to Penticton after a badly-dislocated ankle cut short his first leap to big-money baseball.

His mother, Mrs. Queene Bowsfield, said Wednesday her son will likely have his foot in a cast for about four weeks. It is possible he will be able to rejoin the Seals later in the season.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prices continued to show irregularity at the close today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, with export business confined to parcels of barley to the United Kingdom and rye to Denmark.

Oats and barley prices held to a narrow range. Oats was mostly a domestic trade, although United States buying came in on occasions.

Overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat totalled 1,605,000 bushels, including: United Kingdom 750,000, Italy 375,000, Soviet Russia 195,000, Germany 185,000 and Belgium 100,000.

Lakehead prices for class 2, IWA and domestic wheat were unchanged except class 2 Durums, which ranged from two to seven cents higher.

CHICAGO

CHICAGO (AP) — A sharp upturn in old crop soybeans led the entire grain market higher on the board of trade today.

Dealings became active on the advance as new seasonal highs were set by all corn and oats futures.

Corn and oats spurted on firm cash grain markets and growing emphasis on the fact corn will receive price support aid this year even if farmers do not comply with acreage allocations. This has not been the case in previous years.

Continued dry weather in the southwest was the main help to wheat.

EARLY COLONIST HAS 18,000 DESCENDANTS

MONTREAL (CP)—In 1645 Jean Trudel arrived here from France and joined other French colonists. Now there are approximately 18,000 of his decendants scattered throughout Canada. Some showed up Wednesday to welcome a second Trudel from France. He is 18-year-old Michel from Montagne-Orne, who plans to live with an uncle—Jules Trudel of Shawinigan Falls, Que. The newcomer is expected to join other Trudels when they gather in Quebec City July 1 to pay tribute to their forefather.

Co-Ordinating Body To Handle Housing

Over-All Agency to Assist All Groups Planning Low-Rental Homes for Aged

Steps to establish a volunteer housing association for Greater Victoria groups planning low-rental accommodation for the aged are being taken by Community Welfare Council.

City welfare administrator William Hooson, committee chairman on housing was appointed at a meeting Wednesday night to seek advice and prepare constitution and by-laws of the over-all agency.

Meanwhile, George E. Williams, Senior Citizens' Campaign Council president, said his group is ready to proceed immediately with plans to construct a 96-unit apartment-type block for the aged.

FINANCIAL AID

First consideration is fund-raising, and tentative plans are to solicit from the public, provincial and federal governments.

Mr. Williams will meet Premier W. A. C. Bennett and contact Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, Esquimalt-Saanich MP, to seek financial aid.

Each unit is estimated to cost $2,400.

Mr. Hooson explained the purpose of the association:

"What we really need is a volunteer housing association in the area to co-ordinate efforts of the many city groups wishing to construct housing for the aged. Each of these would have its own constitution and by-laws and be independently incorporated before it could seek funds.

ACTION GROUP

"The association would do no building itself but would serve as a community action group in the housing field.

"Its sole purpose would be to encourage and demonstrate how the smaller groups can engage in housing development, and by co-ordinating would avoid duplication of projects.

"All forms of government would listen to a group representing all volunteer agencies interested in developing low-cost housing for the aged."

Mr. Williams will assist Mr. Hooson in formation of the association. They will report at the next meeting of the community welfare sub-committee on housing, May 16, at 8 p.m. in Spencerhouse.

Goat Breeders' Publication Searching for New Editors

The Bleat, Canada's oldest goat publication, is in danger of "bleating its last."

Mrs. S. Fisher, Simpson Road, Saanichton, said today the unique weekly paper which originated in Saanich, will be discontinued unless someone takes over the publication.

The weekly paper is now edited by Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Campbell of Port Coquitlam, who announced at the recent provincial convention of the B.C. Breeders' Association they could no longer publish the paper. The convention was held at the Saanichton Dominion Experimental Farm.

For years, Miss Jean Harvey, of Saanich, now retired, edited the goat paper which had a circulation across Canada and the United States.

The Bleat was started 39 years ago and became so famous it counted among its subscribers goat breeders in Spain and other European countries. It was the first of its kind in Canada and was regarded as an authority on the raising and breeding of goats.

Mrs. Fisher said the Goat Breeders' Association hopes the federal executive of the organization, will take over publication.

Mayor Asks $25,000 For Charity

Community Chest officials were told by council finance committee today a bigger civic grant this year might hinge on agreement by neighboring municipalities to contribute proportionate amounts.

Ratio of grants should be based either on a per capita system or on gross assessments in each municipality, the committee felt.

A delegation headed by Chest chairman R. B. Wilson asked the city to contribute $12,000 to the campaign this year in view of population increases and reported increases in delinquency and illegitimate births in the district.

Last year the city gave $2,000 plus $6,000 in direct grants to chest agencies independently. In 1954 the Chest grant was $8,000.

Mr. Wilson said at present the 17-member chest organization has applications for membership from Muscular Dystrophy Association and the Association for Retarded Children. Both are held in abeyance until it is known if more financial aid will be offered the chest this year.

Ald. Austin Curtis said if the city gave $12,000 the surrounding area, based on population should give $12,000 also. Last year Saanich gave $450, Esquimalt nothing and Oak Bay nothing.

Mayor Percy Scurrah suggested the committee have a special meeting and recommend to council distribution of $25,000 to city charitable agencies rather than leave the decision entirely to council as a whole.

He said grants to other than charities should be considered separately.

Ald. Pinfold pointed out that Victorians voted a few years ago to donate up to that amount annually to charities.

"But the former mayor and some aldermen took the view the $25,000 was for all grants including non-charities."

Found: Cure For Those Black Eyes

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind (UP)—Vitamins and enzymes can sharply reduce athletes' black and blue marks, a doctor said today.

Dr. A. Lee Lichtman of New York City's Polyclinic hospital told the Indiana Academy of General Practice that advance treatment with hesperidin, found in citrus fruits, and vitamin C can be used to condition an athlete in advance. Injections of enzyme trypsin can be given immediately after hard contact work, he said.

"Under this regimen, we see bruises that would ordinarily be painful for 10 days subside almost overnight," Lichtman said.

FORMER NKVD OFFICIAL CLAIMS CAN BACK UP HIS CHARGE

Stalin Once Was Czarist Police Spy—That's Why He Purged Pals in 1937

NEW YORK (CP) — Alexander Orlov, a former high official in the Soviet secret police (NKVD), said Wednesday that Joseph Stalin once was a spy for the czar.

"I am certain that secret files showing that Stalin was an 'agent provocateur' for the czar have come into the hands of Khrushchev," Orlov told a press conference.

Nikita Khrushchev, secretary of the Communist party, has the file, Orlov said, "or he wouldn't have downgraded Stalin."

"The decision to expose Stalin as an 'agent provocateur' probably is being weighed now. I am confident Khrushchev will confirm my charges."

The press conference was held in conjunction with the publication in Life magazine of an article by Orlov which he claims gives the details of "the most hideous crime conceivable to the Soviet mind," that of having been a hireling of the czar and his secret police.

Orlov said Stalin's secret was made known to him in Paris in 1937 by his cousin, then a high Soviet secret police officer in the Ukraine.

The cousin told of the discovery by the NKVD among the files of the czarist secret police of reports and letters in long hand which definitely showed Stalin had "long been a police agent of the czarist secret police and was an active one as late as the first part of 1913," Orlov says in the article.

Life also reproduces an original czarist police letter describing Stalin's service to the Okhrana (the czarist police) as early as 1906. The letter, Life says, now is in the hands of the Tolstoy Foundation of New York City.

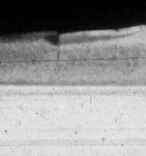

In tracing the manner in which the Stalin letters came to light, Orlov says the NKVD official who discovered the file in 1936 while searching through police files turned the information over to two powerful friends who in turn revealed it to Marshal Tukhachevsky.

A coup was planned to depose the dictator but Stalin got wind of the plot and the result was the great purge of 1937 in which eight senior generals including Tukhachevsky were executed along with thousands of other persons. Stalin, Orlov says, was out to get rid of everybody "who might have conceivably learned about the file." Tukhachevsky's name was recently cleared by Khrushchev.

Orlov himself was ticketed for liquidation and that was one of the main reasons for his defection in 1938, he said. He said after he came to the United States, he wrote to Stalin saying he would make public the charges through his lawyer if anything happened to his relatives in Russia.

Orlov contends that the current Soviet leaders have been made aware of Stalin's "most guilty secret" by someone—"Mostly likely Marshal Zhukov"—and that is the reason they started the campaign to deflate Stalin.

Inspector Warns Students

NANAIMO—High school students who took part in a protest meeting Wednesday at the school were warned today in a message from school inspector Claude Campbell they will be expelled for any further insubordination.

More than 200 of the 600-odd students enrolled staged a demonstration Wednesday morning by leaving their classes in what they called a protest against the "lack of co-operation" shown by the principal, J. B. Litch.

They refused to return to classes until a group of trustees, who appeared at the meeting in person, promised them a hearing by the school board.

A delegation of seven grade 11 and 12 students, led by Brian Kane, who also led the demonstration, met with trustees Wednesday night. Following the meeting the trustees announced they would ask the

'PET' COON TURNS ON TWO-LEGGED FRIENDS

Call of wild sent pet raccoon on rampage in home of Mrs. Velma Flewin, Glen Lake, right, Wednesday and resulted in severe bites to Mrs. Flewin, son James, nine, and daughter Sharry, three. 'Coon had been treated by children as gentle pet; let into house, it suddenly bit Sharry on face; Mrs. Flewin snatched up the girl, ran out of the house; 'coon pursued, biting her ankles; James rushed out, armed with stick, drove off 'coon, but not before being bitten on fingers and thumb. Zoo curator Alan Best of Vancouver today warned tamed wild animals often revert to nature, should be treated with extreme caution. "'Coons tame well but revert as they grow older," he said. UN Envoy Gains Holy Land Truce

(AP and UP Dispatches)

JERUSALEM—Dag Hammarskjold announced today Egypt and Israel have agreed to an unconditional cease-fire on their borders, effective at 6 p.m. Wednesday, "and from that time on."

The United Nations secretary-general's announcement came through headquarters of the UN Palestine truce commission almost 24 hours after the agreed deadline for an end to the hostilities such as those which flared dangerously two weeks ago.

A UN spokesman said the Israeli and Egyptian governments have notified Hammarskjold that as from 6 p.m. (8 a.m. Victoria time) Wednesday orders were in force on both sides that "no military or paramilitary forces, including non-regular forces, may shoot across the demarcation line or pass over that line for any purpose whatsoever."

MAJOR ACCOMPLISHMENT

The Egypt-Israeli agreement is the major achievement to date of Hammarskjold's peace mission, in which he has conferred during the last 10 days with government officials of Israeli and Egypt, leader of the Arab nations.

The cease-fire will permit Hammarskjold to tackle the core of his peace-mission task —working out a permanent solution to the differences between the Arabs and Irsaelis. He will fly at week's end to new peace talks at the capitals of Lebanon, Jordan and Syria.

Hammarskjold conferred last week with Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser, and during the last two days with Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion.

The apparent easing of tension in the Middle East coincided with these developments:

1. British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd reassured parliament in London that Britain stands firmly alongside the United States and France as guarantors of the peace in the Middle East.

2. U.S. Ambassador Edward Lawson left Jerusalem for Washington for consultations.

3. The foreign ministers of Norway, Sweden, Finland, Denmark and Iceland meeting in Copenhagen were reported to have decided against a joint Scandinavian intervention in the Middle East.

NEW MID-EAST ARMY CHIEF NAMED BY U.K.

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (Reuters)—Lt.-Gen. Sir Geoffrey Bourne, director of operations against the Communists in the jungle war here, has been appointed British commander-in-chief of the army in the Middle East, it was announced today.

The tough, one-armed Bourne made a dual reputation as a ruthless anti-Communist fighter in Malaya as well as supporter of the country's march towards independence.

Getaway Car Driven By Blonde; $5,000 Haul by Two Thugs

VANCOUVER (CP)—RCMP spokesman said police were baffled by a multiplicity of descriptions of the bandits and the getaway car in today's $5,000 bank holdup, and were unable to establish the slightest lead as to identity.

He said descriptions of the bandits range from five-foot-six to six feet, with everything from blond to black hair.

The car was described as being of three different makes, two different models and two different colors.

Police checked out hundreds of cars in the area to no avail.

Two armed gunmen, working with a blonde woman escape driver, today robbed a Burnaby branch of the Bank of Montreal of $5,000.

Vancouver police and Burnaby RCMP officers combined efforts to try to track down the holdup trio.

The two men, armed with "black, snub-nosed revolvers," entered the bank only 15 minutes after it opened.

The blonde woman, believed to be about 22 or 23 years old, waited outside and drove the dark blue, late-model getaway car.

The bank is situated on Boundary road, dividing line between Vancouver and Burnaby.

"PRETTY SLICK"

A service station operator working directly across the street from the bank knew nothing of the robbery until police cars howled to a stop in front of the building.

"They must have been pretty slick," said Ellis Johnson, ". . . I didn't even hear a shout or see a car pull away."

Reg Carter, another witness, said the men "jumped into the car and the girl drove away . . ."

The holdup came shortly after five RCMP officers had gathered at a nearby police court to give evidence in the trial of three men charged in the April 3 robbery of a Royal Bank of Canada on the other side of Burnaby.

An RCMP officer, Cpl. Bud Johnstone, killed one of the robbers and wounded one other. He was shot eight times.

Taxes Up Mill or Two Mayor Guesses

Mayor Percy Scurrah altered his earlier prediction of a stable mill-rate today and told a Rotary Club luncheon taxes may go up "one or two mills" this year.

"I don't think council would agree to more. However, figures are not final or complete, so don't say I said so yet," he added.

He said if there is an increase over the present 42½ mill-rate, "for every mill added, your tax bill will go up $4.50 for each $100 in taxes you pay."

He said one mill is now equal to $78,000.

The mayor laid responsibility for the possible increase on "increased costs and needed improvements."

He said he was assured the new Point Ellice Bridge can be built for the $500,000 originally estimated and said this would leave $75,000 in the bridge fund collected from reverted land sales. This, he said, should be used as start of a fund for a new garbage wharf, which he estimated would cost $100,000.

"I'm hoping to sell it to council. We would have ample money to pay cash and not have to ask the taxpayers for any," for the project if reverted land sales are maintained at the present rate.

Soil Bank Approved

Picnic Point Studied As Government Park

Craigflower peninsula is being studied for use as the site of a park for the Greater Victoria area.

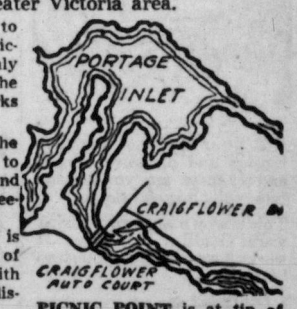

The property, known to campers and swimmers as Picnic Point, has been thoroughly investigated by experts of the provincial government parks branch.

Of great historic value, the property has been offered to the government by Woodland Estates, which holds an agreement for sale.

The provincial government is looking at the possibilities of the peninsula as a park with the capital improvement district commission in mind.

THIEVES GET VALUABLE PAINTINGS AT MONACO

MONTE CARLO (AP)—Monaco's third — and biggest — robbery of the week-long wedding celebration for Grace Kelly and Prince Rainier III was announced today.

Police said five rare paintings valued at more than $95,000 were stolen Wednesday from the home of Dr. S. Mikhaelos, a wealthy resident of the principality.

Earlier jewels totalling $55,000 in value were stolen from a wedding guest and from one of the bridesmaids.

Press ban on meetings of Victoria District Trades and Labor Council was lifted Wednesday night by a two-thirds majority vote of delegates.

NEWLYWEDS SAIL ARM-IN-ARM

Excited Grace Jumps Around

By EDDIE GILMORE

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP) — Film star Grace Kelly and Prince Rainier III sailed away today on their honeymoon, wrapped in each other's arms.

They became husband and wife in the eyes of their church six hours earlier, completing the double-marriage ceremony required in this principality. Then they gaily cut their wedding cake and got aboard the 300-ton yacht Deo Juvante II which Rainier translates as: "God Helps Us."

A crowd of 2,000, which had waited four hours for a last glimpse of the couple cheered the prince and his princess. A bright sun shone down. Pennants snapped in the breeze and whistles and sirens sounded from anchored vessels as the the Deo Juvante slipped out to sea.

The honeymooners stood on the bridge, smiling and waving.

ROCKET SALUTES

Two rockets shot up from lighthouses at the entrance to the harbor and exploded, sending out parachutes carrying American and Monacan flags. Sailors on French, British and American warships gravely saluted.

The prince squeezed Grace's hand and she hugged him. The prince put both arms around her. When she was released, she continued to wave and smile. At one point, she became so excited she jumped up and down.

The yacht, which carries a crew of 11, will take the couple along the Italian coast to Rome for an audience with the Pope on April 25. They also will go to the island of Djerba off Tunisia and Palma on the island of Mallorca.

The bride was serenely composed as she pledged herself to Rainier in Roman Catholic services today.

The 26-year-old film actress and the 32-year-old ruler of this tiny Mediterranean principality answered "oui" in quiet voices as Msgr. Gilles Barthe, Bishop of Monaco, asked each in turn the question of acceptance.

The prince had difficulty putting the ring on the finger of his princess, and she helped him. The ring she gave him slipped on easily.

LISTENS RAPTLY

Grace's ivory gown of peau de soie rare lace, puffed out by three petticoats, billowed about her chair. Her veil was embroidered with rose point lace and thousands of tiny pearls.

She looked raptly at the bishop as he spoke, holding her bouquet in her lap.

The bishop's address was followed by one by the Kelly's family priest, Father John Cartin of Philadelphia, who reminded them of the solemn obligations of marriage and said: "Henceforth you belong entirely to each other."

Pope Pius' special representative, Msgr. Paul Marella, Apostolic Nuncio to Paris, read a message of admonition from the pontiff and extended the papal blessing.

CLOSE TO TEARS

During Bishop Barthe's address the princess swallowed hard and appeared close to tears with emotion. The prince, too, was drawn and tense.

The exchange of vows and blessing took only 10 minutes, but attendant ceremonials and processions stretched out for more than three hours.

Trailing her ivory lace wedding train in the bright Mediterranean sun, the bride walked with measured strides into the white stone cathedral just before 11 a.m. (2 a.m. Victoria time) as bugles blared.

The resplendently uniformed prince, bright with braid and medals, followed a few minutes behind as military bands played and the Monacan populace cheered.

Social Credit Scorned By New Zealand Probe

Royal Commission Finds Witnesses At Variance; Theories of No Use

BY J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—The report of a royal commission on monetary affairs has scathingly rejected Social Credit as a solution to New Zealand's economic programs.

The commission devotes nearly 70 pages of its 500-page report published today to a review of evidence presented by Social Credit witnesses, and comment on their views.

Appointment of the commission was largely due to the surprise 11 per cent vote polled by Social Credit candidates in New Zealand's 1954 general election. This was taken by the government as evidence of public dissatisfaction with the existing system, especially the continued fall in the value of money.

Social Credit organizations presented lengthy evidence to the commission during its hearings, and individuals also presented aspects of Social Credit theories on their own behalf.

DISTORTED PICTURE

Summarizing its findings on the Social Credit case, the commission says Social Credit witnesses were seriously at variance among themselves. They had made significant withdrawals in matters of substance.

The commission says that Social Credit witnesses presented a distorted picture of the state of New Zealand's economy. Their analysis of the country's existing monetary system had been falsely based and seriously erroneous. They had failed to substantiate the submission that there is a chronic gap between purchasing power and prices which is a fundamental proposition of Social Credit.

The only positive proposal for immediate application had been that a national credit authority be set up and a national survey made to ascertain whether a gap existed. Nevertheless, their whole submission rested on the assumption that a survey would disclose that a gap did exist.

On the basis of that assumption, which the commission says was wholly wrong, they envisaged the application to the existing inflationary situation the remedies devised for a situation of depression such as that in the 30's. They had not allowed for the radical change in circumstances since then.

The commission says that there is abundant proof that New Zealand's present problem is not the shortage of purchasing power but an excess of it, and nothing in Social Credit proposals had been designed to meet such a situation.

The commission says that when the resources of a community are overstretched, further issues of money would produce only further pressure on the supply of goods and services, with consequent higher prices and dissipation of overseas exchange. Under present conditions, large issues of debt-free money, as contemplated by the Social Credit supporters, would produce a most serious and chronic inflation and would gravely disrupt the economy.

The report claims that the ultimate objective of Social Credit is the abolition of debt and interest and the substitution of a national dividend for a wage and salary system, which would ultimately result in the abolition of private ownership of property. It adds that the case prepared by Social Credit did not conform to what many people have come to accept as Social Credit theory and policy.

Eden Starts 'Little Summit' Talk With Russ

(CP and UP Dispatches)

LONDON—Russia's Premier Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev today honored Britain's war dead and made a morning round of courtesy calls on the second day of their 10-day visit to Britain.

In mid-afternoon they plunged into a "little Summit Conference" with Prime Minister Eden and Foreign Secretary Lloyd.

It was expected the Russian and British leaders would undertake a sweeping review of the "cold war," particularly the Middle East.

Earlier British officials let it be known Prime Minister Eden intended to give the Russians a stern warning that meddling in the Middle East could touch off a third world war.

LONDONERS COOL

Only small, silent crowds watched the Russians' closely escorted convoy speed through London. Unlike their arrival on Wednesday, there were neither cheers nor catcalls.

Police had a nervous moment outside Buckingham Palace. An eight-year-old boy accidentally dropped his air pistol to the sidewalk. He was immediately surrounded by police and whisked away—but not arrested.

Earlier the police escort hustled away a smartly dressed woman, who shrieked at Bulganin "I want to talk to you" as he emerged from the swank Claridge's Hotel to start the day's drive.

The first call of the day by the Soviet leaders was at the cenotaph in Whitehall. They placed a wreath there, and then drove to Buckingham Palace to sign the visitors' book. The Queen was on an out-of-town visit, but she is scheduled to meet the Russians at Windsor Sunday.

From the palace, the Russians drove back to Whitehall for their formal "arrival" call on Prime Minister Eden required by protocol.

Found: Cure For Those Black Eyes

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind (UP)—Vitamins and enzymes can sharply reduce athletes' black and blue marks, a doctor said today.

Dr. A. Lee Lichtman of New York City's Polyclinic hospital told the Indiana Academy of General Practice that advance treatment with hesperidin, found in citrus fruits, and vitamin C can be used to condition an athlete in advance. Injections of enzyme trypsin can be given immediately after hard contact work, he said.

"Under this regimen, we see bruises that would ordinarily be painful for 10 days subside almost overnight," Lichtman said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The test explosion of a hydrogen weapon at Eniwetok, in the Pacific, which had been set for about May 1, has been put off to May 8 due to "technical difficulties."

provincial education department to conduct a "complete investigation" of the school.

Main protest of the students appeared to be that standards required of student athletes were "too high," that the school administration does not cooperate with the student body, and that the students' council is "under the thumb" of the principal.

Parents of students in the high school, interviewed today, were divided in their opinions on the students' stand.

"I am satisfied that the school does its job with a minimum of fuss," said John Thompson, former alderman and school trustee. "The curriculum and standards are laid down by the department of education, and they are upheld here."

Mrs. J. P. Tully said her daughter had no difficulties with the school, and had expressed no objections as to how the school is run.

"As far as we know, the school does its job," she said.

G. E. Clease, father of one of the youngsters in the delegation visiting the school board, said "I don't feel the kids have been getting a square shake."

"The meeting was a surprise to me," he said, but I think the youngsters will have the support of a good many people around here. They have been hoping something like this would happen to bring matters into the open."

To date the education department in Victoria has had no information from the school board on the matter. Officials said today they would not intervene unless a specific request is received from Nanaimo.

under the bedspread," Constable Wells said.

He said he "ripped" the poker from Pupkowski's hand, placed him on a chesterfield in another room and calmed him down. Pupkowski offered "slight resistance," he said.

Constable Wells said Mrs. Pupkowski told him her husband had spent three or four sleepless nights prowling around "restlessly" and chopping wood in the basement.

Constable Wells said he asked Mrs. Pupkowski if she wished a doctor called. She asked him to leave a doctor's name and she would contact him from work the following morning. Constable Wells testified he left a name with her.

Constable Wells said that when he saw Pupkowski at the residence, he appeared to be "startled, mixed up, bewildered."

Detective Alex Briggs testified he attended at 128 Clarence shortly after 3 p.m. on March 24. He said he found Mrs. Pupkowski dead in a blood-spattered kitchen.

Corporal Joseph Barlow testified he pulled Pupkowski from waters off Dallas Road shortly after 3 p.m. the same day.

. . . PARK

when it starts operation, would like to develop the area," said an official.

He said that if the commission favors the site, the government may take steps to hold the land.

4 MILES OUT

Craigflower Peninsula is located four miles from downtown Victoria.

Some 30 acres are involved.

The parks branch reconnaisance experts highly recommended the entire area as suitable for recreation.

IDEAL

Six small bays, suitable for sunbathing, with a total of 1,300 feet of shoreline suitable for beaches, together with evergreens, and sunny exposure, make the area ideal for park purposes, the government survey showed.

Government officials said they have received "hundreds" of names on petitions asking that the land be acquired.

Wildlife, particularly birds, abound on the peninsula.

The government is also considering the Capital Improvement District Commission as the vehicle for developing two other park areas in the Greater Victoria area—Thetis Lake and Elk Lake.

The government has been asked to take over administration of both parks, but indications are the district commission will be asked to take them over.

Both Elk and Thetis are located close to the metropolitan area of Victoria, and in the past the government has shied away from such parks.

Dozens of other B.C. centres are watching closely to ask the government to take over parks near their borders, if a decision were made to administer the two parks.

Goldstream, at the foot of the Malahat, has also been offered the government as a parksite. Because it is farther from municipal boundaries, and would serve tourists and residents outside of the Victoria area, the government will give Goldstream further consideration.

Every week Borden's is paying $10 for the most interesting recipe—or serving idea—for one of its cheeses. This Week the $10 goes to Mrs. Jean Rousseau of Iberville, Que. She pops a teaspoonful of Borden's E-Zee Cheez into hot baked potatoes—and says her family is very complimentary about the result! She spreads E-Zee Cheez, too, inside hot biscuits with great success (and uses the jar as a glass afterwards!). Send YOUR cheese idea or recipe to me at Confidentially Yours, 1411 Crescent St., Montreal. And do hurry!

I Keep my plastic container of BLUE BONNET MARGARINE at the front of the 'frig—so that I can use it generously and often—and give my family the fine nourishment and delicious flavor that goes with every pound. Add a pat to hot vegetables—to a baked potato—atop a sizzling steak. A pat of Blue Bonnet, for instance, doubles the food energy of a slice of bread. Made from pure vegetable oils and pasteurized skim milk, Blue Bonnet has the essential vitamins and minerals we all should have. You'll readily agree, "Everything's better with Blue Bonnet on it!" Really delicious!
